Price Climb Is Threat to Foreign Aid, Kilgore Says

Any Further Loans To Europe Require Cost Stabilization, Senator Declares

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

If a special session of Congress is called to consider further loans to Europe, high prices in the United States will have to be brought into line in order to stabilize such loans, Senator Harley M. Kilgore (D., W. V.) said yesterday.

Kilgore predicted there would be an intensified drive for the resumption of price controls if Congress is called back into session, unless there is a break in the present rising price spiral.

He injected the domestic price issue into the foreign relief debate at a press conference yesterday, timed to coincide with a renewed Democratic drive against the Republican Party's price policies.

Value of Loan Reduced

If the loans are to be worth anything, Kilgore declared, prices will have to be brought down in order to stabilize "the only medium of international exchange left—the American dollar."

He added that it was well known that the increase in prices here had decreased the value of the British loan by 40 per cent.

Representative Melvin Price (D., Ill.), joining in the attack on prices yesterday, declared: "High prices are not just a political issue—they are a gun pointed at the Nation's economic heart."

In an address before the AFL International Chemical Union convention, Price accused "the greedy desire of monopolistic business" as being primarily responsible for the present high prices.

Business, he said, wants "to feather its own bed now so that it can rest comfortably in a depression" which business sees coming.

"Economic upheaval in the United States," he warned, "would mean economic collapse overseas.

"It would turn the economy of western Europe into a wreckage into which Russia would move to rebuild the ruins into a totalitarian pattern."

Meanwhile the Agriculture Department reported that retail prices of most foods will maintain their present levels or go higher this fall and winter.

The department said that meat prices might decline seasonally during the coming months but would jump upward again next spring.

Schwellenbach Joins Fight

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach disclosed yesterday that he will join in the attack on the Republican price record in a forthcoming series of speeches.

Schwellenbach told a press conference that prices would be among the subjects he would discuss.

He denied, however, that he planned public attacks on the Taft-Hartley labor act at least until about February 22. He told the press conference that he had imposed a six-month gag on public statements about the new law.

The "moratorium" dates from August 22, the day many of the provisions of the statute took effect. The Secretary said he decided on the step because (1) the Labor Department is charged with administering some provisions of the law, and (2) Representative Charles A. Halleck (Indiana), House Republican leader, predicted the act would never work because it would be "sabotaged" by the Executive Branch.

Congress, which is making several studies of prices during the recess, will hear about consumer prices also from its Joint Committee on the Economic Report.

Senator Arthur V. Watkins (R., Utah), chairman of the Western subcommittee, announced a schedule last night of consumer hearings during October.

The subcommittee will hold hearings in the following cities: Denver, Col., October 6 and 7; Salt Lake City, October 9 and 10; Los Angeles, Calif., October 13 and 14; San Francisco, October

VFW Urges U. S. to Build Best Air Fleet

Top Plane Priority Called Surest Curb To Soviet Aggression

Cleveland, Sept. 8.—The Veterans of Foreign Wars today called for the "immediate creation of the world's strongest and most modern air force, both Army and Navy."

Unanimously approving a resolution assigning "first priority" to this aim on the organization's list of objectives, the VFW declared that the air force demanded must be "capable of rapid expansion."

This, in effect, called for the maintenance of an adequate and healthy aircraft industry as an important arm of national defense. Before the VFW's resolutions committee was evidence that currently only about half the number of planes are being built to keep the industry healthy.

Fear Attack by Russia

"Maintenance of American air supremecy is the only certain deterrant to attack by Russia and our greatest hope for peace," the veterans group declared.

The VFW also voted to support the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. This was opposite to the stand taken by the American Legion at its recent convention in New York City.

Another resolution demanding that control of atomic energy be given back to the military was sent back to the committee for further study.

Rev. Michael Haley, past national VFW chaplain, speaking in favor of the atomic resolution, charged that Russia has been "goading" America to war. He asked:

"When shall we use the atomic bomb which God has placed in our hands to enforce peace?"

200,000 See Parade

An estimated 200,000 persons today watched 20,000 of the veterans close their forty-eighth national encampment with a colorful parade.

With the temperature hovering about 90 degrees, more than 60 drum and bugle corps and elaborate floats from every State participated in the five-hour spectacle.

Leading the parade was the famed United States Marine Corps Band, here through special act of Congress, as well as many civic and political leaders including Ohio's Governor Thomas Herbert and Mayor Thomas Burke of Cleveland.

4 Steel Firms Plan to Cut 11,300 Jobs

Shortage of Metal, Result of Railroad Strike, Threatens to Bring Mass Layoffs

Pittsburgh, Sept. 8 (AP).—The four-day-old strike of railroaders employed by a United States Steel Corp. subsidiary tightened steel supplies today and threatened the layoff of about 11,300 workers in other plants.

With more than 15,000 out of 35,000 Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. employes idle in plants here, four fabricating firms readied plans to furlough employes for lack of steel.

The four are the Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., with 5000 employes; Spang Chalfant division of National Supply Co., with 2400; Follansbee Steel Corp., 2400 and Oliver Iron & Steel Co., 1500.

The strike against the Union Railroad Co. has halted the flow of raw materials to and between Carnegie-Illinois plants and also the shipment of finished steel. U. S. Steel officials reported the daily production loss at 20,000 tons of steel ingots.

About 1800 members of the Pittsburgh locals of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers struck Friday in a contract dispute. They were reported seeking a 30-cent hourly pay boost package, including improved vacations and other benefits. Their work stoppage was termed unauthorized by officials of the National Railway Mediation Board in Washington.

Meetings of local strike leaders, mediators and management continued today with a report of "some progress."

Theodore Smith, Oliver Iron president, declared, "a serious decline in the production of fabricated steel products in the Pittsburgh area" is at hand.

Ship Workers Stay Out

Baltimore, Sept. 8 (AP).—Working leaders disregarded a company notice to report for duty at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Key Highway shipyard today, and union officials called the firm's back-to-work movement "a definite fizzle."

Walter Oakes, regional director of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO) reported no attempts by union men had been made to cross picket lines.

As the strike, involving 8000 employes, entered its tenth week, National Counsel M. H. Goldstein of the IUMSWA said negotiations would be resumed in Washington today between union leaders and company officials.

He called the outlook "more optimistic than it has been since the strike began."

Rough Sea Halts Truman Exercise Aboard Missouri

By Frank L. Dennis
Post Reporter

Aboard the Missouri, Sept. 8.—A lively indigo sea which occasionally hurled stinging spray higher than the surrender deck of the battleship Missouri kept President Truman in his cabin most of today.

He had hoped to take a sunbath in trunks but the brisk wind plus spray kept him inside where he napped this afternoon. Even the 55,000-ton Missouri rolled enough to cause many sailors fore and aft to become seasick. However, there's less motion amidships where the President's party lives and nobody was reported seasick there. Two escorting destroyers about half a mile away on either side rolled and dived in and out of seas deeply enough to remind those on the Missouri of dolphins.

The Missouri is 20 miles out of Rio and approximately 540 miles SSE of Bahia at 8 p. m. Monday. Her speed is about 18 knots. She is due to be out of sight of land several days. The Southern Cross is visible from the ship.

Barrett to Ask for 205 Police To Permit Emergency Shifts

A request for more policemen—the second in as many years by as many police chiefs—was Chief Robert J. Barrett's answer yesterday to the Criminal Justice Association's 1946 crime report.

Barrett, observing the association report which disclosed Washington crime reached its highest level since 1937, termed it "fair and impartial."

"I am in complete accord with its findings, particularly those relating to the urgent need for an enlarged police force," he declared.

The Association report showed increases in housebreakings, grand larceny, robbery, aggravated assault, homicide and serious sex crimes. It also reiterated its appeal for an increase in police personnel.

Barrett will seek an increase of at least 205, it was understood, to bring the present complement up to 2000.

His stand echoes not only the Criminal Justice Association's recommendation, but that of the late Police Chief Harvey G. Callahan. Major Callahan in April of 1946 estimated the city needed a force of 2500 policemen "and a general modernization of equipment."

Barrett expressed the need for flexibility in the police force which would allow him sufficient men to drain personnel out of one precinct when an emergency develops in another.

Plans to assign between two and

Reporters to Connect With GOP Leader at Santa Cruz, Calif.

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Two Pullman cars loaded with reporters, radio commentators and cameramen, carrying all the trappings of a campaign trip, headed West last night to join the seven-State tour of Senate "boss" Robert A. Taft.

Taft, who will start his own pursuit of the 1948 Republican presidential nomination in California this weekend, wasn't aboard

The traveling newsmen will hitch up with Taft Friday in Santa Cruz, Calif. Going direct from his summer home in Murray Bay, Quebec, Taft will figure in two bar association panel debates in Santa Cruz before driving deep into the Pacific Northwest.

This will open one of the busiest months in preelection year politics. Before it's out, two Republican possibilities beside Taft—Harold E. Stassen and House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr.—will be criss-crossing through the West, making speeches, shaking hands with party leaders.

In the East, the man who stepped up the strange intra-party contest with his recent political "vacation," will be staying close

Ohio Senator Asserts Reports Will Not Be Ready Before Jan. 1

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) today said he could see no reason for a special session before Congress convenes next January.

Taft said there was "certainly no reason for a special session on domestic affairs" and that information on foreign aid would not be ready for congressional action before January 1, 1948.

He told newsmen at a conference prior to starting on a western tour to determine his presidential possibilities that he and Congress were not sufficiently advised on the foreign situation.

"It will be October 15 before we have a complete report on the European conference and the report of Commerce Secretary W. Averell Harriman on the available resources of this country," Taft said.

"A meeting will then be necessary of the Committee on Foreign Relief. I don't think they will be ready to report before January."

He declared that the British still have "quite a bit of reserves" but naturally would like to know what relief to expect from the United States.

"A lot can still be done without

AFL Leaders Urged to Sign Non-Red Forms

Decision Put Off Until Friday to Check Legal Angles

By Harold W. Ward

Chicago, Sept. 8 (AP).—AFL President William Green expressed the opinion tonight that top AFL leaders would sign non-Communist affidavits in order to use the National Labor Relations Board in jurisdictional fights with rival unions.

A decision was put off by the executive council until Friday morning, Green said, to permit a legal inquiry into a ruling by NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham that AFL council members must sign the affidavits.

Green said the same affidavits were not being required of the 51 members of the CIO executive board and the AFL council members wanted to know the reason.

Denham made the distinction between the CIO executive board and the AFL executive council when he handed down his ruling about three weeks ago. Denham decided that all 15 members of the AFL council should sign because all were vice presidents or other officers in the AFL. The CIO board, on the other hand, is composed of presidents of all CIO unions. Only 11 of them are officers in the CIO.

These 11 CIO officers met in Pittsburgh last Friday and put off their decision in signing the affidavits—and, therefore, using the NLRB machinery—until the CIO convention in Boston beginning October 13.

The affidavits are provided for

Laborites Held Jeopardized as Strike Spreads

Miners' Leader Warns Crisis May Bring Down Attlee Government

London, Sept. 8 (AP).—An industry-crippling strike of British coal miners spread into new sections of Yorkshire tonight in the face of a union warning that the Labor government—if not Britain's economic future—was endangered.

Reaching into West Yorkshire for the first time, the five-week-old strike movement involved 43,000 miners, the national coal board reported. Despite an earlier back-to-work drift in some sections, 26 pits were idle, and 18 others were partially affected.

Arthur Horner, Communist general secretary of the National Union of Mine Workers, said that the fall in production threatened the five-day week which has been in force in the mines since last May, adding:

"If there is another coal crisis such as last winter, it can bring down the government. Lack of coal can bring down any government in this country. It is not even the fate of the government which is involved; it is the fate of the country."

But even as he spoke, miners at four new pits walked out, and although coal trains were diverted from other areas, stocks fell at many factories in coal-rich Yorkshire and working hours were reduced at an increasing rate.

Prime Minister Attlee was expected to discuss the strike at tomorrow's cabinet meeting, called to consider methods of increasing British exports far above previous targets.

Hotel Union Head Arrested

German-Born Alien Held in Red Drive

New York, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The U. S. Department of Justice, moving swiftly in its drive to crack down on alien-born Communist leaders in the labor movement, today arrested Michael J. Obermeier, president of Local 6, Hotel and Club Employes Union (AFL).

Obermeier was charged with "being affiliated with an organization that teaches the overthrow by force and violence of the Government of the United States," by W. S. Watkins, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

He was arrested by Department of Justice agents at the offices of his union, where he submitted without objection.

Obermeier, born in Munich, Germany, 54 years ago, entered this country in 1913.

The immigration warrant upon which the union leader was arrested also charged him with being "an alien who is a member of or affiliated with an organization that writes, circularizes, distributes, etc., written and printed matter advising and advocating the overthrow by force and violence of the Government of the United States."

His bond was set at $1000.

On Saturday, Government officials disclosed that they were going to begin a series of deportation proceedings against alien-born Communists who were active in the American labor movement.

First move in the drive came with the reopening of the six-year-old deportation case against John Santo, international director of organization of the Transport Workers Union (CIO).

Leak on B-29s Narrowed to 3

Russians Obtained Copies of Blueprints

By Drew Pearson

The inside story on the mysterious New York Grand Jury which has been quizzing certain State, War and Treasury Department officials can now be told. The Justice Department is tracking down the leak of war secrets to Russia, including certain blueprints of the famous B-29 bombers and other important Army planes.

Although 15 officials have been quizzed, the guilt has now narrowed down to three men, all minor officials formerly in the War and Treasury Departments.

Here is how the Soviet spy ring operatel almost under the nose of the White House. One Treasury official, formerly with the Agriculture Department, had a photo laboratory in Silver Spring, Md. He worked in the Treasury's Procurement Division, which deals with the purchase of supplies.

Two War Department officials—one a major in the Air Corps—who were attached to the Treasury to advise on the purchase of aviation material, are charged with taking blueprints and confidential Army plans out of the Treasury and War Departments to a friend's laboratory, where they were photographed.

Then the photographs, according to Justice Department information, were turned over to a Soviet agent who carried them to New York and gave them to the head of Russia's top secret police, the NKVD. This took place while the war was in progress.

Although the officials involved held minor positions, two handled important aviation secrets and one

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 8 (AP).—British troops disembarked 1206 Jews of the Exodus 1947 today amid scenes of violence, using clubs and their fists to smash resistance of some against landing on German soil.

"This is as bad as Hitler," Jews shouted at the soldiers.

By nightfall the refugees were lodged in a heavily guarded displaced persons camp at Poppendorf, near Hamburg. Thus ended their long journey back to Europe from Palestine waters aboard the British transport Ocean Vigour, the first of three such ships to be unloaded.

Estimates of how many Jews offered resistance varied. Two correspondents permitted aboard the transport said one out of seven—about 175—were subjected to physical pressure. Newsmen watching from the dock saw 50 Jews manhandled. An official British statement said one Jew was hospitalized with head injuries, while several were treated for bruises and other injuries.

Early tomorrow the British plan to unload the second ship of the convoy, returning to Germany 4300 Jews who sailed for the Holy Land from France on July 10, only to be taken in charge eight days later by the British Navy off the Palestine coast.

British officials expressed fear tomorrow's landing would see additional violence.

British authorities banned news photographers from taking pictures today at the docks.

The ban, which is accompanied also by limited restrictions on news reporters, will continue during the unloading of the second ship tomorrow.

Photographers were, however, allowed to make pictures freely

Gold Proposal Distorted By Bevin

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Foreign Secretary Bevin's remark about the "redistribution" of Fort Knox gold was prompted by a very different idea, and a more specific one, which had been making the rounds of high British Treasury officials.

This was a proposal for an American loan of gold to France and other western European countries, intended to lure gold out of private hoarding and restore faith in paper currencies.

The idea was broached during the 16-nation economic conference now meeting in Paris to work out a European program of self-help plus American aid, in accordance with Secretary Marshall's offer of June 5.

The British treasury delegation at Paris reported it to London as an idea worth considering. Bevin heard of it, and promptly misunderstood it or distorted its meaning in an off-hand remark during his speech to the Trades Union Congress last Tuesday.

Incidentally, the story of the Paris proposal explains why an authoritative source in London said on Thursday that the idea was "well worth examining," and

First V-2 Fired From Warship; Explodes in Air

Rocket Experiment Held Success Despite Mechanical Fault

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

For the first time in history, a giant V-2 rocket was fired from the deck of a warship Saturday in the Atlantic, the Navy announced last night.

The 46-foot, 13-ton missile was launched from the flight deck of the 45,000-ton aircraft carrier Midway several hundred miles off the East coast. Naval officials pronounced the occasion "the beginning of a new era in naval warfare."

Seconds after the huge rocket rose nearly vertically from the Midway's deck, however, it exploded in mid-air, causing great excitement in the Navy task force.

While naval spokesman refused to elaborate on the bare statement that the V-2 "traveled about six miles and exploded," The Washington Post was informed that the missile was set for its full range—over 200 miles—and carried no warhead to explode. There was a definite malfunctioning of the rocket, an informed source stated.

Officials familiar with V-2 operations believed that the fuel lines may have clogged—a trouble which has developed in prior trials at White Sands, N. Mex—and that the explosion was caused by the missile's own fuel igniting.

The mishap, however, did not detract from the importance of the test or the demonstration that such operations are practicable at sea. The Navy Department declared that the actual lunching was successful, and Rear Adm. Daniel V. Gallery, assistant chief of naval operation for guided missiles, reported that all special devices designed for shipboard launching had functioned properly.

"This launching," he added, "will mark the beginning of a new era in naval weapons."

The Navy announcement laid particular stress on the fact that the big aircraft carriers "conducted flight operations" immediately after the firing.

A primary purpose of the experiment, it was said, was to determine if large bombardment rockets could be fired from carriers without modifications which would limit

Russia Beaten on U. N. Report For International Atom Control

Lake Sucesse, Sept. 8 (AP).—Two United Nations atomic committees overrode vigorous Russian objections today and approved a report laying down principles for creation and operation of an international atomic control agency.

After losing consistently to a majority o ften delegates in the committees, Prof. Dmitri V. Skobeltsyn of Russia charged that the majority did not desire to achieve unanimous agreement.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada, chairman, promptly reminded him that any country could suggest any changes to the full United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, which will meet Wednesday for final action on the report.

The day's prime developments were:

1. The political committee approved the backbone of the report, made up of six papers dealing with organization and functions of the proposed control agency.

The vote was 10 countries for all six papers and Soviet Russia opposed to all six. Poland opposed five papers and obstained on the sixth.

2. The working committee, made up of the same delegates, approved these papers also, plus all other sections of the proposed report. The vote was the same on the papers.

The committees worked all day against a deadline set by order of the Security Council last March for the atomic commission to produce a second report before the U. N. assembly meets in New York on September 16.

The The work today meant that the delegates finally have agreed upon a draft of what they say is merely a progress report for the council. They plan to continue other phases of atomic discussions

300 Killed In 2 Days as Fierce Riots Sweep Delhi

Police Use Cannon To Quell Fighting; Whole Blocks Ablaze In Twin Cities

New Delhi, India, Sept. 8 (AP).—The twin cities of Old and New Delhi were in a virtual state of siege tonight as police and the military used light cannon, rapid-fire weapons and hand grenades to quell Moslem-Hindu rioting which one high police official said had killed at least 300 persons in two days.

Countless fires, big and small, blazed in the worst affected sections of the old city, where today's rioting centered. New Delhi, which suffered worst yesterday, was fairly quiet today compared with the outbreaks in the crowded bazaar and tenement areas of Old Delhi, where whole blocks of houses were set afire.

Sniping from Rooftops

Heavy firing, which rattled almost continuously during the morning, slackened during the afternoon, picked up somewhat in the early evening, then subsided except for occasional shots.

Adding to the difficulties of those attempting to keep order in the extremely narrow alleys—some barely 15 feet wide—was the sniping from rooftops at the police, the military or members of a rival religious community.

A police magistrate said troops heaved grenades onto rooftops where snipers had been spotted. The magistrate displayed homemade mortars fastened to handhewn wooden stocks which, he said had been captured in one area. He added that some "bad characters" had holed up in buildings and that the military had not been able to drive them out, even with machineguns.

Mass Evacuation Seen

The magistrate said that whereas as earlier refugees in this area were mainly Moslems, evacuees now include members of all religious communities: Moslems, Hindus and Sikhs. Mass evacuations were frequently observed by Associated Press correspondents.

The correspondents watched one caravan estimated at 10,000 moslems pouring out of the Subzi Mandi vegetable market area, one of the worst riot-torn districts in the city.

High Delhi civil authorities said they had tried to avoid the use of rapid-fire weapons until today but were forced to resort to them to control the situation.

Meanwhile, Prime Ministers Jawaharlal Nehru of India and Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan declared jointly that armed bands in the strife-torn Punjab would be shot down if caught red-handed in acts of violence.

Warned by Leaflets

The two Prime Ministers said their respective governments would take all steps necessary to see that officials carried out their orders against the armed bands. Hundreds of thousands of copies of the statements will be dropped by plane in the east and west Punjab trouble areas.

Correspondents saw fires in every section of the city. Apparently individual shops and residences had been selected by arsonists. There were repeated instances in which personal property belonging to Moslems was removed from houses and shops and burned in the streets so that the upper floors of the buildings, occupied by Sikhs and Hindus, would not be damaged.

Arabs Warn U. N. Against Jewish State

Lake Success, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Arab Higher Committee for Palestine declared today that any attempt by the United Nations to enforce a division of Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab countries "will only lead to trouble and bloodshed and probably to a third World War."

Opening the Arab campaign against the recommendations of the U. N. Special Committee on Palestine, a statement from a delegation of the Arab Higher Committee said the plan to partition the Holy Land was "absurd, impractical and unjust."

The Arab Higher Committee for Palestine is recognized by Britain as the official voice of Palestine Arabs. It has equal status with the Jewish Agency for Palestine. The Arab Committee refused to participate in the U. N. inquiry in the Holy Land.

Text of Report Released

"The Arabs shall never allow a Jewish state to be established in one inch of Palestine," the Arab group said. "The only solution acceptable to the Arabs is the declaration of the independence of Palestine a san Arab democratic sovereign state. Not a single Jew will be allowed to migrate to Palestine."

The Arab statement was issued as the U. N. Palestine Committee made public the full text of its report to the General Assembly, recommending partition of the Holy Land, creation of an economic union, establishment of Jerusalem as an autonomous city under U. N. trusteeship, and the admission of 150,000 Jewish immigrants in a two-year period.

The committee report declared that, meanwhile, the U. N. should consider immediate help for 250,000 distressed European Jews now in detention camps, as a means of easing tension on the Palestine problem.

U. N. committee said that the British mandate is dead and that the restricting of Jewish immigration has created "a deep-seated distrust and resentment against the mandatory power." It summarized the Palestine situation thus:

"The atmosphere in Palestine today is one of profound tension. In many respects the country is living under a semi-military regime."

Pamphlets, Bombs For London Flight Laid to Sternists

Paris, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The Ministry of Justice today formally charged Russian-born Rabbi Baruch D. Korff of New York and eight other alleged members of the Jewish Stern Gang with possessing pamphlets harmful to the French State and materials from which bombs could have been made.

Rabbi Korff, 33, was outraged. He accused Reginald G. Gilbert, a former U. S. Army Forces flier, of having "squealed" and said that he (Korff) had gone on a hunger strike and would not eat again until he was let out of jail.

The Ministry of Justice said Korff had asked Gilbert to drop pamphlets and "some bombs" on London. Korff, Gilbert and Mrs. Judith Rosenberg, 2 23-year-old Hungarian, were arrested Saturday night at Toussous Le Noble near Versailles; Korff had 10,000 pamphlets saying "this is a warning . . . We will carry the war to the very heart of the empire."

Korff was getting ready to step into a small airplane. Surete Nationale agents questioned Gilbert briefly and let him go. A high French official said he had "put the finger" on Korff. The other two were taken off to jail.

"It was Gilbert who squealed," Korff told photographers today as he was being formally charged. (Correspondents were not allowed to get near him.)

"You can tell the American people that we have a battle but we will win ultimate victory," Korff said. "I have been on a hunger strike since my arrest. I will go on until I have been released."

If Korff is found guilty as charged, he is liable to a prison sentence of six months to five years. The other charge carries a

Thtree Others Freed

Besides Gilbert, a young woman was released at the outset of the case and three others were set free today on the magistrate's orders. The young woman who was released about the same time as Gilbert was believed to be the "Olga" arrested when police raided an apartment andfound the makings of the bombs.

It now was clear that the bombs had not been put together.

French police notified London as soon as the plot was discovered and the Royal Air Force put its wartime observation system into operation to intercept any outlaw planes that tried to get across the Channel.

Former U. S. Flier Tells How He Pretended To Be One of Gang, Foiled London Bombing

Paris, Sept. 8.—Oddly enough there are many people who will condemn me for having stopped the planned bombing of London. There are even some whose arguments will manifest themselves in revenge on my person. This air raid was, in particular, planned as a reprisal against the return of the Exodus Jews to Germany. I shall not either challenge or sanction the motives of the Jewish resistance here, but no man in possession of his senses can but question the methods employed.

I had met the perpetrator of the plan some time previously, but the plot really began at 10 p. m. on August 31. I walked into the Hotel Crillon in Paris to keep an appointment with Rabbi Baruch Korff, chairman of an organization of some magnitude devoted to the emigration of Jews to Palestine. I was at once offered the pilot's position in an air operation on the city of London. It took little reflection to realize that if I refused he might very well, at another time and place, get someone else who would actually carry it through. So I accepted. That was my motive—stopping the actions of a man who could win nothing but the revulsion of the Jewish movement he claimed to represent.

Scotland Yard Contacted

The next morning I went immediately to the Scotland Yard representative at the British Embassy. We in turn went to the Paris police. We decided that I should carry out the plot right up to take-off time. The best men were taken off all other cases and assigned to this. Scotland Yard in London was informed of our action and arrangements were made with a Paris airport so that I might easily charter an aircraft for the flight.

From that day on, three French detectives, with a chauffeur in a black Citroen, followed me everywhere I went. Information was compiled on all persons involved, and no one I met from then on was to escape investigation.

But the Stern Gand had its own men on the job. This created the problem of my losing their tail every time I wanted to contact the police. To do this I used the Paris subway system. It was easy enough to get on the subway and get off again at the same station just before it pulled out.

Five Days of Plotting

The next five days that followed were a series of intrigues, plotting, counter-plotting and ruses not unlike the works of the fiction writers.

The second day, through Korff, I met the bomb expert who would construct the six bombs for the mission. They were made from fire extinguisher cases, leaded at one end, filled with gelignite, and containing a home-made electrical detonator. At first the bombs were to be dropped on the House of Parliament. This was later changed to the Foreign Office since Korff has a personal grudge against this office for refusing him a visa to Palestine.

When I suggested that fog might prevent locating the exact target, he told me in that case just to drop the bombs anywhere on London. When I protested that innocent people might be killed, he replied: "They are British, so they're our enemy." It was especially pleasing to the group when I said the plane I had rented had been bought from British surplus.

Many Persons Involved

There were many people involved in the affair whose roles I have not yet figured out. Everyone was kept as separated from the others as possible. No names were ever given, and everyone worked through Korff. He, himself, however, referred several times to instructions from the Palestine high command. This command changed our plans several times.

On many occasions I was used by Korff as interpreter with various French people, which gave me many leads on addresses, names, and a knowledge of the organization. The Jewish underground in Paris is rather well organized but has lots of room for improvement. The French detectives tricked one of the female Sternist agents into letting them see her passport. She was a Greek national and played a part in another affair which took her to Lyons several times. The hotel phone had a strange fascination for her which gave me much information on the telephone numbers of her friends. She spoke French very well, which indicated a long stay in France.

Another agent, a man about 25 with an intense interest in art but a more practical talent for bomb fabrication, was to go with me on the bombing flight. With the six bombs, we had a suitcase full of leaflets explaining the reasons for the air raid.

Flight Postponed

I was to fly over London last Thursday night and drop only the leaflets. On Monday night at 6:30, following the landing of the Exodus refugees, I was to make a second flight, taking along the Stern Gang's bomb expert, who was to drop the bomb. Korff postponed the Thursday flight to Friday, and on instructions from the detectives I stalled that flight off for another night. On Saturday, the French police decided to make all the arrests at once.

During the five days before the raid I had some 15 or so recret rendervous with agents who led me to other agents. They, in turn, took me to various places to inspect the bombs and to be instructed in this thing and that. I was interrogated by some, followed by others, and so it went in a continuous stream of clandestine operations with two factions on my trial. I had to work out a complicated system of signals for the police to let them know in what place the bombs were, where to leave a man to watch, when to meet me at police headquarters and so on. The whole affair was a bit on the international side, with some five or six languages being used in most conversations with groups of agents.

I was told that the best lawyer in France was being employed for me if I needed him, and when the mission was completed I would get a vacation in Switzerland. Accordingly, place reservations for Zurich were obtained and the underground in Switzerland prepared to receive me. After this affair I was to become a permanent member of the Stern Gang and several other jobs were sketched for me that I might me called on to do. One was in Romania, for which I was to try to hire about 10 other pilots to help. And then there were the planned parachute flights to Palestine.

Gilbert Taken to London

London, Sept. 9 (NYHT).—Reginald G. M. Gilbert, the 24-year-old former United States Air Forces pilot who was to have bombed London for the Jewish Stern Gang, was flown here from Paris this afternoon and is to be interviewed at Scotland Yard tomorrow morning.

Gilbert was flown to England in a Royal Air Force plane as a precaution against some reprisal attempt by the Stern Gang.

Extremists Slay Member Of Haganah

Jerusalem, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Extremists ambushed and killed a member of the moderate Jewish underground organization Haganah today as he stood guard near the British army camp at Tel Litvinsky, southeast of Tel Aviv.

The slaying followed by a few hours an attack on a Haganah railroad guard at a Tel Aviv railroad crossing last night. The Haganah man was beaten and his rifle was stolen.

Both incidents were evidence that the extremist Irgun Zvai Leumi and Stern Gang organizations had started to implement their announcement they would not tolerate the recruiting of Haganah men by the Jewish Agency to guard British military camps.

Tonight was the expiration time of a two-week underground ultimatum to Jews to boycott everything British and to start a civil disobedience campaign, including refusal to pay taxes.

Haganah members took posts around the income tax office at Tel Aviv as guards against a possible extremist attack and police armored cars circled the neighborhood.

Jews throughout the country observed a two-hour strike this afternoon in protest against the disembarkation of Jewish refugees at Hamburg.

Speeches were delivered at mass meetings all over the country.

Many Jews fear that the warfare may become open as the result of the approval of Haganah by the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has issued letters of registration to 10 small air transport companies based in Maryland.

The applications were made under new regulations governing the operation of nonscheduled commercial carriers.

The small operators handle both passenger and cargo traffic on a nonscheduled basis, operating anywhere including overseas. They cannot carry passengers to foreign countries after September 10 but can continue to fly cargo.

Those Maryland companies listed by the CAB as having been granted letteers of regi stration are: Crescent Air Travel Service, Hyattsville; Cumberland Airways, Inc., Cumberland; Airfields Operating Corp., Salisbury; Davis Flying Service, Laytonsville; Brinckerhoff Flying Service, College Park; Delmarva Flying Service, Salisbury; Chesapeake Airways, Inc., Salisbury; Hinson, Mitchell Aviation, Inc., Annapolis; Burroughs Air Transport, Hagerstown, and Lebanon Flying Service, Lebanon.

Paris Planners Prepare to Trim 21 Billion Food-Farm Request

Paris, Sept. 8 (AP).—Western Europe's scaled-down report of its food and agriculture needs from the United States during the next four years totaling $21,900,000,000 was sent today to the 16-nation central committee for further pruning.

The central "committee for economic cooperation" will start work on the 43-page report tomorrow. The balance sheet of the subcommittee on inland and maritime transport was completed late this afternoon.

A conference source who requested anonymity said the food and agriculture needs, by far the greatest both in urgency and in amount, were cut from approximately 25 billion dollars to the present figure after warnings a week ago from George Kennan, the United States State Department policy planner.

Western Europe's net annual deficit for the next four years in food and agriculture was set at $5,100,000,000 for 1948, $4,800,000,000 for 1949, $5,600,000,000 for 1950 and $5,400,000,000 for the last year the Marshall program is to operate.

Estimates of the total dollar needs to be requested in the reports of the subcommittees on timber, energy, transport and iron and steel could not be obtained immediately, but the sum of the requirements for all four of those subcommittees was reported to be considerably less than asked by the food and agriculture group.

Western Europe's food situation, the report said, now is worse than a year ago.

"These inadequate food supplies make it difficult to maintain, let alone increase industrial production. Low industrial production deprives agriculture of many of the means necessary to increase the output of food.

"Thus, a vicious circle is created. It can only be broken by a simultaneous increase of imports and domestic production within a framework of general economic recovery," it asserted.

until the get further directions from the council.

The big fight came over a French move to insert in the report a statement that Soviet proposals for an atomic control agency, submitted June 11, had led to the conclusion that "these proposals as they now stand and the explanations given thereon do not provide an adequate basis for the development by the committee of specific proposals for an effective system of international control of atomic energy."

That was based on a Canadian resolution which Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, had resisted stoutly and Prof. Skobeltsyn in turn fought against today.

It was approved finally by a vote of 10 to 0, with Russia and Poland abstaining on that point.

Europe Is Forced To Plan Economy; Mann Declares

New York, Sept. 8 (AP).—Thomas Mann, 72-year-old author and Nobel Prize winner, on his return today from Europe, said, "The system of absolute free enterprise and the capitalistic system of the nineteenth century is no longer possible in Europe."

Mann said, "A certain amount of planned economy is necessary in Europe because of the great destruction caused by the war and the improverishment of the people. America should realize this fact and not try to build Europe up in the old style."

Baltimore, Sept. 8 (AP).—Mayor D'Alesandro has called for action against "filth in restaurants and hoda fountains" in Baltimore.

Jews Clubbed At Hamburg

when the Jews arrived by train at a station near the camp in which they were lodged. Afterward they also were permitted to photograph the Jews in the camp, but by this time the manhandling of resisting refugees was past.

The Jews who disembarked today were reported more peacefully inclined than those on the other two vessels, Empire Rival and the Runnymede Park.

The disembarking began at 6:20 a. m. and was peaceful for the first three hours, when about half of the refugees were unloaded. A radio loudspeaker which had asked the Jews to step peacefully ashore was blaring out music, including "Saturday Night Is the Loneliest Night in the Week."

Then violence broke out in the No. 2 hold, where Jews spurned the invitation to land quietly.

Jews Dragged Off Ship

In full view of correspondents on the quayside, the British troops began beating the resisting Jews with wooden clubs and dragging them bodily down the dock and to the Poppendorf-bound trains.

Vaughan Berry, British regional commissioner for Hamburg, the civilian responsible for disembarkation of the Jews, issued this statement tonight:

"For the first two hours there was nothing more than what the troops called 'passing along.' But then it became evident that just 'passing along' was not by any means going to get the immigrants off the ship and that some sort of force would have to be used.

"A large force of military police was then marched on board. This had an almost immediate effect. Some 30 or 40 of the immigrants were certainly roughly handled. They had to be or they would not have left. The chief fact is that out of 1406 refugees on board, only one actually was injured and whether he received his injury from treatment at the hands of soldier or from hitting his head on a bulwark during the skirmishing is obscure. To my knowledge truncheons (wooden clubs) were not used."

(British officials on the dock put the number of Jews disembarked at 1206.)

Men, women and children were dragged down and dumped on the dock, many kicking and flailing their arms and shouting defiance.

Many of the Jews, frustrated in their dream of celebrating the Jewish high holy days a week hence in Palestine, began to wail.

En route to Poppendorf there was more trouble on the first of the two refugee trains. This train had to stop for repairs of damage done by its refugee occupants, who, British authorities said, tore iron bars out of the windows in attempts to fashion weapons.

The Jews were removed quietly at the rural Kuecknitz station, which was ringed with barbed wire. They were transported on trucks to the Poppendorf Camp. There they were placed behind three rows of barbed wire and under guard of a soldier force.

Edward Morrow of the New York Times and Denis Martin of the London Daily Herald, the two newsmen on pool assignment permitted aboard the transport, said the military police crowded the Jews in the forward hold in order to line them up for funneling through files of soldiers who would hand them up to the decks.

Babies were carried off first, then the adults were taken. Martin said there was some hitting with rubber truncheons in this stage but "nothing very severe."

When operations began in the second hold the Jews began demonstrations. Some refused to move or let the troops take their baggage. Girls spat at the soldiers. At first the soldiers tried to push them into moving, but later resorted to use of clubs.

At one stage a helmeted British soldier came through the dock area calling for more doctors. The music stopped and the radio carried only official announcements.

Sophoulis Invites Check on Amnesty

Greece Will Ask International Body To Guarantee Peace Offer to Guerillas

Athens, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Greek government announced tonight it will invite an international commission to guarantee unconditional general amnesty to guerilla who surrender "as soon as possible."

This step aimed at ended the prolonged and costly warefare in thenorth was disclosed by liberal Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, head of the coalition Liberal-Populist government, in an address prepared for the parliament.

He said that when "pacification" of the country is accomplished new elections will be held.

The 86-year-old premier disclosed also that the government plans to modify the tax system to "throw weight on the wealthy classes" and to hit at the black market through control of production and prices.

Military Action Is Alternative

Sophoulis made clear that if the war in the north does not end he would call upon the nation to "stamp it out" with all measures at its control.

This was an apparent reference to the 300 million dollars in U. S. aid to the Greek government, a portion of which is earmarked for the military.

Sophoulis said that if the guerillas in the north end their warfare the government will also grant unconditional general amnesty to all political prisoners because of alleged anti-government activities will be released.

Even if the rebellion in the north does not end, the government will reexamine "in a spirit of justice and without ideological prejudice the question of those deported," he said.

To Stabilize Currency

He said Greece was fully attached to the United Nations and has full confidence that the international organization will halt the "conspiracies" against her.

When this conspiracy ends, he added, Greece will be ready to "offer a hand" to her northern neighbors—Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia—for peaceful collaboration.

A majority decision by a United Nations subcommission said those three nations were giving aid and encouragement to the guerillas in the north.

Sophoulis said the Liberals and Populists were determined to collaborate until "pacification" is completed and order restored.

On the economic side Sophoulis said currency will be stabilized.

Bevin Proposal on U. S. Gold Misinterpreted Original Plan

hinted that it was linked to the Marshall Plan.

It was indeed linked—but in a way that could never have been guessed from Bevin's choice of the word "redistribution." Here is how the subject of a gold loan arose:

By early last week many of the conferees at Paris had seen clearly that Western European countries had to put their internal financial houses in order if they were to get American help.

Undersecretary Clayton and other Americans had told them again and again that American help would be hard to get, and useless in the long run, unless European budgets were balanced, taxes increased, tax collections tightened up and inflation checked by energetic action on the part of individual governments.

As Secretary Marshall said at Harvard in June, farmers in western Europe are not bringing their food to the cities because they lack confidence in the paper money they get in payment.

Workers in many countries are not working as hard or as long as they should because their pay envelopes no longer buy what the workers need.

The result in France alone is not only a hoarding of goods but of gold, bought in the black market or hidden for years as a reserve in case of need. One estimate—which can only be a guess—is that a billion dollars worth of gold is hoarded in private hands in France.

The Bank for International Settlements at Basle has put the figure even higher, estimating that at the beginning of this year private gold holdings in France amounted to 3000 tons equivalent to 3 billion 400 million dollars.

Even at the lower estimate of a billion, the disgorging of this hoarded gold and its sale at $35 an ounce would more than pay for all the wheat and coal France will need from the United States during the coming desperate winter.

If the French people knew that their government had ample gold, it was argued at Paris, confidence in paper francs would be strengthened and some, at least, of the privately held gold would be lured out of hoarding.

Hence the idea of a loan of gold from Fort Knox—coupled, of course, with strenuous efforts at budget balancing and tax collecting in France and other countries afflicted with lack of public confidence in paper currencies.

The gold involved would not, of course, be used to buy American goods, for that would require the United States to buy back its own gold at the official price of $35 an ounce. The gold loan would supplement whatever dollars Congress might appropriate under the Marshall Plan; it would be held in western Europe as a backing for currencies, and then paid back in gold in a stated number of years.

A wartime precedent for such an arrangement was the loan of 160 million dollars' worth of American silver to India. These shipments, amounting to 226 million ounces, were made necessary by an acute shortage of silver for coinage and industrial purposes.

India had long been accustomed to silver money, and its people were not putting their confidence in paper currency. There was plenty of silver in India at the time, but it was hoarded, chiefly in the treasuries of the princely states.

The loan of silver to India was made the subject of a special agreement, independent of lend-lease, whereby India agreed to return an equivalent amount of silver bullion within five years after the end of the emergency, as determined by the President. The five-year period can be extended for two years, by agreement of the Governments of the United States and India, "if the conditions of the world supply of silver make it advisable."

A similar arrangement was made with Australia during the war for a much smaller amount worth approximately seven million dollars.

No specific figure for the proposed gold loan was mentioned at Paris, according to available information, although the experts there probably were not thinking in terms larger than a billion dollars.

The idea of using American gold for such purposes was not entirely of European origin. As long ago as January, 1945, Prof. Eugene V. Rostow of the Yale Law School wrote in Fortune magazine that the use of American gold was one of the essential methods of promoting world trade after the war.

"During the war," he wrote, "we have made certain specific loans of silver to meet essential war needs, and to combat inflation, under special contracts calling for the return of the amount of silver loaned, in ounces, at a given time after the war.

"Comparable loans of a few tons of gold, calling for the return of the same amount of gold after a period of perhaps 35 to 50 years, might put our excessive gold reserves to work with dramatic, even magical effect.

"With or without change in our bank regulations, we would have ample excess reserves in gold to undertake such a program without restricting the quantity of money available in the United States.

"These transactions in gold would in effect be stabilization loans, without interest, and their terms might be broadly adapted to the particular financial circumstances of the countries involved. . . ."

This, broadly speaking, was the same idea that bobbed up at Paris and came to Bevin's attention just before he spoke at Southport.

Whatever its merits or demerits, the proposal is now being referred to in Paris in the past tense. Its proponents fear Bevin has killed it by using the word "redistribution" in connection with the Fort Knox reserve.

Reds Charged With Fogging Korea Report

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. Albert E. Brown said today that the Joint Commission for Korea has given up an attempt to formulate a progress report because Soviet delegates sought to cloud the issues.

"It was quite clear the Soviet delegation wished to prepare a joint report which would obscure basic disagreements," Brown said, adding that the Russians attempted to remove "all factual statements which accurately portrayed the United States position and explained the essential points of difference.

Brown said the Russians particularly wished to delate from the report all references to the 24 south Korean political parties which they have declared ineligible for participation in an interim government because of antitrusteeship convictions.

Meanwhile, Alexander S. Maslov, a member of the Soviet secretariat, was reported resting comfortably after an emergency appendectomy in the United States Army 377th Station Hospital.

In Washington the scheduled opening of a Big Four conference on Korean independence was postponed indefinitely because of Russia's refusal to attend, and it was indicated the United States would ask United Nations intervention to help establish a provisional government in Korea.

Finds Resentment

Kilgore, returning from a trip through the Midwest told reporters he had found "terrific resentment" against the high cost of living.

"The danger to a Nation like ours when prices are too high is that our own people may revolt against them with demands for a controlled economy," Kilgore stated.

He warned that if prices continue to rise and someone "as Hitler did Germany" promises a controlled economy a following will rapidly develop.

Kilgore recalled that when price controls were lifted, the National Association of Manufacturers and other groups had promised that a free market would result in a normal price level.

"They should now keep the promises they gave then," Kilgore asserted. "Unless industry protects the capitalistic system by being satisfied with normal profits, demands must arise for steps by the Government to improve the situation."

Kilgore insisted that the law of supply and demand could not be counted upon during this crisis because "there is not supply enough to meet the demand in this country along with the needs of Europe, and won't be for some time."

or prevent planes from taking off and landing.

Navy chiefs have put great store by the tests and a host of top defense chiefs were aboard the Midway for the occasion. They foresee a greatly widened use for warships if heavy bombardment guided missiles can be added to their armament.

The Nazis developed the V-2 as a land weapon. Its top range is about 220 miles, and experts report that perfection of a long-range, trans-ocean missile is many years off.

However, if naval carrier forces can carry and fire large bombardment rockets, the range of the V-2 is extended thousands of miles—wherever America's powerful fleets can sail. And they'll carry with them their own aircraft protection, carrier-based planes to shoot down attacking enemy bombers.

Rocket Captured from Nazis

Naval officials refused to answer queries as to whether extensive launching installations were required aboard ship. In the land experiments at White Sands, however, only a steel platform about 6 feet in diameter and 4 feet high is required.

The rocket fired Saturday is one of 100 captured V-2s to be fired by the Army Ordnance Department or loaned to other agencies for test. First of the rockets was launched at White Sands in April, 1946. About 30 have been fired to date, with a maximum altitude of 114 miles being reached.

Saturday's firing, the Navy said, marked the "first time in history that such a large bombardment rocket had been launched from ships or from a moving platform." The firing was carried out by an Army-trained Navy crew, under command of Comdr. P. G. Holt. Rear Admiral J. J. Ballentine was in command of the force conducting the test.

Boston, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Douglas Chandler, 58, former Baltimore newsman, left here today in custody for Danbury, Conn., to begin serving his life sentence for broadcasting Nazi propaganda from Germany during World War II. After 15 years he will be eligible for parole.

Britain and France Held Ready to War On Russia in 1940

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—A Swedish "white book" said today that Britain and France were ready to declare war on Russia early in 1940 and were preparing to send troops at "short notice" to fight with Finland in her losing struggle against the Soviet Union.

Secret war documents published by the Foreign Office said that only Sweden's insistence on maintaining neutrality and her belief that a Russo-Finnish peace was near stopped Britain and France from declaring war.

British Cruiser To Visit Severn

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 8 (AP).—Vice Admiral Sir William Tennant, commander in chief of the British royal navy's America and West Indies squadron, will steam his flagship, the cruiser Sheffield, into the mouth of the Severn River September 30, the Naval Academy announced today.

The cruiser, which boasts more battle honors than any ship of her class, will remain here until October 6. Admiral Tennant and Capt. G. B. H. Fawkes, her skipper, will visit Washington.

The Sheffield embarked marine detaachments at Namsos during the German invasion of Norway in 1940, and later saw action in the Mediterranean and took part in the pursuit and sinking of the German battleship Bismarck.

Rye, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP).—Mrs. Ralph Procter, 45, bled to death last night from a cut in her big toe suffered when a glass fell on her foot and severed a blood vessel. Her husband found the body this morning.

Post Readers Will Follow Taft Trip With Bob Albright

Senator Taft is heading for California, where he will participate in two forums, one on State Rights and the other on Labor-Management Relations. This marks the start of a seven-State trip, which will be reported for readers of The Washington Post by Robert C. Albright.

Albright

The tours of presidential candidates are hardly a novelty to Albright. With Edward T. Folliard, he covered the aLndon, Willkie and Dewey campaigns for The Washington Post, Albright riding for a while with the Republican candidate and Folliard with President Roosevelt, then switching assignments so each could watch the public reaction to both candidates.

The Taft train will be different in this respect: Senator Taft says he is not yet a candidate and will decide after his swing around the country whether to become one. A pre-announcement trip is new, even to a veteran political reporter like Albright.

Practically a native "Washingtonian, since he was born in Alexandria and moved across the river at the age of 2, Albright came up through the District schools and George Washington University. In 1926 he came to The Washington Post as a police reporter, later taking general assignments. In 1929 he moved to the United Press where he worked under Ray Clapper. When The Washington Post started its national affairs bureau in 1933, Bob Albright was chosen to cover the House. For the past 11 years Albright has handled all aspects of Capitol Hill, covering Congress when in session and national politics at all times. During the war he left Washington briefly for the New York office of Time magazine, but found he preferred Washington and The Washington Post.

Newsmen Off To Join Taft

to base. But the "Dewey was here" gag will follow Taft around the circuit. In his recent trip to the Rocky Mountain region, and in his 1944 campaign swing, Dewey hit most of the spots Taft will touch in California, Colorado, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Wyoming.

Taft, on the other hand, is expected to resume the "smoking out" process he started weeks ago, when he joined Harold Stassen in daring Dewey to declare himself on national issues.

Stassen still is the only announced candidate in the race. Taft, who insists the present tour is being made to help him make up his mind and to tell the Far Westerners what Congress really did, won't say whether he's a candidate until early next month.

Taft will carry his defense of the Taft-Hartley Act to the West, even into such labor centers as San Francisco, Portland, Oreg., and Seattle, Wash., on the heels of the first clear political test of the law in the East.

The Eastern test will come today in Pennsylvania's Eighth Congressional District, where the election turns almost solely on the Taft-Hartley issue. National labor leaders have entered the district to back the Democratic nominee, Philip H. Storch, for the vacant seat. Storch has demanded repeal of the law. The Republican nominee, Speaker Franklin H. Lichtenwalter of the State House of Representatives, took the side of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Whatever the outcome in Pennsylvania, Taft will start his trip with a defense of the law in Santa Cruz Bar Association panel discussion. His major speech in support of the Taft-Hartley measure is tentatively slated for Portland, September 27.

Carrying rough drafts of all his speeches from his Murray Bay vacation retreat, Taft will speak on two other major themes, Administration price policies and foreign policy.

His foreign policy speech, probably in Tacoma, Wash., September 25, will receive the most attention. Some will listen with trepidation for a possible first breath in bipartisan unity. If Taft tosses foreign policy into the campaign it will be the first time since the war that it has become a formal issue.

CANCER-LEPROSY LINK DISCOVERED

Jerusalem Woman Finds Connection

Experts From All Over World Arriving for Congress

by MARGUERITE SHEPARD
in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat

A connection between leprosy and cancer, two of mankind's most dread diseases, has been found by a woman scientist of Jerusalem, Palestine. She is Dr. Rivka Ashbel, here for the Fourth International Cancer Research Congress.

Dr. Ashbel, who arrived yesterday, was among the first of several hundred of the world's leading cancer experts who will attend the Congress, the first to be held in eight years. It opens Tuesday and continues through the following Sunday, with headquarters at Hotel Jefferson.

The leprosy-cancer connection, Dr. Ashbel said, is that leprosy, under certain conditions, produces cancer. Infecting hamsters, which are small rodents, with the leprosy bacilli, she found that tumors arose in the animals.

This is the first instance of cancer being artificially brought about by a biological method. Previous methods of inducing cancer for research purposes have been solely with chemical agents.

Few Escape

But a small percentage of the leprosy-infected animals did not develop tumors. After much investigation, Dr. Ashbel found the cancer-free rodents had a certain kind of kidney malady, called cystic kidney disease.

This gave rise to a development which throws important light on future cancer-cure research.

Isolating the bacteria causing the cystic kidney disease, she was able to reproduce the disease at will. And she found that when she gave normal rats the disease, they were 100 per cent immune from cancer, no matter whether she tried to infect them with it by leprosy or chemical methods.

A major drawback was that 50 per cent of the rodents given the kidney disease died of it. But in the surviving 50 per cent there was cancer immunity. Production of the disease in animals which had early stages of tumors "completely wiped out the tumors," she declared.

Kidney Theory

The bacteria causing the kidney disease is not, however, the agent which attacked cancer or gave immunization, she said. But in some form it brings about a physiological change in the kidney which prevents the kidney from supplying something evidently necessary for the growth of tumors, wherever located, Dr. Ashbel believes.

Thus the kidney holds an important clue to cancer, and when that mystery is solved, cancer solution may be much nearer.

Third Phase

In addition to the discoveries that leprosy can induce cancer and that cystic kidney disease can indirectly prevent it—at least in the hamsters—Dr. Ashbel's work has a third phase. That is that by simply transferring benign, or non-fatal, tumor tissue, the benign tissue becomes malignant in steadily increasing proportions.

For example, a rat with a benign tumor would not die of the tumor, but when tissue from that tumor was transplanted to a second rat, the tumor became malignant and the rat eventually died of cancer. With each transplantation to a new rat, the speed of malignancy grew, until with the fifth, death resulted in 19 days.

No Work on Humans

Dr. Ashbel emphasized that she has done no work with humans and doesn't plan any for many years to come, since there is much more to be learned about the whys of her animal experiments.

"But we have reason to believe that what can be done with animals can be done with man," she said.

Trained in the University of Rome, where she received a doctor of science degree, Dr. Ashbel worked later at the Zoological Station in Naples. At present with Hebrew University's department of parasitology, she came to St. Louis from London, where she first publicly presented her work at the International Congress of Physiology.

Gasperi Calls Party Parley On Red Threat

Rome, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—Premier Alcide de Gasperi today called an emergency meeting of his Christian Democrat Party for tomorrow night to discuss veiled Communist threats to overthrow his non-leftist government by force.

Meanwhile, 1,000,000 farmhands walked off their jobs in a demand for wage increases, threatening north Italy's rice crop which is ready for harvesting.

De Gasperi's urgent order for a party meeting followed a speech last night by Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti, who threatened to use "organized force" in defense of "our conquered liberties."

Togliatti, in his most belligeernt speech since the Communists were ousted from the government May 31, told workers at Modena that "armed partisans" might be called "to combat for our liberties, which are now menaced by the policy of the government party."

A "Scratching" Dog Is In Torment

Thousands of dog owners have found this good way to keep their pets from constant scratching, biting, rubbing and digging. Once a week give them a dose of Rex Hunters Dog Powders. These powders usually help to bring prompt ease from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of the dog's skin. The urge to scratch abates—the dog is happier, more contented. No wonder a purchaser writes: "Rex Hunters Dog Powders have given my dog great relief. Many thanks from 'Chink' and self." Why not try them on your own scratching dog. 25c at Schmid's Pet Shop, 941-43 Eye St. N.W., and leading dealers everywhere. (Economy size box for $1.00 only.)

congressional action," Taft said.

The chairman of the powerful Senate GOP policy committee defended the Taft-Hartley labor bill and said he did not believe labor leaders could build up a strong case against it.

"Most provisions of the law offend labor leaders but not the members whom they protect," he said.

Taft said that before Congress meets in January, Republican leaders would have to make up a program giving priority to the necessary items. He expected a busy session.

The Republican Congress will have to take some action on public housing during the coming session but may accept a modified form of the housing bill which failed to pass in the recent session, he said.

General tax reduction will be one of the main items which must be considered in the next Congress, Taft stated. Other measures he mentioned as important included health legislation, the British loan, reciprocal trade treaties and universal military training.

Rising prices will be discussed by the undeclared contender for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination at a meeting of the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco on August 19. He will return to Cincinnati from his tour of the West on October 4.

Taft conferred here today with Ohio Republican leaders prior to leaving tonight for Chicago and the first speech of his tour.

Rival UAW Factions Face Strength Test

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP).—A test of strength between rival factions of the CIO United Automobile Workers, one of the Nation's largest unions, was indicated today as the 22-member international executive board met for its final session before the union's international convention.

Believed high on the board's discussion agenda were:

1. The recent rejection by the union of a proposal to absorb the CIO United Farm Equipment Workers, which would have added voting strength to the UAW left-wing faction at the union's November convention in Atlantic City.

2. The CIO's planned program of ignoring the National Labor Relations Board in dealing with employers and other unions, as a means of protesting the Taft-Hartley labor law.

3. UAW President Walter P. Reuther's request Saturday that price controls be restored by Congress this fall if a special session is called.

4. The proposed Ford contract, now under consideration by Ford UAW locals, particularly with respect to the pension plan backed by UAW Vice President Richard T. Leonard.

Seven members of the board generally support Reuther's rightwing leadership, while the remainder follow the leadership of Leonard, Vice President R. J. Thomas and Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes.

Rejection of the Farm Equipment Workers merger by the union membership was considered generally as a boost for Reuther who, according to most observers, will be opposed for reelection by Thomas.

Reuther was elected over Thomas in 1946 by less than 500 out of the approximately 11,000 convention votes.

today, presiding Inspector Arthur J. Phelan of San Francisco, adjourned the hearing for three days until Thursday, after defense attorney Harry Sacher pleaded that he had not time to prepare a case.

Santo, too, was to be charged with being affiliated with an organization advocating overthrow of the Government by force, immigration officials said.

After the adjournment of the hearing, Santo was released on his own recognizance.

Santo was accompanied at the hearing by Michael J. Quill, international president of the TWU, and by Austin Hogan, president of Local 100 of the TWU. Both men frequently have been accused of Communist affiliation.

Sacher charged the Department of Immigration with ":persecuting" his client.

Santo From Hungary

"They pulled this case out of the hat in 1941 at the time of a bus strike," he said, "and now they are reviving it when there is a threat of another."

At the present time, the TWU has set a strike deadline of 4 a. m. next Friday against the New York Omnibus Co., a strike which city officials fear will snarl the city's traffic hopelessly if it takes place.

Santo came to the United States from Hungary in 1927 as Desiderieu Hammer on a student's visa. The 1941 deportation charges were not pressed and he served three-and-a-half years in the Army during the war.

In 1941, in testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Santo was described as a ranking Communist official by Thomas H. O'Shea, then first vice president of the TWU.

3 Men Arrested In Bel Air, Md., Used Car Fraud

Philadelphia, Sept. 8 (AP).—Three Philadelphia men have been arrested in a $10,635 used car swindle in Bel Air, Md., Lee V. Boardman, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said today.

Boardman identified the trio as Beryl Frank, 23; Louis Marder, 23, and Robert Kneart, 37. United States Commissioner Norman J. Griffin held Frank in $5000 bail on charges of violating the National Stolen Property Act, and the other two in $1000 bail each as material witnesses.

The FBI agent reported Frank opened a checking account in a Philadelphia bank, depositing $20. The three men then went to the Bel Air auction where Frank offered checks for five cars in payment, Boardman said, which the auctioneer accepted after checking with the Philadelphia bank where he was told Hacker Motors had an account.

Red Blood Cells Must Be Kept Up If You Want To Feel Alive

Thousands Now Regaining Old Time Pep, Vigor and Drive By Releasing Vibrant Energy To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Overwork, undue worry, and lack of certain foods often reduces the red-blood strength—and starved, weak, puny blood just hasn't the power to keep up your energy and drive.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that 666 Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the 666 Tonic formula, which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, 666 Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on 666 Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. 666 Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

British Coal Strike Spreads

under the Taft-Hartley labor management relation act. As interpreted by Denham, failure of any AFL or CIO officer to sign the declaration that he is not a Communist would keep all members unions from using the board.

This is important in union jurisdictional warfare because the board decides which union is the bargaining representative after elections among employes.

A union which is not recognized by the NLRB—or has no standing because of refusal of its officers to sign the non-communist affidavits—would be at a disadvantage.

Green reiterated at a news conference that he would recommend signing o fthe affidavits by all union officers, and that the council members "reluctantly" would agree.

Green refused to say how John L. Lewis reacted to his recommendation, but said there had been "thorough discussion" of the subject.

Most speculation centered around the rumored opposition to the affidavits by Lewis. The shaggy-browed United Mine Workers leader has kept silent on his position. Rightly or wrongly, observers attributed the delay to Lewis' opposition.

[In Washington, Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach said he did not agree with a "legal interpretation" of the act by Denham, ruling that the AFL and CIO must file complete financial statements before any of their affiliates can use the board's services. He added that, while he does not agree with this "legal opinion," Denham has final authority on that section of the law. Schwellenbach also said unions are not filing their financial statements "as fast as I had hoped," but that the number filed should pick up in the next few weeks. Charles Straub, assistant to Schwellenbach, disclosed that 60 per cent of the statements are being returned by the Department because of minor errors.—Editor's note.]

The present, however, was gloomy enough, with porterhouse steak retailing in New York at $1 a pound—31 cents higher than a year ago.

Hogs in East St. Louis hit $30 a hundredweight, equaling the all-time record of last October.

Cattle by carcass ranged from 51½ to 54 cents a pound in New York, about 3 cents under the all-time high last fall.

40 GAO War Surplus Desks Stand in Rain on Vacant Lot

The Washington Post

DESKS DESERTED—A reporter of The Washington Post examines some 40 oak desks stored in the open and unprotected in a vacant lot at 119 D st. ne., while the Government Accounting Office, which owns them but doesn't want them, and War Assets Administration, which will have to sell them, debate what to do next

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Down on Northeast D st. in a vacant lot next to a Government building some 40-odd oak office desks are weathering away waiting for somebody to claim them.

Since about August 17 the General Accounting Office, which had them in the first place, hasn't wanted them. It was that weekend that the GAO moved from its offices at 613 G st., and, having nothing else to do with the desks and some other office equipment, stacked them away in the vacant lot next to 119 D st. ne.

According to one of the guards at that building, the desks were then in pretty good condition—at least better condition—than they subsequently became.

Yesterday the desks, which are of oak veneer, were getting sadly warped out of shape at top and side seams, although the drawers still seemed to be in pretty good condition. The desks are stacked top to top.

Tarpaulins Taken Off

FWA, which helped GAO move, originally came across with some old tarpaulins which covered the desks for awhile. But FWA later found another use for its tarpaulins and took them away, exposing the desks and other office equipment to the weather.

On August 20, GAO told War Assets Administration that it had the desks and other office material in the vacant lot—that they were being exposed to weather and that they were surplus.

On August 21, a WAA inspector came around to look at them. WAA rated the GAO surplus as in R-4 condition and worth about $2985. R-4 condition is "next to scrap" in federalese.

Until WAA gets around to disposing of the surplus, WAA officials explained, it is up to the owning agency to keep the material in the same condition as when it was inspected by the WAA.

WAA Can Refuse It

If it comes up in worse condition, WAA can refuse to accept it, or can make the owning agency file a new declaration.

At any rate the desks' papers are now going through the WAA mills and it looks as though the desks are going to be disposed of.

Reason they haven't been "claimed" yet, is that it usually takes about two weeks for due WAA process on surplus property.

WAA can either dispose of such property through on-the-site sale or by storage in a WAA warehouse. There are not sufficient facilities in this area for storage of GAO's castoffs, so probably it's going to be on-the-site sale.

Yesterday a WAA official intimated that aforesaid sale would be coming off soon.

Convict Denies 1931 Murder

Lizzie Jaynes was not slain during the holdup of the Garden Tea Shoppe 16 years ago, it was asserted in a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed in District Court yesterday.

The petition filed by Attorney John M. Holzworth in behalf of Thomas Jordon, 41, now serving a life term at Lorton for the murder, asserts the tea shop cashier was not killed until the following day, and then by a person other than Jordon.

The petition also charges perjury at the trial of Jordon and tampering with the jury. It also cites the case of Edith Dodsworth, indicted with Jordon, but who was freed for lack of prosecution.

Named as defendant to show cause why the writ should not be issued is Donald Clemmer, director of the Department of Correction.

Voluntary Rent Increase Leases Not Popular

Tenants and landlords are not flocking to sign new leases providing for "voluntary" rent increases, according to figures released yesterday by Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon.

The statistics show that only about 6 per cent of the tenants nad landlords under the Rent and Housing Act of 1947—which does not aply to the District of Columbia—agreed on the rent raises in July and August, the first two months of the law's operation.

In the Virginia suburbs of Washington, however, the percentage of agreements ran a bit higher than the national average. The Area Rent Office covering Arlington, Alexandria and Fairfax County reported that 4776 tenants had signed up for higher rents out of some 50,000 under that office's jurisdiction, on the same date used for the national survey. This would amount to more than 9 per cent.

The Silver Spring, Md., Area Rent Office, which handles rent cases under the new law for Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, estimated that about 2000 of the 30,000 renters in the area subject to the act had signed up, which is approximately the same as the national average.

The Maryland office said leases were being filed now at the rate of about 100 a week in the two counties, though the number appeared to have been dwindling recently. In the nearby Virginia office, however, the total as of last Saturday was 5128, which represents about 10 per cent of the units registered in that area.

The Housing Expediter's office said that in most cases throughout the Nation, either the landlord or the tenant apparently has decided to take his chances on what may happen by next March 1, when the present rent controls expire.

Under the 1947 statute, the voluntary deals involving rent increases of up to 15 per cent must include a lease running at least through 1948. The local Maryland office said yesterday that the increases have run anywhere from 1 to 15 per cent as filed with the office, but most of them have taken the full 15 per cent.

four extra men to the Georgetown (Seventh) Precinct when Georgetown University opens also were explained by the chief.

The extra policemen would make up a patrol on Wisconsin ave. and on M st. nw., between 7 p. m. and 3 a. m., he said.

The association's annual report showed a 28 per cent increase in crime over the 1946 figure—6159 cases against 4433. The report added the picture was "typical of the general pattern noted in most metropolitan communities during the past year."

Barrett pointed out that the association had observed the police department "has done a good job—and I feel we have," he said.

He telephoned the association yesterday and expressed his appreciation for the report, he said.

5 Will Study Nitrate Safety

The question of how to handle ammonium nitrate in United States ports without restricting shipments will be placed with a committee of five men, the President's Conference on Fire Prevention decided yesterday.

The committee, to be named by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator and conference chairman, will compile a report from which recommendation will be made.

Ammonium nitrate was responsible for blasts which wrecked Texas City, Tex., April 16, killing more than 470 persons. Another nitrate-laden ship blew up in Brest, France, July 28, killing at least 23.

Representatives of Government departments and chemical companies, underwriters and fire department officials attended the one-day conference yesterday in the Departmental Auditorium, between 13th and 14th sts. on Constitution ave. nw.

Warning that nitrate shipping can be so loaded with bans and restrictions that its shipment could be stifled, General Fleming told the conference that "any more embargoes on nitrate" will put the business 'in a bad fix."

The five-man committee to be named by Fleming within a few days will make an exhaustive study of shipping methods, possible bans on certain ports except isolated munitions points, and safety measures. It will work in close coordination with the Coast Guard and the Government's Departmental Committee. A number of United States ports, including New York, Norfolk and Seattle will not allow nitrate shipments, General Fleming pointed out.

General Fleming quoted Charles F. Brannan, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, in emphasizing importance of nitrate fertilizer in the present world food crisis. A world shortage of nitrogen fertilizer was pointed out by W. A. Minor, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Area's 21st Polio Case Reported

District health officials yesterday reported a 9-year-old Rockville, Md., girl had been listed as Greater Washington's twenty-first polio case this year.

The child was admitted to Children's Hospital September 3. Her condition was said to be satisfactory. Her case was the fifteenth from the suburbs. There have been six District cases.

"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes."... That's why the life insurance companies and their agents are bringing you this series of messages from the nation's foremost authorities, to help you plan for happiness in the handling of your family money. (This is Message Number 20.)

How to meet happiness HALF-WAY!

An authoritative message on how your family can set its goals, and decide what it wants to get out of life...

by MARGARET CULKIN BANNING,
noted Author and Lecturer

Margaret Culkin Banning

HAPPINESS is not just an accident! It can be planned. The family that knows what it wants in life already has taken the first step:

Of course different families want different things : : :

The young Castles (I've changed these names, of course) spend all the money they can on things for their home! Except for their children, their house means more to them than anything else. Every piece of equipment, from the living-room chairs to the washing machine is a family treasure. They buy books too, and albums of records. They have a charming, convenient house, and they are always thinking of ways to improve it.

The Macknights, who live next door, spend much less on their house. They can't afford it; not and take a trip every year. But they figure that both they and their children will get more from meeting new people and seeing new places than from having extra household comforts.

"It all depends on what you want out of life," the Castles say to the Macknights, arguing in a friendly way about which family gets the most. But they agree, with modern tolerance, that each family should make its own plan, according to the temperament and philosophy of its members.

The only ones who miss out all around are those couples who never manage to agree on what they want; or what they are working for. Families like that scatter their energy and their money, without ever seeming to have any satisfactions to show for what they spend.

You can't have everything, nor do you want it. In the last ten years, the ambitions of most young people in America have become simpler, and the way they live shows it. Yet the variety of what they want is wider than ever.

Basically, all young American families want safety. They want no more wars. They want to earn security; too : : : not a million dollars, but enough money for decent and independent living.

Beyond this, young people seek personal goals of their own. Homes, entertaining, travel, hobbies : : : none of these goals is new. None of them need shut out all the others. What is new is that many modern young families know that they must make a choice, and organize their lives accordingly.

It may not always be possible to reach one's goals. But in working toward them there is great unity. If a family has no goals, children and parents live in confusion. After a plan has been made, happiness often comes half-way to meet it!

Dreams can be made to come true, if the family all works together!

How to PLAN for Family Happiness

● Planning what you want in life is only part of sound money planning. You'll be more likely to have enough money on hand when you need it, if you'll follow these few simple rules:

FOR TODAY... The first thing, for most families, is to take care of the larger fixed items such as rent, taxes, insurance, mortgage and installment payments, etc.

So start by adding up all your fixed items for the year, divide by 52, and set aside that amount weekly.

Also every family should have a "rainy day" fund equal to at least four weeks' income. Set aside a little every week until you have that much. Then, you'll know how much you can spend for food, clothing, heat, light, amusements, and so forth.

FOR TOMORROW... We live in a changing world. Family needs and circumstances change . . . living costs . . . taxes. If you have not had your life insurance program reviewed lately, the chances are 2 to 1 that it should be brought up to date.

There are so many ways in which you can use your life insurance, that you should have the life insurance you now own checked to see if it is suited to your needs. This is a service that comes with your life insurance.

The person best equipped to help you with this is the well-trained life insurance agent. Get in touch with your agent, or write your life insurance company. INSTITUTE OF LIFE INSURANCE, 60 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.

Interchange of Statistics Urge as Peace Aid

By Thomas Hardie
Post Reporter

Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, and W. Averell Harriman, Secretary of Commerce, called for the free interchange of international statistics yesterday as a means of promoting world peace.

The occasion was the opening session of the International Statistical Conference at the Shoreham Hotel, attended by more than 600 delegates from 55 nations.

President Truman, through a message conveyed by Harriman, expressed his hopes for "the collection and free exchange of dependable economic and social information concerning all people."

"No Substitute for Facts"

Although making no reference to Russia's absence, together with Burma, Ethiopia and Saudi Arabia, Lie stressed the need of world-wide cooperation by saying, "The task ahead will require the combined efforts of all countries and of all organizations."

The Secretary General declared, that "there is no substitute for facts, for clear and systematically organized facts."

He went on to emphasize what he considered the three indispensable characteristics of adequate statistical systems.

First, he said, the statistics must be "comprehensive and timely," secondly, they must "be carefully organized, comparable from time to time and from place to place," and finally, he said that "it is obvious statistics must be freely exchanged between all those who are working on common problems."

'Statistical Blackout' Cited

Lie pointed out that the world is just recovering from a "statistical blackout" of nearly 10 years' duration, and that no worthy statistics exist today for probably half of the world population. Only tempted crude estimates of their about 25 nations have even at national income, he revealed.

His solution was "concerted action upon important common problems," assuring the delegates that the United Nations is aware of the initiative it must take in this field.

Walter F. Willcox, Cornell professor, who was described by Willard L. Thorp, the presiding officer, as "the dean of international statisticians," was elected yesterday president of both the International Statistical Institute and the World Statistical Congress.

Other officers of the World Statistical Congress named yesterday are Jan Tinbergen, Netherlands, secretary general; A. L. Bowley, United Kingdom, treasurer; and Einar Cohn, Denmark, P. C. Mahalanobis, India, Eduard Szturn De Sztrem, Poland, and Jaques Reuff, France, vice presidents.

Free Exchange Of Statistics Seen As Aid to Peace

The free exchange of accurate statistical information among nations of the world was advocated here yesterday as one of the keys to world peace.

Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations told an opening session of the International Statistical Conference, at Hotel Shoreham, that such exchange of statistics is indispensable to those persons or nations "working on common problems."

Lie said "adequate" statistics must be comprehensive, timely, well organized and all-inclusive to attain their goals. Story on Page 9.

Alexandria Rezoning Plan To Be Opposed

Explosive discusion on a proposal to rezone four blocks of Washington st. (Mt. Vernon Boulevard) in the center of Alexandria is expected tonight at the first fall meeting of the Alexandria City Council.

Those opposed to the rezoning to commercial use of the old part of the city point out that Alexandria's chief claim to fame is its old homes.

The proposal would change to D-2 Commercial all property facing on the 100 and 200 blocks of North and South Washington st. Mrs. Robert M. Reese, 219 S. St. Asaph st., said a petition will be presented at the meeting asking defeat of the measure.

Businessmen favoring the rezoning point out that the growing city needs another business street. They say that Washington st. is already being rezoned piece by piece.

This item is only one of 13 rezoning applications on the Council's 7-page docket. Council will also appoint a member to the School Board to succeed Sidney Weil, who resigned last month.

Council will als ovote on a $110,000 appropriation for construction of a stormb sewer from Prince to King sts. and paving from Prince st. to Diagonal rd. This has already received initial approval.

Inmate Sues D. C. for $20,000 For Two Fingers Lost in Jail

An inmate of the District Jail yesterday filed suit against the District of Columbia for $20,000 damages charging negligence which resulted in the loss of two of his fingers.

A jury trial was asked on the issues involved. The suit was filed for Carter by Attorney John G. Saul.

Carter is currently serving time for violation of a conditional release agreement. He was originally sentenced for housebreaking and larency.

Business License Rush Is Expected

District officials yesterday prepared for a deadline rush of applicants for the new $10 unincorporated business licenses.

Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent pointed out that the deadline for getting the licenses is next Monday. The license requirement was written into the new District revenue law earlier this year.

Assistant District Income Tax Administrator A. F. Brooke estimated about 300 licenses had been issued, with some 15,000 firms expected to be licensed.

GAA Names Slate

5 Indorsed In Arlington School Fight

The Greater Arlington Association indorsed five candidates for the county school board last night to oppose five backed by the Citizens' Committee for School Improvement.

The GAA voted to support Harry W. Cuppett and F. Freeland Chew, incumbents, for reelection in November. Only Chew's nomination received any opposition.

The association's school board candidates are incumbents William M. Smith and Ernest C. Betts, jr., and Dr. Charles P. Cake, president of the Arlington County Medical Association; Ralph M. Kimble, building and loan official, and Ernest T. Gearhart, jr., attorney.

Smith is an attorney and Betts works in the Department of Agriculture library.

The GAA met at Bauserman's Hall, Glebe rd. and Columbia Pike, Arlington, with about 60 persons attending. The organization has fough free election of school board members, supporting, instead, the old appointive system.

J. Foster Hagan, GAA president, opened the meeting with a rebuttal of statements attributed to Dr. Oscar LeBeau, chairman of the citizen's committee, that "GAA will soon make known its five handpicked candidates whom it has secretly supported from the start."

"These candidates are handpicked," declared Hagan, even before calling upon W. S. Hoge, jr., chairman of the executive committee, to make the nominations.

"For once, Dr. Oscar LeBeau is right," said Hagan. "We would not have the audacity to present these candidates unless they were handpicked. We have carefully gone over the records of the eight candidates left after Dr. LeBeau handpicked his slate, and have handpicked ours."

After Hoge had made the nominations, William C. Gloth, jr., a member of the State Conservation Commission, offered the name of Lincoln Mackey, engineer, in Chew's place. He was seconded by Capt. P. T. Wright, USN (ret.), a member of the executive committee, who said he was not present at the committee's nominating meeting or he would have opposed Chew then.

The vote, taken on Chew and Cuppett's nominations as recommended by the committee, was 31 to 9. The names were not voted upon individually.

Recorded Crime

However one looks at it, the 28 per cent increase in serious crimes in the District of Columbia last year, which has just been reported by the Washington Criminal Justice Association, is a shocking development. There are many explanations at hand. General unrest following the war has encouraged criminal tendencies. More weapons are in the hands of the people and thus become available to criminals. Some displaced war workers have turned to crime and a vast number of young men in the age groups to which crime makes its greatest appeal have been released from the armed forces. Many juvenile delinquents who got off the beam in the troubled war years have now extended their operations into the big crime category. When all these explanations have been added together, however, they do not minimize the frightfulness of 6159 serious crimes within a single year in a city the size of Washington.

To all who followed The Washington's Post's expose of unreported crimes, moreover, there must come a question as to whether the Criminal Justice Association has obtained a complete picture of last year's lawlessness in the categories of crime with which it deals. The association says that its findings are based on reports "obtained from police teletype records and incidental reports to the Police Department." The survey conducted by our investigators disclosed many crimes not covered by those records during the period of this report. The extent of the hidden crime presumably will not be known until and unless it is revealed by a congressional investigation. But citizens who are disturbed by this catalogue of 2826 housebreakings, 1455 grand larcenies, 886 robberies, 653 aggravated assaults, 106 homicides, and 45 major sex crimes are fully warranted in assuming that the actual volume of crime in the District last year was considerably in excess of these totals.

Nor is there much comfort to be found in the manner in which the community dealt with this problem. By the end of the year the police had cleared only 3500 of the 6159 serious offenses reported by the Criminal Justice Association, or 56.9 per cent of the total. The grand jury brought in 802 indictments and 430 persons were convicted in the District Court. That is rather meager retribution for 6159 reported felonies. To be sure, 1278 cases were referred to the Municipal Court as lesser offenses and 863 of the total number of serious crimes were attributed to juveniles. But when full allowance is made for these cases, the odds seem to be running heavily in favor of the criminal escaping punishment for his lawlessness. The growing volume of juvenile crimes is especially alarming, for unless this problem is properly dealt with the community will be afflicted with an abnormal percentage of its youth growing into manhood with criminal tendencies.

Catholic Action

Apparently there is a world of difference between the June editorials in L'Osservatore Romano and the Pope's address yesterday to the twenty-fifth anniversary meeting of Catholic Action in Rome. L'Osservatore Romano (which, though technically an unofficial organ, is rigidly supervised by the Vatican) seemed to take both Washington and Moscow to task for the sharpening conflict of ideologies. It criticized American rebukes to expansionist Russia as lacking in the spirit of compromise. Many of our leading publicists came in for censure for adding "new motives of tension and preoccupation over an inevitable conflict." But on Sunday the Pope himself spoke in terms of conflict. "The opposing fronts in the religious and moral fields," he said, "are becoming ever more clearly defined," and he called upon Catholic Action to take up the challenge, not in appeasement but in participation.

What produced the same cutting note in the Pope's address as marked the American utterances that his newspaper criticized in June? Obviously the violence against Catholic priests in Istria. One of them was foully beheaded on August 24 by a Communist mob. The act appears to have moved the Pope to a depth of indignation almost without parallel, so far as we can recall, in the present Papacy. We do not for a moment acquit the Catholic Church of blame in the evolution of affairs in Yugoslavia. It is charged with seeming justification that there were Catholic priests in association with the Croatian Fuehrer, the notorious Ante Pavelitch. Nor did we hear the Church raise a voice against Mussolini's repression of the Slovenes in Istria. But the black fact remains that there can be no two opinions on the outrages that caused the Pope to speak out, nor the antireligious propaganda of violence that let the mob loose.

Till lately Tito appeared to be moving in the direction of conciliating the Catholic Church. For instance, he had restored a Catholic publishing house, and was reported to be seeking (without success) the cooperation of Croat and Slovene Catholic peasant politicians. But, as the Pope well knows, these moves were tactical. The fundamental fact in the Tito policy is brought out cogently in R. H. Markham's admirable book, Tito's Imperial Communism. This is the aim forcibly to suppress both Orthodox and Catholic forms of Christianity as the foremost obstacles to his purpose of welding Yugoslav youth into a fanatical instrument obedient to the Kremlin's will. And he sees from a position surrounded by Italy that that will is now brooding ominously over that country, weak and prostrate as never before. Such an aim admits of no compromise, and, accordingly, the Holy See will not stand alone in opposing it.

Mr. Henderson's Success

A man who, as our Mr. Fodor puts it, "admits up to 87 years old" now heads a new Liberal-Populist unity cabinet in Athens. He is the Liberal Themistocles Sophoulis. In spite of his great age, however, Mr. Sophoulis will not be a figurehead—either for his Liberal lieutenants or for the Populists (chief royalist party) who till Mr. Sophoulis entered the administration ran the Athens regime as the dominant element in a conservative coalition. Mr. Sophoulis is the active leader of the Liberal Party. And the ideas for bringing peace to Greece which have been linked with his name are already in the forefront of cabinet discussion. Mr. Sophoulis always has believed that pacification at home should go hand in hand with border control. "A military solution," as he puts it, "cannot liquidate the civil war. Only a political solution, a pacification of the souls can do that." As Premier he intends to put his ideas into practice by extending amnesty to the guerillas on condition that they surrender their arms. The success of such a move, of course, depends mainly upon the confidence that Mr. Sophoulis can command among the Greek people. We believe that this is considerable; Mr. Fodor in The Washington Post yesterday reported that the accession of Mr. Sophoulis was greeted with "unconcealed joy."

Certainly the composition of the Greek Cabinet is destined to add to the magic of the Sophoulis name in inspiring good will. A Liberal, for instance, takes the place of General Zervas as Minister of Public Security. Zervas has been throwing into jail good men as well as bad, Liberals as well as Communists. He called his policy "dynamic," but from this distance it looked fear-struck, and no amount of American aid could have brought back law and order as long as he was allowed to scare into the mountains the liberal Greeks he did not send to the concentration camps. Under Zervas, moreover, a good deal of corruption was condoned. The Liberal who will replace Zervas in this most important post is under pledge to reverse the Zervas policy of repression and persecution.

The administration that Mr. Sophoulis has displaced was headed by Dimitrious Maximos, but the man who held the reins was his Vice Premier, Constantin Tsaldaris. Mr. Tsaldaris reappears in the Sophoulis cabinet as Vice Premier. But a wide gulf is fixed between the power that Mr. Tsaldaris enjoyed in the Maximos government and the power he will hold in the Sophoulis government. He is now committed to collaboration in carrying out the Sophoulis policy in place of his own and that of his henchman, General Zervas. How has this miracle been accomplished? For 37 years the two parties have been at loggerheads, and it was only a few days ago that Mr. Sophoulis was saying that he would not have Mr. Tsaldaris in his cabinet, and Mr. Tsaldaris was saying that he would not dream of serving under Mr. Sophoulis.

The answer is: American diplomacy. It was a shrewd move to send Loy Henderson, head of the State Department's Near Eastern Division, to Athens. Ambassador McVeagh needed help. With all his associations in Greece, perhaps because of them, he was always chary about stepping on Greek toes, though, as we have repeatedly insisted, there is no internal problem left in Greece. Moreover, he had a domestic preoccupation in the illness of his wife. Mr. Henderson seems to have brought the Greek leaders together by a skillful combination of firmness and finesse. It is a pleasure to pay him tribute for a success without which the Griswold mission might have got off on the wrong foot.

Freedom Of Information

The proposed international agreement on freedom of information, prepared for Assistant Secretary of State Benton by Richard J. Finnegan, publisher of the Chicago Times, seems altogether unexceptionable from the American point of view. By that very token, however, it is bound to prove very exceptionable indeed from points of view not rooted in our concept of civil rights or in our concept of the appropriate relationship between the individual and the state. And with such points of view, Mr. Finnegan and his colleagues propose no compromise. "We wish to impress upon you," he wrote to Mr. Benton, "that there is unanimity among the communication media of the United States that we should enter into no treaty with any country on any terms that shrink American practice one jot." In that case, Mr. Finnegan might have spared himself a lot of trouble. For if we are not going to shrink American practice one jot, then we are going to get an international agreement only with those who agree with us already.

The Russians and ourselves look at the press differently. They consider the press an arm of the government; we think of it as an essential check upon arbitrary governmental action. They regard as irresponsible any medium of information that would dare to criticize or run counter to the government which, according to their theory, infallibly embodies an expression of the collective will. In our philosophy, the collective will is something which emerges out of the conflict of opinion, freely expressed through divergent organs—and which is, in any case freely assailable by minorities or even individuals. By freedom of the press, we mean freedom from political—i. e., from governmental—control. When the Russians use the term, they mean freedom from economic—i. e., from private—control. In short, we are talking about different things.

Mr. Finnegan apparently recognizes all of this. No doubt this is why he recommends that "a start should be made with a bilateral treaty." The British, for example, would negotiate such a treaty with us, we suppose, without the slightest difficulty. And perhaps it would be worthwhile to formalize for the world a reciprocal tolerance and liberty which have promoted understanding between Britain and the United States for many years. In any event, not much more is now possible. For Mr. Finnegan is indubitably right in his belief that we simply cannot compromise with principles fundamental to the character of our society.

Mr. Ching's First Task

Cyrus S. Ching has begun his administration as chief of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service with one notable advantage. For the first time, this agency has substantial power to intervene in labor-management disputes and to apply all the devices of persuasion to effect peaceful solutions. If a labor dispute in any industry affecting interstate commerce is threatened, the Federal mediators will not need to wait for one of the parties to invite them to take a hand in it. They may intervene on their own initiative. And they will find both employers and union leaders under legal obligation not only to seek agreement among themselves but also to work with the mediator toward that end. The party seeking modification of a labor contract must also notify the Mediation Service and avoid any strike or lockout for 60 days while the service is using its good offices to effect an agreement.

With these rights and powers derived from the Taft-Hartley Act, Mr. Ching should be able to win for the Mediation Service prestige and influence which it has never before attained. If the new agency is to do its job well, however, it will need something more than a backstop of legal authority. It will need, also, a roster of experts in the art of mediation, and this is an asset that no law can convey. We suspect that the selection of trained and competent personnel for this delicate task will be the most severe test of Mr. Ching's administration.

Edgar L. Warren, former head of the United States Conciliation Service within the Labor Department, which is now merged into the new and independent mediation unit, made considerable progress in reorganizing the staff of conciliators. Efforts in this direction have been handicapped, however, by a number of factors, including political pressure. On the theory that conciliators cannot be properly selected by means of routine examinations, Congress has traditionally kept these jobs outside the classified civil service. The result has been to burden the Mediation Service with political hacks and lame ducks ousted from labor union offices. Of course, the service has a good many able mediators, but the number of untrained, inexpert and unsuitable men representing the United States in this vital work is far too large.

We think it is unfortunate that the Taft-Hartley Act continued to exempt the Mediation Service from the provisions of the civil service laws in selecting its mediators and conciliators. Mr. Ching may decide to make use of civil service machinery in spite of that exemption. At least that would give him protection against pressure from Congressmen, unions and employers to hire inexperienced and unsuitable persons who happen to be in need of a job. We have no doubt that Mr. Ching is keenly aware of this problem and that his warning to the public not to expect miracles was based in part on his realization of the necessity of building up a more competent staff—necessarily a slow process. Whether or not he falls back upon the protection of civil service, it is earnestly to be hoped that he will find means of enlisting men who can represent the United States in labor controversies with more dignity, efficiency and success than it has often been represented in the past.

No More Comrades

The Pennsylvania delegation to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention has an intriguing resolution to purge the organization of the use of the word "comrade" as a form of address. Here is another case of a perfectly good English word becoming so corrupted that members of the VFW no longer feel safe in employing it. The classic example, of course, is the word propaganda. Doubtless the cause of fraternity would not suffer by the dropping of "comrade" from the VFW vocabulary, but it is a pity that there are members of the organization in favor of acquiescing in the Muscovite debasement of our language. If this sort of thing goes on, the Pennsylvania delegation will be launching a campaign among its farmer members to stop painting their barns red.

"A Realistic Approach"

I read with dismay the paragraph in your September 1 editorial "A Realistic Approach" which states that the new plan of increased production levels for Germany will necessitate restrictions on coal exports. Hitherto I have felt that the French were in the wrong to oppose a change in the economic and industrial plans for Germany, and I still think they are wrong if they oppose an increase in coal mining. Europe's primary need is for coal and more coal. However, there seems to be some point to their objections if it is Germany which is to benefit from the additional coal which would be mined.

If all the other nations of Europe were going concerns once more, I should agree that Germany could then begin to rebuild. But quite the contrary is the case. Britain, France and Italy all face enormous difficulties in the form of shortages of all kinds. Coal will help a great deal to get their industrial plants working again, but I fail to see how an industrialized Germany is essential to them until they can trade with her on more equal terms. There may be a desperate need for machinery, which only Germany can supply, in which case, just enough coal should be retained and just enough steel produced in Germany so that the net result is the greatest increase in productivity of the other nations of Europe.

I do not mean to imply that I am in favor of keeping Germany an agricultural country, forever poor and dissatisfied. Far from it. But there are other nations of Europe dependent upon industry for a stable economy, and since there is not yet enough coal available to satisfy all demands, it seems illogical and ungrateful to deprive our friends of it in order to give it to our former enemy.

Rent Increase

This is in reply to the letter of September 2 from the League of Women Shoppers. The letter contains entire sentences verbatim from propaganda releases of a well-known Communist front organization in New York City.

Throughout the world, small, noisy minority groups are busy copying such letters and mailing them for publication. In Russia these groups have control. They've won. And Russia has a miserable, low standard of living. In England, they call it Socialism. Socialism won too. England is broke, and its standard of living is sinking lower every day.

Now, the League of Women Shoppers, in Washington urges that District of Columbia rents stay at 1941 levels, while everything else has doubled in price. It wants the rent line held fast; even while the landlord pays a 30 per cent increase in his taxes.

These Communist front groups and "leagues" know very well that the landlord can't absorb such costs. They know that all rental property will be sold. Even apartments will be sold as separate living units. Present tenants will have to buy them; making downpayment of several thousand dollars, and monthly payments of twice their present rents, for 15 years to come. That's what's happening to tenants in rented houses here. The District of Columbia Housing Agency reports 86 evictions each week. It's either, "buy the place or be put out by the new purchaser."

Communist-front groups know what they are doing. They anticipate wholesale evictions. That will help their purpose of creating great confusion; and great dissatisfaction with our own form of government. That will bring nearer "the day" when the Commies hope to take over the government and give us a deal like England and Russia. JAMES DeBANNON.
New York.

"On Naming Wars"

I am surprised to learn from your editorial of September 2, "On Naming Wars", that there was anyone so uninformed as not to know that the expression "The War Between the States" was merely the short title for "The War Between the Confederate States and the United States". That, to my way of thinking, is far and away the best title to use for that war of conquest which the United States waged upon 13 States, one Territory and an Indian country, known as the Confederate States of America.

Other recognized titles are "The War of the Rebellion", "The American Civil War", "The War of Secession", and "The War for Southern Independence"; but I agree with the learned editor that by whatever name you may call it, it was a "grandiose carnival of blood, agony and destruction."

Since it was a successful war of conquest, the Confederate States were extinguished by it; and, naturally, no peace treaty was in order. In the way of conquerors of all times, the United States deprived the conquered country of self-government and imposed military occupation for as long as it pleased, which was 12 years. If your reader who is seeking surcease from the weather can think of a time when the United States was less magnanimous to a defeated foe, let him speak up.

WILLIAM M. ROBINSON, JR.

Bunch Death

If the citizens of Washington are to retain their self-respect and well-being they can no longer ignore the death wave that has engulfed us. Fatalities resulting from "falls," "broken legs," "minor accidents," "fevers of undetermined origin," etc., have alarmed people who have stood by helplessly while municipal officials have whitewashed the obvious crime of this condition.

The mysterious death of John Forrest Bunch at Gallinger Hospital on August 4 must not go unsolved. The testimony of various witnesses at the coroner's inquest and other peculiar phenomena known to the family of the deceased bear strange resemblance to murder plus criminal negligence by the guardians of our "general welfare." The record of the coroner's inquest gives an indelible impression. The attitude, therefore, that there is "insufficient evidence to prosecute the case" is woefully lacking in civic responsibility and good citizenship.

An examination of the record shows that the late John Forrest Bunch received his fatal injuries while in the custody of the Metropolitan Police. The public, therefore, not only has a right to know why and how the injuries occurred but it is the public's responsibility to find out. It is tragic and almost peculiar that the District Commissioners haven't the time to discuss this "incident" with interested parties.

What seems even more peculiar is the fact that Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy threatened to discipline a member of the family who in sobs of grief referred to her father's death as an injustice. Why was Dr. Murphy so nervous that he exhibited such discourtesy? A coroner's inquest is merely a routine at the expense of the public to aid the family (if any) and render a public service. Perhaps the answer lies in the testimony itself. A thorough and impartial inquest would have revealed more than an "accidental death."

It cannot be stated yet exactly who held the stick that bruised the body of John Forrest Bunch, but until it is solved city officials must bear their share of the responsibility. L. B.
Washington.

"Glass Of Fashion"

The editorial in The Washington Post of September 2 entitled "Glass of Fashion" appears to be of clouded crystal in reflecting that "the per capita consumption of liquor (today) is enormously greater than at any previous time in American history . . ."

Although I have not the very latest data at hand, the Statistical Abstract of the United States, 1946, published by the Department of Commerce gives the following figures as per capita consumption of distilled spirits, malt liquors and wines in the United States. These are in gallons:

| Year | Distilled spirits | Malt liquors | Wines |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1944 | 1.03 | 17.95 | .72 |
| 1943 | 1.11 | 15.94 | .84 |
| 1942 | 1.13 | 14.17 | .79 |
| 1941 | 1.04 | 12.41 | .70 |
| 1940 | 1.02 | 12.57 | .66 |
| 1935 | .70 | 10.45 | .30 |
| 1925 | .69 | | .03 |
| 1917 | 1.62 | 18.17 | .41 |
| 1906-10* | 1.43 | 19.81 | .62 |
| 1896-1900* | 1.12 | 15.53 | .36 |
| 1871-1880* | 1.39 | 6.93 | .47 |
| 1870 | 2.07 | 5.31 | .32 |
| 1860 | 3.86 | 3.22 | .34 |
| 1850 | 2.24 | 1.58 | .27 |

*Average for period.

The foregoing shows clearly that in the "good old days" when the Republic was young and lusty considerably more liquor was consumed than is done today. It will also be observed that we were never a wine-drinking nation and that beer was not an early favorite. No, it was hard stuff that was wanted in those days.

To these figures let me add this quotation from the first annual report of the Maine Temperance Society, in 1833, which gives the consumption of liquor and presumably chiefly, if not almost entirely, hard liquor in a town of 2244 population: "Niscasset . . . sales of liquor in 1827 were 18,729 gallons . . ." That's 8.35 gallons per capita. I'll bet they held it better than we do. F. C. JAMESON.
Washington.

Your "Glass of Fashion" editorial of September 2, quoting from the Catholic Women's Union resolution and from Cardinal Dougherty's letter, will bring heartening encouragement to a host of people long looking toward America's emancipation from the slavery of the liquor traffic.

No single influence has contributed so much to discouragement as the seeming indifference, even antagonism, of the church to a practical solution of the drink evil. When upward of 25 million appeared to be opposed to reform, what chance had even moderate temperance in America?

Now that we see women, boys and girls falling victims to this dreadful menace we are the more convinced that its menace in the past was only conditioned by its numbers of victims, not by their sex. ED. S. REYNOLDS.

Americans In Germany

BERLIN—Americans in Germany live in a world within a world. Geographically it is part of Germany, but in almost every other respect it is as American as Oklahoma.

There are many reasons why this should be so. To begin with, the relationship between conquered and conqueror is always difficult. The pages of history are replete with warnings of what can happen to the conqueror in a vanquished land.

Equally important is the fact that Americans, when they live abroad, carry their own environment with them. They form a kind of protective circle against the strangeness and the foreignness in the midst of which they are living. The heart of that circle, no matter how far from home, is the good old U. S. A.

A recent article in The Stars and Stripes, which sets a high standard for a small newspaper, described the life of American teen-agers in Berlin. It is exactly like the life of teen-agers in any American suburb. Swing, cokes and triple-decked sundaes are important ingredients. One youngster who dated a German girl was promptly ostracized for stepping outside his own world.

THE PARENTS of these teen-agers see some Germans in the course of their duties. But their isolation, when it comes to an understanding relationship with Germans, is almost as complete. In their concern with planning, with statistical data, with orders and directives, they ignore or are wholly unaware of the deeper psychological trends that may in the final outcome prove as important as the level of production.

This, at any rate, is the criticism made by the few Americans here now who knew Germany in the years before the war. The meaning of German politics, now in a critical transition stage, escapes our top officials.

Along with most Americans, they have always considered politics as secondary, a matter of trends and changes today that occur more or less by accident. It is not surprising that they should find little difference between the Socialist Unity Party, which is the Communist-front blessed by the Russians, and the Social-Democratic Party that has ancient roots in Germany's trade union movement.

To be so oblivious is a heavy disadvantage in politically conscious Europe. Germans who were part of the underground resistance to Nazism, who cherish a genuine hatred of totalitarianism, would like to look to America for leadership. But they are given little encouragement and one hears stories from day to day of those who, out of fear, expediency, despair or whatever motive, have gone over to communism.

There are, of course, many Germans ready and eager to exploit the differences between East and West. In Berlin, in particular, they help to spread the feverish rumors that make the atmosphere here so jittery. To sort out these rumors takes more political sagacity and knowledge than most Americans have.

ONE COMPLICATING factor is that the Americans themselves have sometimes been divided on what they wanted to do in Germany. For a long time a feud went on over decartelization of German industry.

On the other hand were earnest liberals who had left Washington with the liquidation of the New Deal. They saw in Germany an opportunity for far-reaching reforms—specifically, for smashing the cartels with their ramifications in every corner of the globe, including the U. S. A. On the other hand were equally earnest and determined men out of business who agreed with decartelization in theory, as part of the policy laid down by Military Governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay, but who insisted that the first necessity was to get the wheels turning.

In the name-calling, in the intriguing and the rivalry, this quarrel was identical with those that have occurred repeatedly in Washington. Both sides, it seems to me, were oversimplifying what is in reality very complicated. If the passing visitor may be permitted one generalization, it is that nothing in Germany is ever as simple as the American theory about it.

The fact that we ourselves are not sure of our direction is a handicap. While we keep our differences within the family, the Germans are aware of them. The contrast is always with the Russians, who exhibit the fine self-confidence and assurance of a glacier.

Cheering Picture

This is just an expression of appreciation and pleasure for your very human and altogether delightful picture of the cute little puppy and dear little girl appearing on the front page of September 4.

When I picked up the paper on the way to the office, I was filled with fear, foreboding and gloom over the plight of all mankind in this hectic world. But when I took a look at the front page and was greeted with the picture of the little puppy and the sweet looking child, somehow I was completely lifted out of the mire of world troubles. Here, indeed, was one of life's nice things and I am deeply grateful to you for your thoughtfulness in putting the story and picture on the front page. Particularly in the morning, when most people need a bracer, this psychological approach hits the bullseye!

You are to be commended upon your fine, alert and altogether efficient photographing staff.

Business License Rush Is Expected

District officials yesterday prepared for a deadline rush of applicants for the new $10 unincorporated business licenses.

Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent pointed out that the deadline for getting the licenses is next Monday. The license requirement was written into the new District revenue law earlier this year.

Assistant District Income Tax Administrator A. F. Brooke estimated about 300 licenses had been issued, with some 15,000 firms expected to be licensed.

5 Indorsed In Arlington School Fight

The Greater Arlington Association indorsed five candidates for the county school board last night to oppose five backed by the Citizens' Committee for School Improvement.

The GAA voted to support Harry W. Cuppett and F. Freeland Chew, incumbents, for reelection in November. Only Chew's nomination received any opposition.

The association's school board candidates are incumbents William M. Smith and Ernest C. Betts, jr., and Dr. Charles P. Cake, president of the Arlington County Medical Association; Ralph M. Kimble, building and loan official, and Ernest T. Gearhart, jr., attorney.

Smith is an attorney and Betts works in the Department of Agriculture library.

The GAA met at Bauserman's Hall, Glebe rd. and Columbia Pike, Arlington, with about 60 persons attending. The organization has fough free election of school board members, supporting, instead, the old appointive system.

J. Foster Hagan, GAA president, opened the meeting with a rebuttal of statements attributed to Dr. Oscar LeBeau, chairman of the citizen's committee, that "GAA will soon make known its five handpicked candidates whom it has secretly supported from the start."

"These candidates are handpicked," declared Hagan, even before calling upon W. S. Hoge, jr., chairman of the executive committee, to make the nominations.

"For once, Dr. Oscar LeBeau is right," said Hagan. "We would not have the audacity to present these candidates unless they were handpicked. We have carefully gone over the records of the eight candidates left after Dr. LeBeau handpicked his slate, and have handpicked ours."

After Hoge had made the nominations, William C. Gloth, jr., a member of the State Conservation Commission, offered the name of Lincoln Mackey, engineer, in Chew's place. He was seconded by Capt. P. T. Wright, USN (ret.), a member of the executive committee, who said he was not present at the committee's nominating meeting or he would have opposed Chew then.

The vote, taken on Chew and Cuppett's nominations as recommended by the committee, was 31 to 9. The names were not voted upon individually.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Cold War IV

THE POLICY of containment, which Mr. X recommends, has to be enforced at "a series of constantly shifting geographical and political points, corresponding to the shifts and maneuvers of Soviet policy." It demands the employment of American economic, political, and in the last analysis, American military power at "sectors" in the interior of Europe and Asia. This requires, as I pointed out in a previous article, ground forces, that is to say reserves of infantry, which we do not possess.

Lippmann

The United States cannot by its own military power contain the expansive pressure of the Russians "at every point where they show signs of encroaching." The United States cannot have ready "unalterable counterforce" consisting of American troops. Therefore, the counterforces which Mr. X requires have to be composed of Chinese, Afghans, Iranians, Turks, Kurds, Arabs, Greeks, Italians, Austrians, of anti-Soviet Poles, Czechoslovaks, Bulgars, Yugoslavs, Albanians, Hungarians, Finns and Germans.

The policy can be implemented only by recruiting, subsidizing and supporting a heterogeneous array of satellites, clients, dependents and puppets. The instrument of the policy of containment is therefore a coalition of disorganized, disunited, feeble and disorderly nations, tribes and factions around the perimeter of the Soviet Union.

TO ORGANIZE a coalition among powerful modern states is, even in time of war and under dire necessity, an enormously difficult thing to do well. To organize a coalition of disunited, feeble and immature states, and to hold it together for a prolonged diplomatic siege, which might last for 10 or 15 years is, I submit, impossibly difficult.

It would require, however much the real name for it were disavowed, continual and complicated intervention by the United States in the affairs of all the members of the coalition which we were proposing to organize, to protect, and to lead and to use. Our diplomatic agents abroad would have to have an almost unerring capacity to judge correctly and quickly which men and which parties were reliable containers. Here at home Congress and the people would have to stand ready to back their judgments as to who should be nominated, who should be subsidized, who should be whitewashed, who should be seen through rose-colored spectacles, who should be made our clients and our allies.

MR. X offers us the prospect of maintaining such a condition indefinitely until—eventually—the Soviet power breaks up or mellows because it has been frustrated. It is not a good prospect. Even if we assume, which we ought not, that our diplomatic agents will know how to intervene shrewdly and skillfully all over Asia, the Middle East, and Europe, and even if we assume, which the Department of State cannot, that the American people will back them with a drawing account of blank checks both in money and in military power, still it is not a good prospect. For we must not forget that the Soviet Union, against which this coalition will be directed, will resist and react.

In the complicated contest over this great heterogeneous array of unstable states, the odds are heavily in favor of the Soviets. For if we are to succeed, we must organize our satellites as unified, orderly and reasonably contented nations. The Russians can defeat us by disorganizing states that are already disorganized, by disuniting peoples that are torn with civil strife, and by inciting their discontent which is already very great.

AS A matter of fact this borderland in Europe and Asia around the perimeter of the Soviet Union is not a place where Mr. X's "unassailable barriers" can be erected. Satellite states and puppet governments are not good material out of which to construct unassailable barriers. A diplomatic war conducted as this policy demands, that is to say conducted indirectly, means that we must stake our own security and the peace of the world upon satellites, puppets, clients, agents about whom we can know very little. Frequently they will act for their own reasons, and on their own judgments, presenting us with accomplished facts that we did not intend, and with crises for which we are unready. The "unassailable barriers" will present us with an unending series of insoluble dilemmas. We shall have either to disown our puppets, which would be tantamount to appeasement and defeat and the loss of face, or must support them at an incalculable cost on an unintended, unforeseen and perhaps undesirable issue.

Hemisphere Treaty

By Sumner Welles

United Nations Strengthened

THE inter-American treaty of reciprocal assistance marks a turning point in the history of the Western Hemisphere. The American republics have succeeded through the efforts they have been jointly making since 1933, when the good-neighbor policy was proclaimed, in building up an inter-American system. Their system offers an invaluable example of how regional agreements can help to strengthen the United Nations.

The treaty guarantees collective action if one American state attacks another. Similar action will be obligatory should a non-American power attack any part of the hemispheric defense zone fixed by the fourth article of the treaty. The use of armed force is reserved, however, to the individual determination of each state.

Article 6, which affords safeguards against Communist or Fascist conspiracies, provides that "if the inviolability of the integrity of the territory or the sovereignty or political independence of any American state should be affected by an aggression which is not an armed attack," the American republics shall consult as to the best means of preserving the security of the continent.

In order to quiet the legitimate fear of the Latin-American states that, while they had no part in determining our policies, they would be expected to resist automatically some aggression against our troops in Europe or in the Far East, this Government agreed that, should such acts of aggression be committed outside of the hemispheric defense zone, collective action in that contingency would depend upon the consent of the other American republics.

THE TREATY eliminates unnecessary delays. Each American republic is permitted to give immediate help to the victim of an aggression within the defense zone, and the governing board of the Pan American Union is authorized to exercise provisional authority until the ministers of foreign affairs can meet. All decisions of this supreme organ of consultations shall be reached by a two-thirds vote.

The obligations of the American republics to the United Nations are emphasized. The regional system is to function "until the Security Council has taken measures necessary to maintain international peace and security." The Security Council is to be informed of all action taken, and the treaty shall not be construed as impairing the rights and obligations of the American republics under the United Nations Charter.

At the Pan American Conference to be held in Bogota next January, an agreement should be reached without much difficulty upon the creation of the military staff committee needed to implement the defense treaty.

A FAR more difficult problem must be solved when the inter-American economic conference is held later next year. If the crisis which now threatens all of Latin America is to be avoided financial cooperation is imperative. The new defense treaty will be of little value unless the American republics are politically stable and economically strong. They can be neither unless they are spared the social upheavals which are the inevitable result of industrial and agricultural stagnation, depression and unemployment. We must realize that, from the standpoint of our own security, the success of the coming economic conference is just as essential as the success of the defense conference in Rio de Janeiro.

Had the State Department's attempt to coerce Argentina, commenced in 1944 and stubbornly continued during the unhappy period of Secretary Marshall's predecessor, not prevented the conclusion of this inter-American defense treaty for two long years, the early history of the United Nations might have been altogether different. For this treaty bolsters the authority of the Security Council. It gives substance to an international organization which has as yet no police force behind it. Had this treaty existed in 1945, the Soviet Union would have had a more realistic understanding of the dangers she would confront if she undertook a course of aggressive expansion, and of the benefits she would derive from a fully implemented United Nations.

Secretary Marshall abruptly reversed the State Department's earlier policy of continental disruption. The present treaty is the fruit of his decision. Credit must also be given to Senator Vandenberg and to Senator Connally who long urged such a change in policy.

It is impossible to overlook the outstanding contribution made by Dr. Ricardo Alfaro. For many years Ambassador in Washington, President, and now foreign minister of Panama, Dr. Alfaro has long played an enlightened and constructive part in inter-American affairs. He has never, however, displayed his great abilities to better advantage than as chairman of the conference's key committee. The successful outcome is due in no small measure to his statesmanship.

WHEN the new treaty is ratified the inter-American system will no longer be merely an aspiration. It will be well on the way to being a reality.

But great an achievement as the treaty is in itself, the effect which it will have in stimulating international organization is even more important. At a moment when peoples everywhere—tragically enough—are once more becoming cynical as to the possibility of ever achieving a democratic and peaceful world order, here is a concrete instance of the ability of 21 countries to strengthen the United Nations by agreeing upon a practical form of collective security. The free peoples of the Americas have set their feet upon the only road that leads to lasting peace.

Shift In Greece

By Barnet Nover

Sophoulis Takes Over

IT IS ELOQUENT of the terrible turmoil and tension that for so many months have plagued Greece that the elevation of Themistocles Sophoulis to the premiership is being greeted in Athens and Washington with undisguised relief and even enthusiasm.

NOVER

This feeling is the product of hope rather than of any certainty as to what Sophoulis can do and will be permitted to do. Sophoulis is a very old man. By his own admission (an understatement according to some) he is not far short of 90 years of age. It is questionable whether he possesses the energy needed to carry out the drastic job of housecleaning which the Greek situation demands.

Moreover, the new Sophoulis regime will, in a sense, be a prisoner of the royalist and reactionary Populists.

The latter have about 40 per cent of the seats in the national legislature. They only agreed to enter the present government, and then very reluctantly, after they had been promised a majority of the cabinet posts. Their leader, Constantin Tsaldaris, holds the dual post of vice premier and foreign minister, just as he did in the thoroughly discredited Maximos government which was recently overthrown.

On the other hand, Sophoulis' own party, the Liberal Republicans, have only 48 places of the 354 in the Assembly.

DESPITE these handicaps and despite the tremendous political and economic obstacles that stand in its path, the new regime in Greece does represent a decided change for the better.

It may mark the beginning of a new and happier day for that harassed, war-born and strife-ridden nation.

In the first place, Sophoulis has the advantage of having been in the opposition during the past year and a half. On him rests none of the responsibility for the harsh and vindictive measures taken by the Tsaldaris and Maximos regimes against dissidents and the failure of those governments to carry out badly needed reconstruction measures.

Thus, Sophoulis is in a position to wipe the slate clean. An amnesty offer made by him to the rebels, the great majority of whom are not Communists, would certainly be trusted far more than a similar offer made by a Populist premier.

In the second place, the elevation of Sophoulis will be regarded by the Greek people as indicative of the determination of the United States to help Greece establish a truly democratic system.

It is not yet clear what role Ambassador MacVeagh, former Governor Griswold and Mr. Loy Henderson of the State Department played in the political developments that recently took place in Greece. The impression is great that the influence of the American representatives in Athens was strongly exerted on the side of the forces of liberalism and democracy in Greece.

UNDER THE BEST of existing circumstances progress toward stability and recovery in Greece will not be easy.

The war left deep scars. The civil strife that has plagued Greece since her liberation has deepened the divisions between the Left and Right. Russian intrigue and intervention in Greek affairs by the Soviet satellite states that are Greece's northern neighbors made a very bad situation worse.

We can take it for granted that the Soviet bloc will not easily give up its determination to make Greece into a puppet of the Kremlin. They are likely to redouble their efforts now that a more liberal regime has been set up in Athens.

Yet the Greek people themselves are weary of civil strife. They want peace. They want to rebuild their shattered homes and their shattered lives.

As long as the Rightists were in power internal harmony was impossible to achieve. A new deal is now possible.

From this point of view the psychological importance of the transference of power from Maximos to Tsaldaris (whose government held office for only two weeks) to Sophoulis is very great and can be highly beneficent.

War Contract Fraud Hearing To Start Today

By International News Service

A House investigating subcommittee will open hearings today on fraud and overpayment in the settlement of war contracts which it said yesterday may have wasted more than one-half billion dollars of taxpayers' money.

The subcommittee staff said that an audit of only 1.5 per cent of all war contracts disclosed fraud and overpayment of more than six millions.

Chairman Bender (R., Ohio), said that the hearings would concentrate first on overpayments, with E. L. Fisher, newly appointed chief counsel of the General Accounting Office, as a witness. Fisher will testify today and tomorrow.

The committee then will go into secret session to hear Justice Department officials on fraud in filing of war contracts. After the initial testimony, open hearings on fraud cases will be held.

Subcommittee members said that the importance of the investigation could be indicated from the fact that 318,000 war contracts had been settled at a cost to the Federal Government of more than eight billion dollars.

Bender said that the hearings would "shield no one who is guilty of fraud or of getting overpayment."

The inquiry was recommended to Congress by Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren.

Subcommittee members said that Fisher, the first witness, would outline 32 cases in which the General Accounting Office had found overpayments.

Surgeons Now Can Remove Parts of Lung

New York, Sept. 8 (AP).—New operations for tuberculosis were described to the American College of Surgeons today by Dr. Richard H. Overholt of Tufts Medical School, Medford, Mass.

This surgery removes lobes of lungs and even parts of lobes. This ability to take out small pieces of lung is a new development.

There are five lobes, three in the right lung, two in the left. Each is a virtually independent section, with its own air and artery blood supply.

Overholt said the risk of removing either a lobe or an entire lung has been so reduced that the dangers in the operation are only a fraction of the perils of the disease itself.

A prediction that the numbers of surgical operations will decrease soon in quite a variety of diseases was made by Dr. Jacob J. Golub of New York.

Those, he said, will be the diseases that can be better cured by preventive medicine, and by remedies from atomic ovens, from radioactive rays, hormones and antibiotics. The latter is a new name in medicine describing remedies like penicillin and streptomycin that come from germs and molds.

Dr. Harold L. Foss of Danville, Pa., said there are too many surgical operations by doctors not well trained, resulting in an "inordinately" high loss of life and in other troubles. He asked the college to set up standards to insure that operations are done only by men competent in surgical fields.

Virginia Safeways Win Beer Licenses

Sale of beer in 26 Safeway stores in the Arlington-Alexandria-Fairfax area was approved yesterday by the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

In announcing approval of the concern's petition for an off-sale license, the liquor board said it could not refuse to grant the permit without setting a precedent which would close "practically all outlets for the off-premise sale of beer in Virginia."

No appeal against the board's action is immediately contemplated, according to Robert A. Ryland, Arlington attorney who represented several groups of Arlington and Alexandria petitioners who had sought to block the permit. However, he said, this may not be final.

The liquor board told attorneys for both the grocery company and the protestants: "We could not consistently refuse to grant an off-premise license to a place where food is sold in the Arlington-Alexandria area without extending this policy to other sections of the State."

Because of the widespread opposition to the application the board reached its decision only after "very serious thought and study," it said. The objectors contended beer should not be sold where food is sold.

Cotton Eestimate Tops 1946 Yield

The Agriculture Department yesterday estimated this year's cotton crop, on the basis of September 1 conditions, at 11,849,000 bales, up 3,200,000 from last year's small yield.

Despite the rise from last year, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said, the crop is expected to fall 550,000 bales short of the 10-year 1936-45 average.

The bureau's crop reporting board said in its monthly estimate of cotton prospects that part of the increase is due to more favorable growing weather in the region east of the Mississippi River.

These conditions, the Agriculture Department added, offset the drought and high temperatures that prevailed in the western half of the cotton belt.

In Mississippi alone, better weather during August increased production prospects by 100,000 bales. Similarly, prospects in other Southeastern States went up correspondingly—Alabama, 80,000 bales; Georgia, 65,000 bales, and South Carolina, 55,000 bales.

The high temperatures and light rainfall in those States tended to limit damage from boll weevils and helped hasten the maturing of the cotton, the department reported.

Texas, on the other hand, reported that dry, hot weather caused the State's prospects to decline by 50,000 bales during August.

D. C. Building Apprentice Lack Assailed

Washington's construction industry is employing an "entirely inadequate" number of apprentices, local builders were told yesterday.

Urging that Washington set an example for the rest of the Nation, William F. Patterson, director of the Labor Department's apprentice training program, called on the Washington Building Congress to "take aggressive steps . . . to insure that all of the construction crafts have an adequate number of apprentices."

He warned, in an address to the WBC at a luncheon meeting in the Hotel Mayflower, that "the eyes of America are on what Washington, D. C., is doing in the construction field."

The primary "obstacle to the advancement of apprenticeship," he asserted, "is the fact that employers . . . can always put forward reasonable reasons why they as individuals cannot" act immediately.

Later he attributed the lag in the District to a "late start." A. W. Lee, president of the WBC, blamed inadequate "cooperation between employer and employes," which, he said, has now been overcome, however.

The WBC, Patterson said in his address, "can be a potent instrument in convincing contractors that it is to their own self-interest to immediately partake to the full in the all-important job of training apprentices."

Patterson praised recent creation of the Washington Construction Apprenticeship Committee and predicted its "consequences . . . will be of far-reaching import." The committee was set up August 20 to encourage more active participation in the apprenticeship program.

Later, Gino Simi, D. C. director of apprentice training, estimated there are now some 400 apprentices employed in the construction industry in Washington. The goal for the city is about 1500, he said.

FCC Hearings Set on Radio 'Editorials'

The Federal Communications Commission announced yesterday it will hold hearings here beginning January 12 on what the national policy should be with respect to "editorializing" by radio broadcast stations.

The announcement said the FCC will:

"1. Determine whether the expression of editorial opinions by broadcast station licenses on matters of public interest and controversy is consistent with their obligation to operate their stations in the public interest.

"2 Determine the relationship between any such editorial expression and the affirmative obligation of the licensees to insure that a fair and equal presentation of all sides of controversial issues is made over their facilities."

Follows Widespread Discussion

The commission said it ordered the inquiry because of widespread discussion in the industry over "the exact meaning" of a 1941 FCC ruling which said in part:

"The broadcaster cannot be an advocate."

It said some radio interests have expressed belief broadcasting stations should have wider freedom of expression than that allowed in the 1941 ruling.

That ruling was made in connection with an application by radio station WAAB, operated by the Yankee Network at Boston, for a renewal of license.

Station's Practice Questioned

The commission questioned the station's practice of broadcasting "so-called editorials from time to time urging the election of various candidates for political office or supporting one side or another of various questions in public controversy."

A commission statement at that time added:

"In these editorials, which were delivered by the editor in chief of the station's news service, no pretense was made at objective, impartial reporting. It is clear—indeed the station seems to have taken pride in the fact—that the purpose of these editorials was to win public support for some person or view favored by those in control of the station."

The WAAB license was renewed only after the editorial broadcasts were discontinued.

Family Gets Water After Five Months

District water flowed into the home of the Unangst family, 1113 South Carolina ave. se., yesterday for the first time since April.

The water was turned on at 3:30 p. m. after John Unangst paid a one-year bill of $63.68. He used money obtained for appearing on a radio program after the waterless plight of his family, including his wife Mary and six children, came to light last week.

Unangst said he got $90 for his radio appearance. After paying the water bill, he said, the rest of the money went for groceries.

He said a two-week unemployment compensation check for $48 is due to arrive today, but that his $45 rent is also due.

District Water Register Raymond Ward said he plans to send inspectors to see if the water equipment in the Unanget home now has any leaks which would lead again to an excessive bill.

A former tenant attributed the high bill to water that leaked when a hot water tank broke about a year ago.

Skyway One Survey Party Starts Air Tour

Fifteen members of the Skyway One survey party left Los Angeles yesterday on a Nation-wide air tour to gather support for the first transcontinental "air turnpike" for private planes.

The tour is expected to be completed in Washington on Friday, when the survey party will be given a welcome dinner at the National Airport. The dinner is to be sponsored jointly by the Board of Trade, the Junior Board of Commerce and the Aero Club.

The survey party is using three planes for its cross-country tour. P. Y. K. Howat, first vice president of the Board of Trade, and Bruce Bryan of the trade board staff will represent the Washington sponsoring organizations on the first lap of the survey.

John Reilly, Board of Trade president, will join the survey party at St. Louis, Mo., and continue to Washington. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is sending four representatives on the tour. Also represented is the Civil Aeronautics Administration, which is sponsoring the flight; the National Aeronautics Association, and the Aviation Writers' Association.

Civic and business leaders in the 15 business centers to be visited will be urged to cooperate in the turnpike project. It has been hoped that establishment of the turnpike will mean increased business for the cities involved.

Theater Men to Meet

Prefabricated theaters, television, drive-in theaters and multiple entertainment-amusement centers will be among subjects for discussion here September 25-28 at a Theater Trade Show to be held at the Shoreham Hotel.

Theater owners, managers, architects, projectionists and supply manufacturers and dealers from all parts of the United States are expected.

HITLER'S TRIUMPH

Forty-four hundred human beings are being "persuaded" onto the shores of Germany. They are people who know what it is to endure humiliation, having survived the Nazi murder factories. But this latest degradation is unmatched, for it is inflicted by the democratic world—the same democratic world which fought the greatest of wars to end the oppression of the weak by the strong.

However, all this seems to be beside the point in our enlightened age. These people happen to be Jews who have demonstrated their people's refusal to perish, who have sought a new life in their own homeland—and for Jews that is a crime. In the era of Ernest Bevin it is still a crime for a Jew to live as other men. If he takes steps to achieve freedom for himself and his brother he must be punished. For that the world's oldest Parliament is convened and shocked statesmen express righteous indignation at attempts to save Jewish lives and Jewish spirits—which are, of course, "illegal." Mighty battleships—guardians of the freedom of the democratic seas—go into action. Then the troops and guns and clubs and truncheons.

And on the dockside at Hamburg the ghosts of Hitler, Streicher and Himmler cackle a chorus of Hosannas for the great Empire which is putting these Jews in their place.

But let us not paint a one-sided picture. We are, after all, talking about Englishmen—fair play and cricket, don't you know. Is it not a well-known fact (driven home by scores of films) that Englishmen are the best-mannered, softest-spoken, kindliest people on earth? To illustrate this point, we give you Exhibit A—the British official in Hamburg, quoted by the Associated Press on August 28th, who said that "three degrees of compulsion were available if the Jews refused to leave their ships on arrival (in Hamburg).

"1. Manhandling. 2. Ship's hosepipes. 3. Tear gas."

No lethal weapons, mind you. Everything done in accordance with the highest British standards of humanitarianism. We can already hear some Labor peer in the House of Lords paying tribute to the brave British soldiers and sailors who execute this operation—to their "remarkable patience, forbearance and humanity" in dealing with these "illegal" Jews.

Such is Bevin's Britain today. A Government which rode to power on pledges of the fuller and better life for all, now defiles the very principles which it mouthed to win the support of the voters. It has debased, not only its own party, but the entire people which it rules—for the anti-Semitism which is an inevitable outgrowth of the Bevin policy on Palestine is already gaining a strong foothold in Britain, as witness the recent anti-Jewish riots throughout England.

The callousness of the British Government's behavior towards the EXODUS 1947 refugees, the total disregard of human conscience—as voiced by countless Americans and as expressed by the fine attitude of the French Government—are almost unprecedented. For a parallel one must recall the cynical unconcern of the Nazis when world opinion denounced the subjugation and enslavement of smaller, "inferior" peoples.

The most shocking aspect of this latest British operation is the fact that it is being carried out within a week of the publication of the report of the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine, which recommended the immediate admission into Palestine of 150,000 Jewish refugees and called for the speedy termination of the present British Mandate over the Holy Land. By behaving as if it were oblivious to the fact that the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine—which, incidentally, was formed at Britain's request—has already published its findings, the British Government undermines the authority and influence of the United Nations. The EXODUS operation is therefore, in a very real sense, a blow, not only against helpless refugees, but also against the international structure upon which we hope to build world peace.

Meanwhile the struggle goes on. The heroic 4400 do not stand alone, but are backed by the unquenchable determination of the Jewish people everywhere in the world to achieve justice. They have the support of millions of Christians, especially in the United States, who take their religion seriously and who understand that there can be no real peace unless justice prevails also for the unfortunate and downtrodden of the earth.

People of the EXODUS! You who set foot on the soil of your homeland for a fleeting moment—you will return, singing and triumphant, the vanguard of the many thousands who will follow to build and be rebuilt in the Jewish State.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Sept. 8 (AP).—Wheat and corn took different directions on the Board of Trade today, wheat slumping while corn scored small gains. There was a nervous undertone to the trade with price changes very rapid at times.

The November soybeans contract spurted 9 cents, the daily limit, for the third consecutive session, final price at $3.07½, was a new seasonal peak. Oats eased while lard closed higher after displaying weakness at the outset.

Wheat ended 2¾ lower to ¾ higher, September 2.64¼@2.64½, the distant July contract showing the small gain. Corn finished ¼ to 1½ higher, September 2.53, and oats unchanged to 1¼, September, 1.15⅝@1.15¾.

While part of the slump in wheat was attributed to technical reasons after last week's upturn, there was also some selling on a Washington dispatch stating that the Production and Marketing Administration was temporarily out of the flour market. Flour circles had expected the PMA to reenter the market at higher prices.

New Academy To Aid Public Buying Agents

By S. Oliver Goodman

A "National Academy for Public Purchasing" will be set up in Washington to aid Federal, State and municipal purchasing officers.

Mack

Plans for this new academy were outlined yesterday by Clifton E. Mack, director of the Bureau of Federal Supply, Treasury Department. He said the academy will offer periodical training sessions here for Government buying agents and will provide Nation-wide interchange of knowledge on buying practices and techniques. Existing Bureau of Federal Supply personnel and equipment will be utilized without additional Federal appropriations, he added.

Mack's announcement was made yesterday at the opening session in New York City of the National Institute of Governmental Purchasing.

President Truman, in a message to the NIGP conference, approved the plans, writing:

"Federal purchasing officials, as well as those who buy for State and local governments, should benefit from this mutual exchange of experience in buying techniques."

ELEVATION: Ernest L. Hughes yesterday was elected a director and vice president in charge of sales of Sinclair Refining Co. He entered the oil business as a salesman for Standard Oil of Indiana in 1911, served in naval aviation in the first World War and organized and became president of Hughes Oil Co. of Chicago. From 1942 to 1944, he was director of marketing for District No. 2 under the Petroleum Administration for War. At the same time James E. Dwyer, vice president of Sinclair, was elected to take charge of an expanded department which will supervise transportation and distribution problems.

Avuncular Abingdon

Town's Quietly Proud of Barter

By Richard L. Coe

APART FROM THE freshly brunetted Lana Turner now peering forth from the color ads, the most beguiling facet of things theatrical noted during three weeks' rambling in the provinces is Abingdon's matter-of-fact acceptance of its famed Barter Theater.

Abingdon is a quiet town of several thousand down in southwestern Virginia which boasts a repertory company that can act as many as 10 plays in 15 days and act them well. It's little theater is the second oldest in these United States, built in 1830. It played host to all the great stars of the past, slithered into the movies for a spell and finally became the home of Robert Porterfield's depression-spawned shows-for-barter idea.

The folk of the Virginia countryside crowd the place six evenings and two matinees each week, and 'most anyone in town can tell you what time the performance will be over. But after 15 years of Porterfield's group, the townfolk take their remarkable theater as a matter of course. Which is charming and quite as it should be.

They're proud of it, though. Last year everyone in town paid a special $2 tax to build a large backstage storage space, big enough to house the properties of more than 15 productions. And when, some years ago, a movie company, not liking the "legit" competition, hired the theater but kept it dark in an effort to freeze out the players, the Virginians trouped up a hill to a substitute hall. Since then the movie people have learned that each can help the other, and there's peace between the Abingdon arts.

Pemberton in "Harvey"

This week Brock Pemberton, who produced "Harvey" and has sighed with envy in presenting Frank Fay, Joe E. Brown, Bert Wheeler and Jimmy Stewart with the rich role of Elwood P. Dowd, is down in Abingdon playing the part himself. It's a neat coup for Porterfield and three planeloads of celebrities flew down from Gotham last night to watch the fun.

But guest stars are the exception for Barter. The players live together (in an inn Porterfield bought from the MGM money he got for his "quick" role in "The Yearling"), work together and by work we mean all day and half the night. The night we spent at the Barter Inn was like being with a group of college folks ranging from their teens to late middle age.

One of the older players, for instance, is Carroll McComas, who played Roxane to Walter Hampden's "Cyrano" 25 years ago. In "Harvey" she's playing Pemberton's sister, an odd bit of fate, for she had the title role in Pemberton's "Miss Lulu Bett," which won Brock his first Pulitzer prize. ("Harvey" was his second.) Miss McComas had retired from the stage, but after the death of her husband Porterfield urged her to join his company.

Nation-wide Tour

This winter the group will split into three separate companies, two touring Virginia and the South, the third going into every one of the 48 States.

New York? Porterfield isn't ready for that yet and for a smart reason, too. He's hoping to hold on to at least 10 of his better players for another five years and then present them in a Manhattan season, for which we wouldn't mind making reservations now.

Among those, surely, will be Frederic Warriner and Herbert Nelson. In the "Arsenic and Old Lace" we saw, Warriner literally makes the mad sisters' final victim too brilliant a performance, an aged spider of a man, so sharp a portrait that it nearly upsets the final act's balance. Warriner is a real actor, able to play anything from the Scot in "The Hasty Heart" to a Ehakespearean clown in "Much Ado About Nothing," which Alexandria and Arlington saw last winter.

Heading this Way

In his early thirties, Herbert Nelson has 15 years' experience to enrich his versatility. He's "had" New York and its cutthroat ambition. He has a real feeling for theater and entertained us mightily with his idea of how the American Repertory Theater should have spent its first few seasons. And, like us, he regretted that illness has kept Joan de Weese from continuing at Barter. That shining Beatrice of last season is pondering New York, the path that took Gregory Peck from Abingdon to Hollywood.

Yes, there are any number of other remarkable features to a visit with Barter. There would have to be from the most active theater group outside of New York, where only the budgets seem more far flung.

But the most remarkable is the quiet, matter-of-fact pride a small Virginia town takes in its impressive repertory company. They'll be in the neighborhood this fall and we'll try to keep you posted.

FBI Not 'Witch-Hunting' in Loyalty Check

The FBI has come in for criticism for alleged "witch-hunting" as a result of the State Department's recent loyalty purge and the New York grand jury probe of certain U. S. aviation secrets which leaked to the Russians. Real fact, however, is that the FBI has leaned over backwards against witch-hunting.

Hoover

Most people don't know it, but the FBI was not consulted regarding the dismissal of State Department employes. The State Department did not even consult FBI records, and there is considerable reason to believe that certain diplomats started the purge hastily and unfairly in order to make an impression with Congress.

In the current New York grand jury probe of the Russian spy ring, inside fact is that the FBI opposed any arrests at this time. Careful J. Edgar Hoover proposed keeping the suspects under surveillance for a considerable longer period in order to gather further evidence and see if they communicated with any other Russian links.

However, when orders came from up above to make arrests, the FBI picked up two former officials late at night after they had visited a friend's house together. They were arrested separately, but within a few minutes of each other.

After the arrests, the FBI quizzed the two men at length, both of whom stated afterward that they were treated with the utmost courtesy. Each was asked to sign a statement summarizing what they had said. When they refused, no pressure was exerted to make them sign. No political questions of any kind were asked.

Note: FBI agents making loyalty checks have been accused of asking witnesses whether they read the New Republic, liberal weekly edited by Henry Wallace. However, J. Edgar Hoover has given strict orders that no questions of this kind shall be asked, and New Republic editors, when challenged, have failed to produce witnesses who were reported to have been so questioned.

Behind Price Probe

It was not President Truman, nor the CIO, nor Justice Department subordinates who inspired the Justice Department's probe into high prices, but the Attorney General's mother.

Attorney General Tom Clark flew to Dallas, had dinner with his 84-year-old mother, listened to her complaints of constantly soaring food prices. Flying to Chicago for a speech next day, he decided to speak on that subject. That was how the price probe was born.

Note: Clark did not mention the probe to President Truman until after he had announced it himself, nor did chair-warming Assistant General Sonnett, who has tried to claim credit through a news columnist, ever talk to the President.

U. S. Feud in Creece

Ironing out tangled, bankrupt Greece was expected to be a super-tough job, but uncensored diplomatic cables indicate it is even tougher than expected.

One complication is the hot personal rivalry of our two top representatives — ex-Governor Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, and U. S. Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh.

Griswold, sincere, energetic, anxious to clean up Greece in a hurry, has run up against skilled, slower-moving Ambassador MacVeagh, nephew of Mrs. Roosevelt, and stationed in Greece so long that he shies at its many pitfalls.

Result—both men have been acting as if they were top dog, with hardboiled Greek officials playing one off against the other. Their chief disagreement: How to purge the Greek Government.

MacVeagh has always argued that the Greeks must change their own government, but that the USA could not emulate Moscow and dictate government purges.

However, Griswold, even before he left Washington, bluntly informed Secretary of State Marshall that one of the first things he would do was revamp the Greek government.

"Hadn't you better go a little slow on that?" Marshall cautioned. "After all, we can't be dictators."

"Last night," replied the ex-Governor of Nebraska, "I dined with 10 of the most prominent newspapermen in Washington, and every one of them agreed that my first move should be for a new government in Greece."

"I have the highest regard for the newspapermen of Washington," replied Secretary Marshall, in effect, "but I hardly think they are in a position to assume responsibility for changing the Greek government."

Nevertheless, when Griswold arrived in Athens, he called first on the man he proposed to make prime minister, Archbishop Damaskinos, former regent under Winston Churchill. In calling on the archbishop, Griswold ignored the King of Greece and Prime Minister Maximos, whom he should have called on first.

Griswold's proposal to shake up the Greek cabinet has persevered, and the final result should be healthy. Chief trouble in Greece, however, can be solved by neither Griswold nor MacVeagh, whether they agree or disagree—namely, the constant drumfire of Soviet-inspired bullets from the north. This is increasing.

Phone Company on Spot

The New York Telephone Company, subsidiary of the Bell System, is in for a tough lawsuit from two customers claiming they don't have to pay for interrupted dial service during last May's telephone strike.

Amount involved in this one suit is small, but if the phone company loses, it will be kept busy for years paying for interrupted service during telephone strikes. Also, subscribers in other States can start suits and collect from other Bell subsidiaries all over the country. In fact, this action is likely to touch off a whole chain reaction similar to the portal-to-portal suits.

Suit is brought on the grounds that the phone company operates a monopoly, that subscribers had no other choice than but sign with it, and that the phone company during the strike failed to supply services specified in contract.

Authors of the suit: Mitchell Kennerly, jr., son of the New York publisher, and William Floyd 2d, head of the Lenox Hill Book Shop. Attorneys are Henry Kohn, young Army veteran, and Amos Basel, who brought siut against Standard Oil of New Jersey to stop it from trading with I. G. Farben, now indicted for war crimes.

To defend the suit, the phone company has hired Judge William Bleakley, former GOP candidate for Governor of New York.

Busy Man

Democratic Party Director Gael Sullivan received a phone call the other day from the office of New York Herald Tribune Publisher Helen Reid, a stanch Republican paper.

"Mrs. Reid is coming to Washington tomorrow and would like to know what time she can see you," the secretary said.

"Well," replied Sullivan, "I'm free at 11:17 a. m., 1:14 p. m., 2:08 p. m., and 4:13 p. m."

"My goodness!" replied Mrs. Reid's secretary. "Do they take up your time that closely in Washington?"

"Madam, down here they don't take up my time," said Sullivan. "They slice it."

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

DENVER, SEPT. 8.—The pro football teams are giving the customers an awful shoving around, I'd say, with their passion for substitutions which are reducing the game to a dizzy parade of numbered jerseys. Following the ball is rough enough on the fans in these days of the T-formation, without the confusion of endless substitutions.

POVICH

If you don't look now, you're not apt to see the two starting teams that took the field 30 seconds ago. Starting lineups are meaningless these days. The Redskins have one backfield in case they elect to receive a kickoff, and other different set of backs if they are the kicking team. So do the other clubs. The customer never knows for sure who is playing the ball game.

In some games last season, the fan who tried to follow the lineup of the Redskins was in foul shape. When they were kicking off, it was not uncommon to see the Redskins lined up with four ends on the starting team, no guards at all. Maybe there was merit to the strategy, I'm not saying there wasn't, but it could drive the customers looney. It's no fun watching a game between a lot of numbers.

Only the certified public accountants in the grandstands really know who is playing all the time. If you're not good at numbers, you're sunk. The pro teams carry 35-man squads and the numbered jerseys shuttle in and out of the ball game all afternoon. The teams don't have any particular identity as teams—just numbers.

BY THE TIME the fan in the stands gets interested in a good block or a smart tackle and whips through his program to find out who "Number 26" might be, it's probably too late. He's out of the ball game on the next play, perhaps. This is the age of specialization and they have a different player with special talents for the next job. It's high-powered stuff no doubt, but to the customer the teams lose their identity.

Fellows like Baugh and Todd stand out easily in the public view, but the other backs and the line from end to end are usually a mystery to the customer because he never can be sure that the man he watched on the preceding play is still in the ball game. It all may be designed to confuse the opposition, but it leaves the customers in the same state.

When the Redskins first came to Washington in 1937, they built up an immense following that quickly took the team into its affection. Those early Redskins teams had personality. All of the fans knew who the players were after a couple of games without the necessity of referring to the rosters in the programs, and thumbing through the fat pages to find the list of numbers.

They knew those days that the Redskin ends were Malone and Milner, with McChesney the replacement if there was a substitution. And the tackles were always Edwards and Barber. The guards, Karchner and Olsen, and George Smith the center. There were substitutions, of course, but not many. The fans got to know who was in the lineup, and they built up a fondness for the team.

YOU COULD ALWAYS bet that the Redskins' starting backfield those days would be Riley Smith and Baugh and Pinkert and Battles. When the going got heavy, Don Irwin and Ed Justice would go in. There were only about six backs to be concerned with, and the fans knew who they were all the time. Not now though. The Redskins right now have five fullbacks.

The player limit used to be 25. Now it's 35, and that amounts to two armies playing the game. Maybe it makes for better football, with the coaches sending well-rested men into the contest, but I don't think the fans appreciate it. The payrolls are up so the clubs can't be accused of hedging in that respect, but I think they overdo their replacements and are substitution-crazy.

In Los Angeles the other night against the Rams, the Redskins twice drew five-yard penalties for having 12 players on the field. And a couple years ago they lost an important field goal they had kicked because they had an extra man on the gridiron. Even the coaches can't keep track of the numbers, sometimes, so howinell do they expect the fans to follow the proceedings intelligently, although I do submit that some of the fans might do the better job of it.

Giants Trail, 8-0, But Beat Pirates, 10-8

Pittsburgh, Sept. 8 (AP).—Coming from behind an 8-0 count, the New York Giants broke loose with seven runs in the eighth inning and then defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-8, on Lloyd Gearhart's two-run homer in the ninth.

A paid crowd of 3936 fans saw veteran Fritz Ostermeuller pitch no-hit ball for five innings and two-hit ball for seven before the Giants blasted him off the mound with a five-hit attack good for as many runs.

After Jim Bagby relieved Ostermueller with men on first and second and two out, the Pirate reliefer committed a balk advancing both runners. Pinch-hitter Joe Lafata drove them home with a single.

The Pirates roughed up Sheldon Jones, Joe Beggs and Andy Hansen for 10 of their 12 hits and all of their runs, but couldn't score in the last two innings on Fireman Ken Trinkle who received credit for his seventh victory. Bagby was charged with his fourth loss.

Heurich Fast Finish Beats Oakmont, 5-1

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP).—The Heurich Brewers of Washington, D. C., came from behind today to eliminate the Oakmont Club of Pittsburgh from the annual All-American Amateur Baseball tournament ,taking a 5 to 1 game with rallies in thesixth and eighth.

Harry Crouthamel was up against a real rival in Douglas Gillette for the first six innings and when Washington came to bat in the last of the sixth the Oakmont lads were out in front 1—0.

Willie Kaufman started the Heurich fireworks by working Gillette for a pass. He promptly stole second. When the throw by the Oakmont catcher went into centerfield, Kaufman continued to third and scored on a solid single by Barnard Good.

Kaufman caused Gillette a lot of trouble in the eighth when he was plunked in the ribs. He raced toward second as Archie Via dropped a sacrifice bunt toward the pitching mound. Gillette was slow in picking up the ball and tried for Kaufman at second, his throw being too late and both runners were safe.

Good again came to the rescue with a successful bunt that he beat out along the first-base line and all bags were loaded. Jack Castro smacked out a solid single to left that scored Kaufman.

When Coe followed with another single both Via and Good crossed the plate to clinch the game for the Brewers.

Wrong-Way Buffington Has No Explanation

Brooklyn, Sept. 8 (AP).—Harry Buffington, Brooklyn Dodger guard, moaned today he had no explanation for his 30-yard romp to the wrong goal line with the ball in the opening minute of yesterday's All-American Conference game, in Baltimore.

"I threw a good block and was spun around and when I stopped spinning, there was the loose ball in front of me. I grabbed it and started for the goal," he said.

Buffington said he didn't realize he was going in the wrong direction until about two strides from the goal line and had worked up such speed he couldn't stop or turn until too late.

After reaching the end zone he saw Mickey Colmer, one of the 10 Dodger teammates who had tried to stop him, in the clear and Buffington tried a pass. It was knocked down and Jimmy Castiglia of the Colts, fell on it for a touchdown.

Baltimore, playing its first game in the loop, won by a 16-to-7 score.

Nats Might Climb Peg by Beating Sox

With nothing below them but eighth place, the Nats will cast their eyes upward tonight as they open a two-day series with the Chicago White Sox at Griffith Stadium.

The Nats would like to swap places with the Chicagoans, who currently are just above the Nats by 3½ games.

A sweep of the Chicago series would brighten the Nats' prospects of climbing out of seventh place inasmuch as the Nats will remain at home through September 18 while the White Sox will be on the road all the while.

Off the surprising form the Nats displayed against the first-place New York Yankees with three wins in four games, the White Sox shouldn't be too unruly.

But baseball has queer twists, and the White Sox have been harder for the Nats to beat than any other team in the league. In 20 games between these two clubs, the White Sox won 13 to seven for the Nats.

Scott Cary, the rookie who has won both of his starts this season, will go after his third straight as the opening Nat hurler tonight.

Of almost equal interest with the result of the game will be the appearance of Luke Appling at shortstop for the White Sox.

Luke has played at that position in 1985 games for the Sox tieing the American League record set by Roger Peckinpaugh. Tonight the durable Luke will set a new record.

Remaining home games of the Nats:

September 9-10—Chicago White Sox.

September 11-12-13—St. Louis Browns.

September 14-15-16 — Detroit Tigers.

September 17-18 — Cleveland Indians.

September 25-26—Philadelphia Athletics.

Septembeer 27-28—Boston Red Sox.

Trinidad Fathers Defeat Sons, 12-5

Fifteen fathers played their sons, and won, 12 to 5, in a father-son baseball game yesterday, featuring the Trinidad Boys Club rally week at the Sherwod Playground, 10th and G sts. ne.

The smalest boy on the diamond was Cyril Bock, 8, who played right field and made a hit off his father, Cyril Bock, sr., who pitched for the fathers. Another Bock boy, John, 12, also played.

Edward Fulk, right fielder for the fathers, had two sons, Jim shortstop, and Kenneth on the sons team.

A rolling pin contest will be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight on the Sherwood grounds with mothers throwing for distance and the fathers on the receiving end.

Stranahan 2 Under Par, Wins, 7 and 6

Pebble Beach, Calif., Sept. 8 (AP).—Tournament favorite Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, whipped famed Pebble Beach course with two under par golf today to charge through the first round of the United States amateur championship with a 7 and 6 win over Douglas W. Bajus of Vancouver, B. C.

The straight-hitting amateur star, who has played the big professionals on even terms in open tournaments around the country, took the first hole from his opponent and built up the lead from then on. His 34 for the first nine of the heavily-trapped layout was two under standard requirements. He was 5 up at the turn, Bajus taking a 39.

Stranahan fired par fours at hi srival to bag the tenth and eleventh and closed out the match with a par 3 on the twelfth. The Toledo entry's birdie four is on the 480-yard second and the 502-yard fifth were made in flawless fashion. He dodged trouble all the way.

Goodman Stays in, 3—2

Former Champion Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, back in the big league competition he dominated in 1937, came through his initial test with a 3 and 2 win over Herbert P. Smith of Orlando, Fla.

Goodman's golf was not comparable to that he flashed here 18 years ago when he sidelined the great Bobby Jones in the first round, but he held Smith even on the outgoing nine with a 39 and putted himself into the lead coming home.

The first big upset of the opening round saw Bob Cochran of Overland, Mo., outlast Arthur Armstrong of Honolulu to win 1 up on the twentieth hole. The lad from Hawaii, several times amateur and open territorial champion, led more than 2000 players in the national qualifying for the 1947 championship, shooting a 36-hole 136.

Cochran, former St. Louis open and Missouri State winner dropped a 15-footer on the second extra hole for a birdie and the victory. Armstrong barely missed his putt from 17 feet.

Hal Stone, jr., of Bloomington, Ill., defeated veteran Albert (Scotty) Campbell of Seattle, one up on the nineteenth. Stone, who qualified for the tournament by winning the last place in the Chicago district after a playoff, had Campbell, 1936 Walker Cup team member, three down after the eighth.

Campbell finally squared the match on the sixteenth, won the seventeenth to go one up and then blew his chances by taking sixes on the next two holes. Stone won the nineteenth with a one over par 5.

L. D. Ribnr, a White Plains, N. Y., entry, lowered the colors of Walter Hagen, jr., of Richmond, Va., son of the great former pro champion, 3 and 2.

Johnny Dawson Squeezes In

Once rated the finest amateur in the country, Johnny Dawson of Hollywood, Calif., squeezed out a 2 and 1 win over Chester Sanok, New Jersey amateur champion from West Englewood. Dawson was four up at the tenth, shooting one over par golf, but Sanok snatched back three holes by the sixteenth.

Two-time champion Marvin "Bud Ward" of Spokane, Wash., started his quest to regain the title in impressive fashion when he flattened W. A. Schneider, Honolulu, 9 and 7.

Ward, shooting par 36 golf for the first nine holes, won eight of them as his opponent posted a 44. The 1939 and '41 champ made it 9 up with a birdie 3 on the 380-yard 11th and closed out the contest.

LUKE APPLING, veteran shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, is expected to set a new American League record in tonight's game with the Nats at Griffith Stadium. ## Bertelli Goes To Rockets in 3-Way Deal

By Bill Becker

Los Angeles, Sept. 8 (AP).—Professional football's biggest trade of the young 1947 season today sent Brooklyn's pass and punt master, Glenn Dobbs, to the Los Angeles Dons of the All-American Conference.

Dobbs, the All-America's most valuable player last season when he paced the loop in both throwing and booting, was obtained in a three-cornered deal that wound up with Angelo Bertelli of the Dons coming to the Chicago Rockets and the Rockets' Robert (Hunchy) Hoerschemeyer landing in Brooklyn.

No cash was involved in the deal, Harry Thayer, Dons general manager, said. Brooklyn officials confirmed this.

The Dons obtained Dobbs, the former Tulsa University All-American, on a five-year contract. Coach Dud De Groot said he expected the 6-foot 4-inch halfback to start practice with the club for "definite action" against the New York Yankees in the Dons' home opener in Memorial Coliseum Friday night.

Dobbs Most Valuable

Dobbs ran away with the conference's most valuable award, receiving 41½ votes out of a possible 42 after a 1946 season which saw him:

1. Complete 135 of 269 passes for 1866 yards and 13 touchdowns.

2. Toss 23 completions in one game against San Francisco.

3. Punt 80 times for an average of 47.8 yards, with long punts (twice) of 78 yards.

Bertelli, the former Notre Dame ace, signed with the Dons during the war. A few days later he signed another pact, this one with the Boston Yanks of the rival National League. In the subsequent court battle Bertelli was awarded to the Dons, for whom he has had fair success.

Hoernschemeyer played for both Indiana and the Naval Academy during the war and has been Rockets' regular quarterback. "Hunchy" rated fifth among the league's passers last fall, passing for 1266 yards and running for some 375 more.

Had Hand in 14 Scores

In all, he was responsible for 14 touchdowns as against Dobbs' 19 in 1946. Bertelli, playing about half the season, passed for eight scores.

De Groot declared that Dobbs would go into his customary left half or tailback spot "at least for the first game and until we see how he fits into our system." Dobbs has been playing at Brooklyn under the single wing system, whereas the Dons use the "T" formation.

Cliff Battles, coach of the Dodgers, said: "I know I am giving up an edge in kicking by trading Dobbs but Hunchy will give us a superior field general. Dobbs made several strategical mistakes this fall. In addition, Hoernschemeyer is five years younger than Dobbs." Dobbs is 26, Hunchy 21.

Bertelli, now 26, is expected to be a crowd magnet in Chicago, where his Notre Dame exploits are well known.

Midget Driver Dies in Crash

Sun Prarie, Wis., Sept. 8 (AP).—George Osten, 39 years old Milwaukee driver, was injured fatally yesterday when he was thrown from his midget racer when it struck a rail as he was attempting to pass another car. His racer overturned on the track several times and then jumped the rail. He died en route to a Madison hospital.

Kansas Is Knee-Deep In Coaches, Anyway

Lawrence, Kan., Sept. 8 (AP).—Athletic Director E. C. Quigley has added a sixth coach to the Kansas University varsity football staff today with the appointment of Maj. E. C. (Jack) Dodd as the Kansas "B" team mentor for the 1947 season.

They're Going In for Blocking And Carrots Out Fairfax Way

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

LOTS OF blocking, tackling, scrimmaging, calisthenics and carrots.

That's the diet of the Fairfax High School football team that is preparing for its season's opener against Chamberlain Vocational school September 26.

"Why the carrots?" chuckles Mavit. "Simple."

"Carrots provide our boys with vitamin A which helps their vision at night. And seven of our nine games are to be played at night."

Citizens of Fairfax County helped the school raise $10,000 during the summer to build lights for the stadium. The lighting system will be used for the first time against Chamberlain.

Mavity's boys have been practicing for over a week now, and the veteran coach believes he has the makings of a fair club, one that will improve on last year's record of six victories, three losses and two ties.

Even if the team doesn't fare well, it is certain that the Fairfax boys won't be pushed around. Four members are veterans of the boxing team from Fairfax that finished second in the south Atlantic high school tournament last year. They are Guard Heider Dowell and Foster Bonner, Center Jim Corridon and Halfback Warren Roseberry.

ALL FOUR of Fairfax's 1946 ends reported for the first practice, including 165-pound Johnny Gleason, who was the team's high scorer last year. Arnold Stallman and Bill Parnell will battle for the other end post.

Marshall (Skippy) Tomlinson the 190-pound lad who starred at end last season, has been shifted to tackle, where he'll be better able to utilize his weight. Tomlinson's mate at tackle is Phil Miller, a 215-pound holdover.

Letterman Dowell, a 160-pounder, seems certain to start the season at one of the guard spots, with Paul Durant, John Driefer and Bonner waging a three-cornered fight for the other.

Jack Simpson, last year's captain and guard, will appear in a new role, as the blocking quarterback in the Fairfax single wing. At the halfbacks are thriple-threat Larry Fones and Roseberry, with 195-pounder Johnny Broaddus.

Blair Ready For Big Teams This Year

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

MONTGOMERY BLAIR High School of Silver Spring, started playing football three years ago and feels about ready to crash the big time.

With a new stadium seating 4500 and the enthusiastic backing of the townspeople, the Blazers, under Coach Reno Continetti are an up and coming ball team.

Last season Blair won five games, tied one and lost one. This year they hope to do as well or better, and against tougher opposition. In the past according to Continetti, the Blair boys have been awed by the reputation of the interhigh and big prep teams in the District, but that holds true no longer.

Scrimmages against the District schools have proved to the Blazers that they can hold their own with anyone and they intend to prove just that this season.

Coach Continetti has six regulars back from last year's club. With these as a foundation, he is building a team which thus far has a powerful line, but a question mark backfield.

* * * *

QUARTERBACK Bob Rodefer and Fullback Bill Mess are the only holdover backs. Mess is used chiefly on defense, as he is a vicious tackler. Tailbacks Johnny Ford, Louie Simpson and Ray Luckett show promise, Ford and Luckett being passers and Simpson a good ball carrier. Behind Rodefer at quarterback are Buddy Wooten and Sid Butler.

Bob Cushman tops the fullbacks, with Dick Walker and Don Peters improving rapidly. At wingback, Ken Baker, Tom Pritchard and Billy Perkins are battling for the starting berth.

* * * *

THE LINE HAS Chuck Richards, Russ Armentrout, Harry Armentrout, Harry Carroll and Bill Larrimore at the ends; Norm Fehr, Dave Smith, Ralph Reno, Paul Kelly and John Kennedy at tackle; Rickey Harrison, the team's best lineman; Frank Grossman, Walt Chamblin and Eddie Robins at guard and Buddy Doten and Ken Parsons at the center position.

Fehr, Smith, Reno and Harrison are the regular linemen returning. All are big, fast and experienced and the coach counts on these boys to anchor the forward wall.

Continetti is having a little trouble perfecting the backfield timing and finesse so essential to the single wing, but he feels that in the three weeks of practice the boys have come a long way.

As soon as that backfield gets clicking, the Blazers are going to make trouble for every team they meet.

McTamney Gives Georgetown Another Good Man in Its 'T'

T-formation prospects at Georgetown University were given a boost yesterday when Head Coach Jack Hagerty disclosed that big Jack McTamney will be on hand to alternate with triple-threater Elmer Raba in the quarterback slot.

A Hilltopper letterman, McTamney came to Georgetown from Philadelphia's St. Joseph Prep in 1942. An injury in the St. Louis fray last season limited his play to three contests. The Villanova game gave him quite a reputation as a passer when he reeled off 11 straight completions.

Another stand-out in scrimmage yesterday was short, chunky John Kivus, halfback. A graduate of Loyola, High, Mankato, Minn., Kivus is a 5 foot 9 inch, 175-pounder.

Freshman football drills also got under way at the Georgetown field yesterday when 35 candidates answered the call of Coaches Joe McFadden and Bill Wixted.

The freshman schedule includes such opponents as Bullis Prep and the Navy Plebes.

Stahley Says Things Just Getting Worse

Camp Letts, Md., Sept. 8.—As far as Coach Skip Stahley is concerned, things are going from bad to worse.

The George Washington University mentor put his charges through their second scrimmage of the season today. After Saturday's openpressed disappointment at his boys' ing scrimmage Stahley had exshowing.

After today's workout, he thought the results were worse than Saturday. But he had a reason for it.

"In 17 years of coaching, I've never seen a decent Monday scrimmage and today was no exception," said Skip.

Aside from the sparkling play of three men, there was little to cheer about.

Wingback Jimmy Kline, 173 pound freshman from Minersville, Pa., was the only back who showed anything. A pair of rookie tackles, Jim Feula and Tony Danowski, looked so good that regulars Carl Butkus and Harvey Shipman may not be regulars much longer.

Terps Lose Giant Tackle for Season

Ray Beard, 205-pound tackle, has been lost to the University of Maryland football squad for most of the 1947 season as a result of an operation for appendicitis, which he underwent at Sibley Hospital.

Beard, 6 feet 3 inches tall, is from Mansfield, Ohio, and Coach Jim Tatum counted on him for regular duty although he is only a freshman.

Beard participated in a squad game Saturday, developed pains Sunday and was rushed to the hospital early Monday morning for an operation. He was resting comfortably last night.

College Pro Idea Not So Good

Chicago University Is Not Interested

Louisville, Sept. 8 (AP).—University of Louisville President John W. Taylor wasn't getting very favorable reaction yesterday to his proposal that certain colleges and universities over the country form an undisguised professional football league of their own.

He threw the question into the open over the weekend with letters to 14 institutions of higher learning proposing that they band together in a league of hired football hands

College comment ran something like this:

"No comment" was the statement of officials at the University of Georgia, another of the schools receiving Dr. Taylor's letter. Officials at the University of Chicago said the letter had not been received. They added, however, that the school which abandoned intercollegiate football in 1939 has no intention of resuming the sport, even under professional guise.

Blair Guillion, director of athletics at Washington University, said at St. Louis he was "not interested" in the proposition. He added, "our amateur program is progressing satisfactorily and we're hardly interested in such a professional venture."

Guillion said his bears are scheduled to play the University this fall. "At the time we scheduled them," he added, "they were working on an amateur program like ours. Maybe they've changed."

Houston University Frowns on Proposal

At the University of Houston, coaches frowned on such a proposal.

Jewell Wallace, coach of the University of Houston Cougars of the Lone Star conference, said "I certainly am not in favor of Taylor's idea and I am sure the remainder of the university coaches agree with me."

Wallace added, however, that "a lot of schools might as well come out in the open as they already are professional."

In a letter ,which he said he had mailed to 14 presidents of colleges and universities, Taylor pointed out that sponsorship of a professional team would not interfere with continuation of amateur football by the same schools.

The letters were invitations to the school officials to "give earnest an serious consideration" to forming such a professional league.

Bromwich, And Parker Also Win

New York, Sept. 8 (AP).—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, a 19-year-old stick of tennis dynamite from Los Angeles, came near throwing the National championships completely out of kilter today when the carried Davis Cup Star Gardnar Mulloy of Miami to five screeching sets before bowing out in a second round match at Forest Hills.

The hot tamale from the Coast, owner of a searing service and a deadly stop-volley that baffled Mulloy, once stood at 4-2 in games in the deciding set and again was within one point of making it 5-3, on his own service. Only Mulloy's cool head and vast experience finally pulled him out of a nasty situation. The scores were 6—3, 6—3, 2—6, 9—11, 6—4.

Mulloy, the fourth-seeded native star, had been expected to tame the swarthy Pancho without much trouble. Indeed, when he won the first two sets from the youngster, it looked as though it would be over very shortly.

Gonzales Comes Back

And then Gonzales began to play a brand of slashing, net-rushing, tennis that no one knew he possessed. By the time he had reeled off the third set and then squared the match by winning the long-drawn fourth, practically all the several thousand spectators on the premises had jammed themselves into the secondary grandstands where the match was being played to watch Pancho make his bid.

Frankie Parker, the 2-time former champion, played t an almost empty house as he scored a routine victory over Ladislav Hecht, the former Czech Davis Cup player by 6—2, 6—4, 6—4.

Jack Bromwich of Australia, the No. 1 seeded foreigner methodically chopped down George Pero, a stocky player from Miami, 7—5, 6—3, 6—1, and Pancho Segura, the singular Ecuadoran, vanquished Richard Savitt of East Orange, N. J., 6—3, 6—1, 6—2.

Both Colin Long of Australian, fourth seeded foreigner, and young Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles, seventh seeded American, gained a lap on the men's field when they played and won their third-round matches. Long beat Ricardo Balbiers of Chile, 6—4, 6—2, 6—4, and Falkenburg outlasted Harry Likas of San Francisco, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4.

The women's second round was completed without incident. Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, the favorite, scored an impressive 6—3, 6—2 victory over Mrs. Helen Peterson Rihbany of Boston. Doris Hart of Miami, seeded third, romped to a 6—3, 6—3 win over Mrs. Jacque Hunt Fischer of Montclair, N. J.

Mrs. Howard Has 85, Leads D. C. Entries

Richmond, Va., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Maurice Glick, of the Woodholme Country Club, Baltimore, carded a one-over-par 78 today to win the qualifying medal as the Women's Middle Atlantic golf tournament got under way for a five-day stand in the midst of a series of thunderstorms which sent scores zooming.

Three strokes behind Mrs. Glick, the Baltimore city titlist, were Virginia's two chief hopefuls, Mrs. Jim Reynolds of Richmond and Mrs. J. B. Cralle of Roanoke, finalists earlier this summer for the Virginia women's crown. Mrs. Reynolds won.

Scores soared past the three leaders. Leading the District entries in the tourney was Mrs. Rex Howard of the Kenwood Country Club, who had an 85.

Other Washingtonians to make it to the championship bracket were Mrs. Ann Stonemetz of the Army-Navy Club, 86; Mrs. J. P. Tourchard, Kenwood, 87; and Mrs. Betty Meckley, Kenwood, 94. Mrs. Meckley won a three-way playoff to take the sixteenth playoff spot.

Mrs. Walter Stokes of Washington, defending champion, and a two-time winner, withdrew because of an eye infection.

Mrs. Betty Meckley, Kenwood, Washington, 47-47—94.
Mrs. J. T. Powell, Kenwood, Washington, 50-51—101.
Mrs. J. P. Touchard, Kenwood, Washington, 44-43—87.
Mrs. Herbert Lacey, Manor, Washington, 54-50—104.
Mrs. N. E. Davis, 54-56—110.
Mrs. Frank Mirth, Indian Springs, Washington, 51-49—100.
Mrs. M. Alexander, Washington Country Club, 58-57—115.
Mrs. Ann Stonemetz, Army and Navy Club, Washington, 44-42—86.
Mrs. Rex Howard, Kenwood, Washington, 44-41—85.

Freddie Mills Wins Title, TKOs Belgian

London, Sept. 8 (AP).—Freddie Mills of Great Britain won the European light heavyweight boxing title tonight by scoring a technical knockout over Pol Goffaux of Belgium, in the fourth round of a scheduled 15-round title bout.

Both fighters weighed 172¼.

After being clubbed to the floor five times earlier in the fourth round, the 30-year-old Belgian retired. His eyes leaden from the battering he'd absorbed, his knees wobbly, he stood in his corner and raised his right hand as a signal to the charging Briton that he'd had enough.

In the scheduled eight-round semiwindup, former World Flyweight Champion Jackie Paterson, invading the bantamweight ranks, was stopped in the second round by Stan Rowan of Britain.

The lop-sided victory the 28-year-old Mills chalked up before a crowd of 10,700 fans gave Promoter Jack Solomons a large talking point in his current negotiations with World Light-Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich for a world title bout.

Garden's Bid To Get Smuggy's Opponent Vetoed

A bid by New York's Twentieth Century Sporting Club to substitute Tommy Ball for the ailing Jake LaMotta as an opponent for Bert Lytell at Madison Square Karden Friday night was vetoed by Promoter Goldie Ahearn of the Liberty A. C., yesterday.

Bell is to box Washington's Smuggy Hursey over in a 10-rounder at Griffith Stadium a week from next Monday night, September 22.

Chick Wergeles, manager of Bell, yesterday asked Ahearn's permission to substitute Bell for LaMotta, but was refused and a personal appeal by Lew Burston, the Twentieth Century Sporting Club's acting matchmaker during the illness of Nat Rogers, similarly was rejected.

Norman Von Nida Wins Vardon Trophy

London, Sept. 8 (AP).—Norman Von Nida, brilliant little Australian golfer who has won five British tournaments and tied for first in two more this season, was awarded the Harry Vardon Trophy today for the best average in major stroke play events. He averaged 71.25 strokes in 52 rounds.

'Disgusting,' Says League Head As Umpire Plays First Base

GREENSBORO, N. C., Sept. 8 (AP).—It may be just good, clean fun to some folks when the umpire plays first base for half an inning for the visiting club, but to President T. S. Wilson of the Class C Carolina League it's "disgusting and detrimental to baseball.

That's what President Wilson had to say about the antics of Umpire Pat Fragile, who took over at first base for half inning for the Greensboro Patriots in yesterday's game at Leaksville. President Wilson fined Greensboro's manager, Buck Desorcy, $250 and Fragile $50, and suspended both indefinitely.

Lorraine Gulli Drops to Third

A single pin that dropped practically unnoticed during a busy season yesterday brought Mrs. Elizabeth Barger of Baltimore the highest duckpin honor in the United States.

The National Duckpin Bowling Congress, in announcing its rankings for the 1946-47 season, put Mrs. Barger No. 1 on the list of women bowlers.

Mrs. Barger, three years a runnerup, had a computed average of 118-72 to 118-71 for Maxine Allen of Durham, N. C.

Lorraine Gulli of Washington, who was No. 1 last year for the ninth time, dropped to third this year.

Jack Healey, Noted Trainer, Dies at 43

Baltimore, Sept. 8 (AP).—Funeral services will be held Wednesday at Sacred Heart Church, Glyndon, Md., for John A. (Jack) Healey, vice president of the American Trainers Association and trainer of the Christiana Stable.

Healey, 43, a native of New York, died after a brief illness last night at Johns Hopkins Hospital. He entered the hospital September 1.

A resident of Cockeysville, Md., Healey trained the Christiana Stable of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Lunger, Wilmington, Dela., for about 10 years. Among the better known horses he trained were Alexis, Service Pilot, and Megogo, the latter winner of the 1944 Pimlico Cup.

His father was the late Thomas J. Healey, trainer for the late Harry Payne Whitney, and a steward at both Pimlico and Garden State tracks.

Healey was educated at Fordham University and the Yale Law School, and was one of the few college men to become horse trainers. He was a director of the Maryland Horse Breeders Association.

Healey is survived by his widow, Virginia Graham Healey, and three sons and a daughter.

Two Jockeys Injured at Timonium

Timonium, Md., Sept. 8.—Jockeys Robert Shirey and Willie Nergey suffered falls in the seventh race here today, and it was necessary to take the former to Baltimore's Maryland General Hospital with a possible fractured skull.

Nergey sustained cuts about the face and head.

Shirey's mount, A. D. Curley's World Police, who was lugging into the rail at the time, appeared to cross his legs and stumbled at the first turn on the second time around in the 1 1/16-mile test. In pitching his rider to the ground, World Police weaved in front of The General, causing him to catapult Nergey.

Kaiser Offers Price-Cut Plan For Steel Mill

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Henry J. Kaiser yesterday asked Government backing for a plan to cut steel prices and boost output on the West Coast.

He said his plan would build up his Fontana, Calif., plant from a capacity of 780,000 net tons of ingots a year to 1,300,000 net tons, and from 565,000 net tons of shaped steel to 931,000 net tons.

And with this he would be able to give a price cut.

Kaiser owes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation 90 million dollars for Fontana. He wants the RFC to:

1. Scale his debt down to 55 million dollars and cut his interest from 4 per cent to 3 per cent.

Would Take Second Mortgage

2. Take a second mortgage in place of the first mortgage the RFC now has. Then he could float 80 million dollars in first mortgage bonds, to get the money to expand the plant.

Kaiser said he thought his proposal to the RFC was no more than fair, because he is asking for less of a break than the Government gave the United States Steel Corp. in the sale of the Lake Geneva, Utah, steel plant.

Geneva is Kaiser's biggest competitor, he said, but he can't compete on even terms unless he is able to build up Fontana.

Both Fontant and Geneva were put up during the war with Government money.

Fontana cost more than 100 million dollars, and was paid for by RFC loans to Kaiser.

Geneva cost twice as much and was built by the Government direct. During the war it was run on a lease, and last year was sold to U. S. Steel, as surplus, for 40 million dollars cash.

Kaiser then asked the RFC to call off his old deal and sell him Fontana on the same basis as Geneva was sold to U. S. Steel. That is, he would pay about 20 million dollars spot cash. The RFC turned him down.

Calls RFC Refusal Unfair

He says this was not fair, because he has to compete with Geneva for the Western market and the Government ought to sell him his plant on the same terms.

Kaiser said the proposal he made yesterday—for a 35-million-dollar cut—was based on a survey made for the RFC by Arthur G. McKee Co. of Pittsburgh. The McKee Co. figured 35 million dollars was war cost, added to the cost of Fontana by wartime conditions.

As the deal now stands, RFC has a first mortgage on Kaiser's plant. If his plan went through private bondholders would have an 80-million dollar first mortgage. If there were a depression and Fontana went for 80 million dollars or less in a foreclosure sale, that would wipe out the RFC security.

"But that would not make any difference" Kaiser argues cheerfully. "If things got that bad, there wouldn't be any RFC. In fact if things got that bad, there wouldn't be any Government."

Uranium Yield Is Small in German Mines

Berlin, Sept. 8 (AP).—A German mine manager said today small amounts of uranium were being produced in Soviet-controlled mines in the region of Marienberg, but the veins were light and skilled engineers were lacking.

"Not a gram of uranium" has been produced from the famous mines around Marienberg itself, the German, Hans Grassman, said in an interview. He fled to the United States sector of Berlin several weeks ago after serving as manager at Marienberg for four months.

"I didn't see a bit of uranium or uranium oxide," he said.

Grassman estimated that 10,000 men were working in the four main mine groups in southern Saxony to obtain uranium, which is used in production of the atom bomb.

"Only a few are working voluntarily," he said.

3 Judges Rule Today on Fairfax Primary Recount

A court of three judges, sitting today in Fairfax, will rule on a petition asking a recount of votes cast in the August 5 tie race for the Democratic candidacy the House of Delegates.

Former Delegate Robert J. McCandlish, jr., one of the candidates, filed his petition as soon as the election canvassers had proclaimed a tie. Three days later the State Board of Elections named Delegate Edwin Lynch winner by picking his name from a hat.

In his petition, McCandlish charged an error in the vote counting because of mental and physical fatigue of the polling judges, some of whom had worked 16 or 20 hours on election day.

Douglas to Delay Return to Bench Because of Illness

By The Associated Press

Because of illness, Justice William O. Douglas is not expected to return to the Supreme Court bench for opening sessions of the new term next month.

An authoritative person asked not to be identified said yesterday Douglas would not return from his summer home in Oregon until November, at the earliest.

The exact nature of Douglas' illness was not known, but it was said that he had been advised by his West Coast physicians to take a recuperating rest through October.

Douglas became ill with a streptococcic infection of the lungs Last spring and was treated at Doctors Hospital here. Late in July he underwent a tonsillectomy in a Portland, Ore., hospital.

An informed individual said yesterday it was understood that while this operation was successful, some of the germs that had infected his tonsils apparently had gotten beyond the tonsils and necessitated Douglas building himself up by rest in order to throw them off.

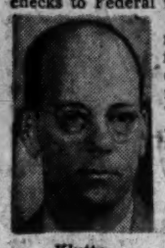
3 Agencies Probe Delay In Paying U.S. Workers

Time Required To Get Checks to Employes Ranges From 5 to 13 Days

By Jerry Kluttz

PAY LAG: A three-agency investigation is under way into the length of time it takes to get paychecks to Federal workers.



Kluttz

The lag time now ranges from 5 to 13 days. The hope is to reduce it to a maximum of five work days, or a week. The lag is from the time an employe earns his salary to the time he's paid. It was lengthened during the war when this city had a high of 287,000 employes. With employment now below 200,000, officials in many agencies have asked that it be reduced.

The 12-day lag works a hardship on new employes who must wait nearly a month before they are given their first check. The Senate Civil Service Committee has joined with the agencies in requesting a reduction of the delay.

The inquiry is being conducted by the General Accounting Office, Budget Bureau, and the Treasury.

In fact, the investigation will cover all payroll and audit procedures. It will go into the advisability of continuing the Treasury Department's central disbursement office which now writes most Government paychecks. Some officials believe the agencies could do this job for themselves just as cheaply, efficiently, and perhaps more speedily.

It will be several months before the agency committee makes its report.

WOC's: This is the Government term used to describe those people who donate their services to Uncle Sam. The WOC means they work without compensation.

But now the Comptroller General comes along with a decision which says that no person may legally waive his right to a salary; that no agency may continue a WOC on its staff, or that no person may be hired on a no-salary basis, unless the Congress specifically provided for it in law. And very few agencies have this congressional authority.

All of which means that either the WOC's must be paid, or they must be cut off.

SALUTE: In this month's issue of '47 magazine, the Washington bureaucrat is given a firm and well-deserved pat on the back. John Gunther, the noted author, lists the bureaucrat as one of the 64 who run America with these words:

"The long-suffering, underpaid, overworked, public-spirited, conscientious, all-but-anonymous Washington bureaucrat without whom the wheels of this country would not turn."

CENSUS: It's cracking down up both annual and sick leave to its employes in its industry division. A memo to supervisors bluntly says that time lost from annual and sick leave must be reduced materially and promptly. These restrictions have been placed on annual leave:

No vacation leave is to be granted if the employe has had a vacation in the past six months;

Leave is to be granted on rare occasions for "emergencies," but the employe must make the request in writing, stating circumstances in detail, and,

No leave is to be granted for errands, shopping and weekend trips.

The memo warns that any employe who takes annual leave after it has been refused will be placed on leave-without-pay. A repeat of the offense will result in his being fired.

Supervisors also have been told to check up on chronic sick leave takers.

JOBS: The Civil Service Commission yesterday announced open competitive examinations for these jobs:

ECONOMISTS, at starting salaries ranging from $3397 to $5905. Competitors must have had from 5 to 7 years of economic research experience. College study may be substituted for all or part of this requirement for the two lower grade jobs. No written test will be required.

MALE LABORER, starting salaries from $1690 to $1822. This job involves heavy duties. No written test. Three to six months' experience required.

CUSTODIAL LABORER, $1690 to $1822. This job is for cleaning and other janitor duties. Women as well as men may apply. No written test.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION will have all of its 4000 employes fingerprinted by the end of this month. The first batch has already been sent to the FBI which is checking them under the President's loyalty program.

Civil Service employes will be the first to be investigated. They will work on loyalty cases and their officials want to be certain this work is in responsible hands.

$7000 Blaze Ruins Chapel Oaks Firehouse

SHORT CIRCUITED—Members of the Chapel Oaks Volunteer Fire Company examine the burnt shell of their engine house in the 5700 block of Sheriff rd., Chapel Oaks, which was destroyed, together with their combination engine and truck, by fire caused by a short-circuited switch. The firemen plan a house-to-house subscription drive to erect a new engine house

Baby Fatally Hurt by Fall of Electric Fan

Death Believed Due to Electrocution; Probe Continues

A 29-month-old baby was apparently electrocuted yesterday when an electric fan fell from a window sill on her head while her mother was out of the room a few minutes.

An autopsy performed on the body of the child, Sharon Anne Alpers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell R. Alpers of 2233 First st. nw., revealed there was no skull fracture, Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy said last night, but she did suffer a 3-inch burn on her left arm. He withheld issuing a certificate of the cause of death until a complete chemical analysis could be made.

The fatal accident, which left Mr. and Mrs. Alpers childless, occurred at about 7:30 a. m., Mrs. Alpers said she had taken her husband to a bus station at about 4:30 a. m. and had moved the baby from her crib to the double bed.

Sharon Anne was awake when she went into the other room, she reported, and when she returned, the baby was gasping, and had the eight-inch fan on the side of her face, while the cord was lying on one of her ankles.

The mother applied artificial respiration, a neighbor reported, and rushed the baby to Sibley Hospital, in a cab. Dr. Charles J. Bowne of 2001 Rhode Island ave. ne., pronounced her dead at 8:30.

Police, however, were unable to find a short circuit in the fan, and they said the mother did not receive an electric shock when she took the fan off the child.

Alpers is employed in Wilmington, Del., as a flight engineer for TWA and is attending a TWA school there. Unable to find adequate housing for the family there, he took the First st. apartment here recently and has been spending weekends with them.

They came East recently from Oakland, Calif.

Weatherman Says Humidity Will Continue

Part of the Atlantic Ocean has been dropped over Washington like a blanket the last two days—and it will still be here today, the Weather Bureau promised.

Humidity which reached a maximum of 96 per cent early yesterday morning gave the city another of those "it isn't the heat it's the humidity" days. High temperature was 84 degrees at 3:49 p. m.; low, 73, at 6:44 a. m.

The forecast for today is a possible high temperature of 85 degrees, cloudy this morning and sunny this afternoon—still with high humidity.

The Weather Bureau explained moisture moving into a low pressure area over the East Coast is keeping temperatures down—and humidity high.

Round-World Fliers Postpone Cairo Hop

Rome, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—George Truman and Clifford Evans today postponed the next leg of their round-the-world flight in Piper Cubs until tomorrow. Evans' home is in Alexandria, Va.

The two former United States Army Air Force pilots, who had planned to fly 1200 miles nonstop to Cairo this morning, are considering a short stay in Athens, Ciampino Airport, officials said.

Flames Ruin Firehouse at Chapel Oaks

Fire struck back at the Chapel Oaks (Md.) Volunteer Fire Department yesterday.

Flames burned out the front of the firehouse at 5701 Sheriff rd., destroyed the $3500 ladder truck, and caused total damage of approximately $7000.

The fire is believed to have been started by a short circuit in the siren switchbox in the front of the frame building.

Assistant Chief Cleveland Thomas discovered the blaze. His alarm brought four volunteer fire departments, the Capitol Heights, Tuxedo-Cheverly, Hillside and Seat Pleasant forces, who fought the flames for two hours. The entire front of the building was destroyed.

A ladder truck had been blocked up while mechanics were working on the transmission, and could not be moved out of the flaming building. Approximately 1200 feet of fire hose also was destroyed, as well as other equipment in the building.

The department was formed about 10 months ago, after several years' effort to obtain fire protection, and the volunteers recently held a dedication ceermony for the firehouse.

Montgomery Police Qualify As Marksmen

Members of the Montgomery County Police Force are sharpening up their shooting eyes.

All last week uniformed officers and detectives banged away at targets with a variety of weapons on the police firing range on East-West highway near Rock Creek. The course will continue until all members of the force have qualified.

High scorer among the 25 members of the 100-man department who have completed the course so far is Pvt. Lester Jones, 26, of Rockville, a former First Division Marine who fought in the South Pacific.

Jones fired his way to a score of 90 out of a possible 100. One of the two instructors, Detective Corpl. Carroll Miller, said a qualifying score is 66, and the general average of those who have completed the course is "about 68 or 70."

Both Miller and his co-instructor, Detective Corpl. William Whalen, are graduates of the FBI police training academy. They are instructing fellow officers in the use of the .38-caliber pistol, .35-caliber rifle and .45-caliber submachine gun.

Participants in the course fire 50 shots from 10 positions in relation to the target, using the right and left hand. They are instructed in correct firing technique from prone, sitting and standing positions. Firing from the hip and through car windows also are demonstrated.

The most difficult feat, according to the officers who fired last week, is hitting a 1-inch bulls-eye at 60 yards with the .35-caliber rifle.

Chief Charles Orme said that after the course is completed a pistol team will be organized from the high scorers to compete with teams from other areas.

26 Coal Cars Leave Rails in Pennsy Wreck

Lock Haven, Pa., Sept. 8 (A.P.).—Twenty-six cars of a coal freight train were derailed today at nearby Mill Hall on the Bald Eagle Valley division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, dumping 1500 tons of coal along the right-of-way.

Cause of the derailment was undetermined, and no one was injured. The train was eastbound from Altoona to Northumberland, Pa.

Jury to Sift Clegg Charges Tomorrow

Grand Inquest Body Gets Case of Alleged Brutalities by Police

The five-week-old Julius Willie Clegg case of alleged police brutality will be heard tomorrow afternoon by a Federal grand jury.

Clegg, 26-year-old Negro war veteran, has charged he was beaten by two detectives and his civil rights violated when police held him 34 hours without charge while investigating a complaint he made lewd remarks to a white woman.

United States District Attorney George Morris Fay yesterday announced that the charges and evidence gathered by investigators would be presented to the grand jury, beginning at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Fay said a "number" of witnesses had been subpenaed but declined to identify them or give the exact number.

11 Days After Request

Fay's announcement came 11 days after he was formally requested to direct such a jury probe by Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett and Detective Chief Floyd A. Truscott.

The police heads acted August 28 after first submitting their joint recommendations to District Commissioners. The Commissioners concurred with the request for grand jury action and gave Barrett permission to make public his reported findings. Barrett declined to make his report public.

At that time it was also announced by the Commissioners that a copy of the report would be submitted to the Corporation Counsel's office for a study to determine whether the findings warranted separate Police Trial Board action.

Acting Corporation Counsel Chester H. Gray disclosed yesterday that the report had not yet reached his office. He said the Commissioners' office had told him the report had been sent to the District Attorney's office.

In Custody Aug. 2

"I don't know whether it was the Commissioners' intent that the actions be taken simultaneously, or not," Gray declared. "Nor do I know whether there was more than one copy of the police report."

Clegg, an employe of The Washington Post, charged that police took him in custody at 6 a. m., August 2, while he was returning to work on his lunch hour. The woman who said she had been lewdly addressed could not identify Clegg as the offender.

Nevertheless, Clegg charged in his complaint, he was slapped repeatedly, called "a black son of a bitch" and threatened that his eyes would be shot out. He was released 34 hours later, without charge, he complained.

Clegg identified two Sex Squad detectives from a police line-up of ten as those who had mistreated him. Police have refused to release their names throughout the investigation.

CIO Local Hits Union's Boycott Of New NLRB

Detroit, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The CIO's boycott of the National Labor Relations Board developed its first snag today when a local of the CIO United Auto Workers announced it was "totally dissatisfied with the union's policy."

Paul W. Duncan, president of the UAW's Industrial Office Workers' local in Detroit, said that a "law once passed by Congress is the law of the land and should not be disobeyed."

Top UAW officials, sensitive to growing opposition to the CIO's anti-NRLB campaign, said they would discuss the matter fully when they hold their quarterly board meeting in Buffalo, beginning tomorrow.

Board Urges Dismissal Of Policeman

Patrolman Alleged o Have Slapped Waitress for Refusing To Accompany Him

Dismissal of a policeman found guilty of drunkenness and slapping a waitress was recommended by a Police Trial Board yesterday.

Burnell

The policeman, Pvt. Alfred M. Burnell, of the Eleventh Precinct, was found guilty on two counts of conduct unbecoming an officer, of drinking in public and being under the influence of liquor.

He was immediately suspended from duty by Precinct Capt. James E. Silvea pending final action of the Commisioners on the board's recommendation.

Burnell's attorney, Fred Icenhower, said he would appeal the decision, however, on grounds that Assistant Corporation Counsel Stanley DeNeale, sitting as a member of the board, had committed judicial error.

Icenhower charged DeNeale with "stepping down from his position as judge to act as prosecutor."

Burnell was found guilty of slapping Miss Mary H. Pence, 1301 Ridge pl. se., when she refused to allow him to take her home August 8.

A second witness, Dudley Proctor, 5202 Jay st. ne., testified Burnell cursed him after asking to see his permit and registration card. Proctor, a Negro, said he saw Burnell "weaving" on the street and that he "had the characteristics of a drunken man."

The Proctor incident was basis of the second specification under the unbecoming conduct charge. Proctor testified at the hearing that Burnell told him "I hate all them black sons of bitches."

Burnell admitted having "one good-sized drink" in the kitchen of the Hillcrest Grill, 2714 Good Hope rd. se. Miss Pence was a waitress at the Grill. He said he remembered none of the incidents of the evening.

Pvt. Francis J. Gallaghan, a policeman on a beat outside the grill, told the board he saw Burnell slap Miss Pence lightly after she refused Burnell's request to take her home.

He also testified he had seen Burnell talking to Proctor and had called the precinct to see if a scout car was available to take Burnell home. He believed Burnell "had been drinking but was not drunk."

Burnell, 35-year-old former Marine, lives at 2825 Naylor rd. se. He is married and has two children.

He previously has appeared before the Trial Board and was fined at least twice. Police officials declined to make his record public pending final disposition of the case. He has been on the police force more than seven years.

Railroad Sending Freight by Air

Chicago (U.P.).—The Santa Fe Railway sends freight by air.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway owns the Santa Fe Skyway, Inc. This organization of 110 picked airmen has seven air freighters in operation.

"This is another example of Santa Fe's use of new modes of transport to meet special shipper demands, and to keep revenue from falling off," says H. R. Lake, president of the Santa Fe Skyway, Inc.

In 1930 the Santa Fe began using highway trucks to provide a more flexible and speedy service to branch line shippers. Its trucks provided 71,524,590 ton miles of service over 7300 miles of highway routes, according to the company's 1946 annual report.

This was an important service to many shippers and one often related to heavy rail shipments, Lake said.

According to Lake, the Santa Fe Railway has filed a motion requesting an immediate air carrier hearing by the Civil Aeronautics Board. This action on Santa Fe's application for common carrier authority to transport property and United States mail by aircraft was originally filed in November, 1946.

Request by 9-Year-Old Girl Brings 'Super' Mail Service

The Washington Post

FROM MAILMAN NO. 1—Nine-year-old Eva Michaelis of 1756 Euclid st. nw., happily reads the letter she received in reply to her note addressed to "the man that takes the mail away." The letter is from Postmaster General Robert Hannegan

Nine-year-old Eva Michaelis, who had never received any mail except from cousins—and, of course, that doesn't really count—took matters into her own hands and addressed a note "to the man that takes the mail away."

"Will you please tell somebody to write me a letter. Thank you. Love," her letter said.

Yesterday Eva, who lives at 1746 Euclid st. nw., had an answer—and from the Nation's No. 1 mailman.

"Dear Miss Michaelis," wrote Postmaster Robert Hannegan. "I can think of no better way to encourage the observance of the approaching National Letter-Writing Week than by writing you.

"The postman delivered your letter to me and I enjoyed reading it.

"I am sure you are a fine little girl. I hope you are successful in your school work and that you will grow up and enjoy in fullest measure the blessings of our great country."

The Postmaster's letter reached Eva only after considerable effort by one of his aides. Eva had scribbled her request on a sheet of shorthand paper and enclosed it in a makeshift envelope folded and sealed with green, red and blue stars used to decorate Sunday school attendance cards.

She didn't bother with a stamp and forgot to give her address. It took a telephone call to all the Michaelises in the book before Eva was located.

A plump little girl with long yellow braids, Eva was pleased as punch yesterday. Her father bought her some blue stationery to carry on her correspondence. Neighborhood youngsters lounged in the Michaelis living room admiring Eva and helping her write an answer.

"You must be a nice man . . ." the letter stated.

3 Men Ask $2500 Each Of Glen Echo

Damages Sought for Alleged Blackjacking By Guards at Park

Three men who charged they were struck by blackjacks wielded by Glen Echo Park guards last July yesterday filed $25,000 damage suits against the Glen Echo Park Co.

All three men were acquitted of disorderly conduct and assault and battery charges placed against them following an altercation between the men and the guards just before closing time July 25.

The three suits, all similar, were filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court on behalf of Thomas H. Leitch, 27, of 5432 Mohican rd., Glen Echo Heights; Joseph C. Leitch, 24, 616 Kennedy st. nw., and John H. Parsons, 38, 6510 Medwick dr., Takoma Park. Their attorneys are John R. Reeves and Robert W. Beall.

The papers filed yesterday charge the men were besten by special guards at the park, and alleges that the charges they faced in police court after 10 hours imprisonment were instituted "without justification or excuse."

When the case was heard in court one o fthe guards, John A. Smith, admitted swinging a blackjack when he saw two other guards struggling with the men. The other two guards were identified as Charles E. Shorts and Leroy Henley.

In another case, John Wesley Penn, 23, of 1349 Ridge pl. se., was found innocent yesterday of assault and batery charges placed against him after a fight involving amusement park guards on August 22. Judge Browning found Penn guilty of disorderly conduct, however, and fined him $50 and costs.

Penn admitted he punched a cash register "just for fun" at a park photo concession managed by Raymond F. Brewer, 4828 16th st. nw. Brewer testified Penn tried to choke him i an argument which followed and Penn charged he was held by Glen Echo guards while Brewer beat him.

Law Urged to Paint Owner's Name on Auto

Automobile, Merchandise Raffles Held Illegal Here

Va. Law Likewise Prohibits Sale of Lottery Tickets, Even for Charity

Virginia and District of Columbia authorities yesterday ruled that raffles on automobiles or other merchandise are illegal and subject participants to fines and/or imprisonment.

In both jurisdictions, it was pointed out, the fact that the raffles are conducted by charitable organizations does not make them legal.

Virginia's Governor Tuck cited the State law in warning organizations planning fund-raising drives.

Acting District Corporation Counsel Chester H. Gray said Section 22, Chapter 15, District of Columbia Code, outlaws "any lottery." He declared:

"Under the terms of this section, sales of tickets of chance certainly are violations."

The Virginia law provides imprisonment not exceeding one year and/or fines not exceeding $500. The District Code sets punishment of imprisonment up to three years and/or fines up to $1000.

In Maryland, where local option on the subject prevails, county commissioners are given discretion on the licensing of organization raffles. Accordingly, Montgomery County licenses some lotteries offering prizes in merchandise; Prince Georges licenses some offering either cash or merchandise prizes.

Governor Tuck told The Washington Post by telephone last night that he issued the statement after receiving numerous complaints of such lotteries, which generally offered automobiles as prizes.

Some Open Violations

"In some cases," he declared, "the sponsoring organizations apparently believed they were entirely blameless of violations of the State law. In others, according to the information reported to me, our laws have been violated openly."

He said he had "reason to believe" that "agents" were promoting the raffles "on a wide scale."

"Most of the chances," Governor Tuck said, "state on their face that the $1 is 'a contribution' to such-and-such an organization. But the ticket also entitled the holder to a chance on an automobile.

"That's just plain subterfuge and I believe any judge in our State would so rule it," he declared.

Tuck's Statement

Said Governor Tuck:

"My attention has been called to reports that in many sections of Virginia lotteries have taken place, or have been planned, in which automobiles or other objects of value are offered as prizes.

"In some instances, charitable or other reputable organizations apparently have participated innocently in these affairs with the purpose of raising funds for a worthy use.

"I want to remind all organizations and individuals contemplating participation in such events that Section 60 of the Constitution of Virginia provides that 'the buying—selling or transferring of tickets or chances in any lottery shall be prohibited.'

"And that section 4693 of the Code of Virgnia provides that 'If any person set up or promote or be concerned in managing or drawing a lottery or raffle, for money or other thing of value, or knowingly permit the sale in such house of any chance or ticket in . . . a lottery, or any writing, certificate, bill, token, or other devices purporting or intending to guarantee or assure to any person, or entitle him to a prize or share of, or interest in a prize to be drawn in lottery . . . he shall be confined in jail not exceeding one year, and fined not exceeding $500.'"

Asks Citizens to Report

Governor Tuck called upon citizens to report to their local law enforcement agencies immediately any lotteries, raffles, or other illegal operations, declaring:

"Violation of the gambling laws is detrimental to the public welfare and tends to impair law enforcement generally. It cannot be countenanced."

George Morris Fay, United States District Attorney for the District of Columbia, declared last night that "under the rules of the District Attorney's Office" he could not give an opinion on the legality of any question "unless formal complaint is lodged."

He said he had received no such formal complaint on which to rule. Until that time, he said, he could not give an opinion on the matter nor say what action he would take.

Examination Urged

Is Child Fit For School? Doctor Asks

By George C. Ruhland, M. D.
District Health Officer

It is up to the parents to prepare the way for the child for entrance to school. If parents want their children to get the most out of school, they must see that they are free from physical conditions which may be handicaps.

Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, director of school medical inspection, reported the following defects in school children during the school year 1945-1946: Defective teeth, 30.6 per cent; enlarged tonsils, 15:5; nutrition, 9.8; skin or parasitic, 7.8; defective vision, 5.6.

These five defects make up 63.9 per cent of all the defects noted in 21,590 physical examinations. The remaining 30.7 per cent of the children in whom defects were noted included such defects as nose and throat, glands, posture, orthopedic, nervous, discharging ear, hernia and heart. In addition, there were more than 10,000 children in whom no defects were found.

Many of these defects can be alleviated by the cooperative efforts of parents, private physicians and dentists. The time between now and the opening of school should be used in correcting any existing defects. Parents, we urge you to take your children to your family physician and your family dentist now. Thus your child will go back to school ready and fit for the important childhood task of beginning or continuing his education.

Dr. Ruhland will outline the steps to be taken in preparing your child for first entrance to school in another article in The Washington Post tomorrow.

5 Candidates List Issues In School Race

Five nonpartisan candidates for Arlington's first elected school board announced their platform last night through the Arlington School Board Nominating Conference which sponsored a citizens nominating convention last month.

The nominees called for a school board responsive to the will of the people and for a continuous study of educational needs as the basis for specific improvements in the Arlington school system.

The five candidates for the November 5 election are Dr. O. Glenn Stahl, deputy director of personnel at the Federal Security Agency; Colin C. MacPherson, home builder; C. E. Tuthill, psychology professor at George Washington University; Mrs. Edmund Campbell, mother of four children; and Barnard Joy, assistant deputy director of the Agriculture Department's extension service.

Citing present overcrowded schools, poor classroom conditions and lack of instruction material in Arlington, the candidates said that the new elected school board should undertake a program of school building and more adequate facilities for recreation, education in the primary grades and the instruction of both handicapped and exceptional children.

LeBeau Praises Platform

Oscar L. LeBeau, chairman of the conference group which sponsored the August nominating convention, praised the platform of the five candidates as "a sound, inclusive program which would give Arlington the outstanding, progressive educational system it needs and deserves."

Parochial Schools in Area Open With Record Enrollment

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

The District's 10,000 parochial school students in grades one to eight returned to classes yesterday a full two weeks ahead of their public school neighbors.

They were excused at noon after a half day's program that consisted primarily of getting reacquainted. Today they get down to the business of learning with a full day's work.

Dr. Leo McCormick, superintendent of Catholic schools for the archdioceses of Baltimore and Washington, said that all schools are enrolled to capacity in Washington, Montgomery and Prince Georges County. Classes in the Maryland schools began last Wednesday.

12,000 Pupils Expected

Dr. McCormick estimated that the total registration for the area will be more than 12,000 students.

Virginia parochial schools also opened their doors yesterday. Enrollment of Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax students was estimated at 2200 by the Rev. Francis J. Byrne, superintendent of schools for the diocese of Richmond.

In Virginia, too, all schools were reported enrolled to capacity.

A majority of Catholic high schools in the District will begin classes today or tomorrow. While the opening date for graded schools was set by Dr. McCormick, high schools are permitted to select their opening day.

Although District public schools do not open until September 22, registration for new students will be held September 17 from 8 a. m. to noon, and September 18 and 19 from 2 to 6 p. m.

Productivity Held Key to U. S. Future

Productivity is the "key to our future as a nation," Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson declared yesterday.

A boom and bust period can be averted "if we produce the goods needed in our own and other countries," he said. America's production has not yet caught up with domestic or world needs, despite employment of more than 60 million workers—an all-time high—he told the opening session of a five-day educational institute on "Employment Security" at American University.

Calling for a "continuing high level of employment" and a "level of wages comparable to prices," Gibson said. Minimum wages must be raised so every worker can purchase the consumption goods and services he needs. The Labor Department, backed by the President, is advocating that the minimum be raised from 40 to 75 cents an hour.

Robert J. Myers, Assistant Commissioner for Program Planning of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, warned institute members that we have not yet "dodged the postwar recession." He declared that high production was vital to avert unemployment.

Today's schedule includes addresses by David A. Morse, Undersecretary of Labor, "Comparisons and Contrasts in Security of Employment, Here and Abroad;" Ray R. The Civil Aeronautics Administration took steps yesterday to increase flying safety by preventing the advancement of reckless and incompetent pilots.

The agency instructed its field inspectors to issue stop orders to halt the promotion to a higher rating of any flier under serious charges of violating safety regulations.

"This will prevent a student pilot from going on to get his private flying license while he is charged with violations that cast doubt on his ability or fitness to hold any license," the CAA explained.

Market Memo

By Lucia Brown

IT'S really beginning to look like fall on the fruit market! Juicy purple Concord grapes are beginning to arrive here . . . Fall Russet (also known as Bosc) and Hardy pears coming from the West . . . a few Rome Beauty apples . . . a winter variety . . . on hand . . . rosy but a bit hard.

Oysters are the big news along the waterfront. Fine, fat ones arriving from the lower Chesapeake Bay . . . smaller ones from further up. Rough, rainy weather in the lower bay is the reason oysters are fat there . . . they move around and eat more when it's stormy.

More purple eggplant now on the vegetable stands. The quality of tomatoes is getting poorer . . . and prices higher . . . as the crop wanes. Lots of green peppers . . . fair supply of sugar corn . . . parsnips are beginning to appear . . . and there are plenty of beautiful Persian and honeydew melons.

Time savers seen in the stores: Seven-minute lemon and chocolate pie . . . all the makings in one package, ready to put together. Chili dinner in dry form . . . all it requires is cooking . . . and the addition of ground meat. Frozen canapes . . . six kinds in one package . . . to heat and serve in a jiffy on busy days when you're having guests.

Cheap combs are poor investments. The poorly constructed teeth will tear fine hair, and it takes very little to pull the teeth out. Buy those with teeth that are fine, strong and rounded.

A Success? But Definitely! Did YouSeeHerHat?

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

SOME of the world's best dressed females base success, they say, on good shoes, stockings AND an outstanding hat. They claim nothing in between matters except, perhaps, a pinch of jewelry. Wonderful hats aren't come by easily, they must be created by an artist.

Lately, the most eye-compelling bits of millinery in Washington have been run up by Mme. Camille Chautemps, who's opening her new shop today. Mme. Chautemps started in business a year ago and has been so successful she's discarding the first tiny show room for grander quarters. She was egged on to this new project by a number of Parisian milliners who made her hats in prewar days. Mme. Chautemps was much in the public eye, for her husband, then a leading political figure, had been Premier of France and a member of at least a dozen cabinets.

On her own, Mme. Chautemps is a well known concert pianist who performed before her marriage under the name of Mme. Durand-Texte. She still keeps up her music, and in spite of the shop's demands, finds time to play on a local radio program Saturday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

Mme. Chautemps has four children to worry about, too. The eldest daughter married an American; the younger ones range from 18 to 7 years old. Camille Chautemps, who came to Washington in the early 40s, is now completely out of the political arena, lives quietly and is content to swap the spotlight with his energetic wife.

The Queen's Escort

IT ISN'T often that a denizen of placid Georgetown is treated to the swish of a motorcycle escort. On Sunday when Marilyn Krug set out for her duties as Queen of the President's Cup Regatta, a motorcycle cop rode fore and aft of her Government limousine.

The Secretary of the Interior's daughter, hatless, wearing a simple dark-blue-accented-with-white dress, looked as if she'd stepped off the cover of some 'teen-age magazine.

Her escort fitted the picture perfectly. A handsome, curly haired young officer obviously late for his date, he hopped hurriedly from a taxi and in a few seconds was bowling off with the queen in her gasoline coach.

Wanted: A Penman

OVER in London there's a desperate search going on—for an expert penman! A gent who's proficient in those Spencerian loops, swirls and squiggles Victorians doted on. It seems that many state documents have to be completely hand written and the official penman up-and-died just as Princess Elizabeth needs a wedding license!

The license itself is to be a magnificent affair, a yard square and of smoothest vellum. Each word has to be traced in Old English characters with a quill pen. Only a perfectionist can attempt the job because one slip, the most infinitesmal blot and the valuable vellum is ruined!

Next to the license problem—there's the question of Princess Elizabeth's wedding ring. Royalty's wedding rings are often fashioned of special gold, derived from some sentimental source. Both Princess Elizabeth's aunt, the Princess Royal and her aunt-by-marriage, the Duchess of Kent, have wedding rings made of gold mined in north Wales. The former owner of these two mines, who's now retired, has offered the Princess the small amount of gold needed.

Even if the royal wedding has been planned with the strictest austerity, there'll be a good show when the bride drives between Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey. Already seats along the route have been almost completely sold out and a crowd larger than any since VE-Day is expected in London.

There'll be a souvenir program, too. The King George Jubilee Trust has given permission to have it printed and sold. The proceeds will be used to foster the physical, mental and spiritual welfare of young people throughout the empire.

Statisticians Meet for Tea In White House Rose Garden

By Elizabeth Maguire

STATISTICAL brains of the world met in the rose garden of the White House yesterday afternoon for a cup of tea. In the absence of President and Mrs. Truman, the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Harriman received, assisted by the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Julius Krug, the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Lewis Schwellenbach, and Director of the Budget and Mrs. James E. Webb.

Meetings of the twenty-fifth session of the International Statistical Institute are being held in Washington starting yesterday and continuing through September 18. Its members will consider new methods of fostering international cooperation in the improvement of statistics. All this has special significance in relation to working out European recovery.

The south lawn of the White House, where some 600 statistical guests gathered yesterday afternoon, is the prettiest spot in Washington. Directly across the lawn, and beyond a fountain circled with red flowers, you see the Jefferson Memorial and the Washington Monument. There were cool breezes yesterday and the sun was bright on sweet smelling grass after the morning rain. The reception started at 4:30 o'clock, but well after 6 guests still crowded under red and white marquees where tea and punch were served.

Marine Band Plays

The Marine Band Orchestra played as the official hosts for the afternoon walked onto the lawn preceded by White House aides, Comdr. Jesse Gay and Col. Victor L. Cary.

Mrs. Harriman has just returned from a summer at Sands Point, Long Island. Her costume was a black dress and tiny pink straw hat trimmed with roses and white lilacs. She wore a three-stranded choker of pearls and two diamond clips on her high-necked dress. Mrs. Krug wore a green suit and a hat of black coq feathers, and Mrs. Schwellenbach was in black trimmed with pink. The wife of the Director of the Budget chose a beige frock with a hat of pink roses.

Greece Still Fights Fascism, Delegate to Council Reveals

Philadelphia, Sept. 8 (AP).—Professor Sophia Antoniades of Greece told the first post-war conference of the International Council of Women today that her country is "still at war, fighting against forces of the world. The fact that the three Greek women here today are the only ones from Eastern Europe shows that Greece does not betray her ideals. Greece, loyal to her ideals, bleeding and suffering, continually resists fascism.

"Fortunately, this generous country where we meet has answered Greece's call. If my wishes are answered may I ask that the next triennial conference be held in Athens, capital of a free Greece?"

Earlier, the delegates passed a resolution urging free access to news in every country. The ICW, the resolution said, "is gravely concerned at the suppression and arbitrary editing of information of many countries."

"Since true democracy must be based on an informed public," it continued, "the ICW considers that there should be free access to the information necessary for forming a true knowledge of both foreign and domestic affairs."

In another resolution, the ICW urged that women be appointed full delegates—not merely advisors or experts—to the United Nations and to other great world deliberative organizations.

Red Cross Tea Climaxes Princess' Social Welfare Tour

An informal tea given by the D. C. Chapter, American Red Cross, yesterday afternoon climaxed another busy day of social welfare study by Iran's petite Princess Achraf Pahlavi.

Practically every day since her arrival on August 26, the dimunitive twin sister of the Shah of Iran, who heads the Imperial Foundation for Social Services in her country, has been visiting various social welfare institutions accompanied by staff members of the National Red Cross. Her "tutors" report that she keeps them on their toes with a stream of alert questions.

Particularly interesting to the royal visitor is the volunteer work, which she hopes to develop in Iran. Nor is she a mere "observer." She chats with patients and workers, and has taken voluminous notes on the organization of fund campaigns, year-'round public information programs, youth movements, community and home service work.

Visits Gallinger

Yesterday the 28-year-old princess visited Walsh House and Gallinger Hospital, where she spent most of her time in the crippled children's section talking with the youngsters. She was accompanied by Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt, chairman of sewing production, District Red Cross; Mrs. A. S. J. Atkinson, chairman, Gray Ladies Corps; Miss Virginia Bentley, chairman, motor corps, and Miss Virginia Russell, news bureau.

With Her Highness at the reception later were Mme. Hilda Arfa, English-born wife of Gen. Hassan Arfa, former Iranian chief of staff, and Mohsen Guragozlou, master of ceremonies at His Imperial Majesty's court.

Uniformed canteen corps volunteers served punch and cakes. They were Mrs. H. E. F. Hawkins, acting chairman; Miss Roberta Tull, vice chairman; Miss Mary Morton, Mrs. Herbert Harris, Mrs. Delmar Tuft, Mrs. Hugh Harstin, Mrs. Harry Giddings, Mrs. George Thompson and Miss Christine Fell.

Dropping in at the reception were four delegates to the Red Cross board of governors meeting here—W. T. Sesnon, jr., chairman, Los Angeles chapter; George A. Ditz, also of California; Howard S. Wilson from Nebraska, and Clarence Bamberger of Salt Lake City.

Service Exhibit

At Walsh House and at District headquarters yesterday, the princess paid particular attention to an exhibit of articles made by wounded and convalescent servicemen.

On Princess Achraf's schedule today is a visit to the Columbia Institute for the Blind, the Legal Aid Bureau, and Barney Neighborhood House. She plans to leave tomorrow for Philadelphia, where she will attend the conference of the International Council of Women, then will proceed to New York for a few days shopping before resuming her Red Cross study in the North Atlantic area. She expects to return to Washington before returning to Iran some time in October.

Woman With a Few Choice Possessions Doesn't Want Them Fought Over by Surviving Relatives After She Dies; How Plan Equitable Bequests?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: In a long life, it has been my observation that most of the family wrangling over the estates of deceased relatives is caused by conflict over the division of personal effects,—not over the partition of cash or real estate property.

I have seen a treasured bit of china, silver, furniture or needlework create bitter havoc in family relations when an estate is being settled.

At present the problem doesn't exist in our family, but I am asking how to prevent trouble. Can you suggest a sensible way of equitably distributing one's personal effects among the children, other than offering these things for sale and dividing the proceeds?

Should In-Laws Be Remembered?

ALSO, should daughters-in-law share equally in the division of personal articles dear to the feminine heart? And should sons-in-law come in for a part of the masculine effects?

While I do not anticipate any division of our property in the near future, nevertheless this matter is giving me a great deal of concern. I certainly don't want my few choice possessions fought over and would appreciate advice on how to avoid that. C. N.

Hardly Possible To Gratify All

DEAR C. N.: "It is a very hard undertaking," says an ancient maxim, "to try to please everybody." Indeed it is generally agreed that the person who tries to please everybody fails to please anybody.

Hence in planning a sensible distribution of your choicest personal effects, against a time when your worldly goods must pass into other hands, my advice is to be guided by the rule-of-affinity.

In other words, distribute those treasured bits of china, silver, furniture, etc., to persons who would be suitable appreciative owners, from the viewpoint of taste or need or sentiment or social setting.

Give With Eye To Suitability

ASSUMING "the children" include three daughters, two sons, two daughters-in-law and one son-in-law, don't tackle the disbursement in terms of mathematics, in the sense of trying to carve up your small store of heirlooms into eight portions, each representing approximately the same cash value.

Rather go at it like this: 1. The mahogany highboy to your eldest son and his wife, who manage beautifully on small means, but who in 18 years' marriage have always been cramped for closet and drawer space.

2. The fragile irreplaceable china to Ellie, your second daughter, who loves it as you do, would treat it reverently and has fine table appointments that it would complement. 3. Your best flat silver to that household amongst the relatives which most needs supply in this respect. Etc.

Please Yourself, But Use Diplomacy

ARTICLES which at best must be cherished more for sentimental than for any utility value, such for instance as fine old needlework, bits of jewelry, a family portrait, etc., should be assigned to recipients according to your estimate of their taste, or in terms of your special affection for them.

Finally, to prevent haggling over these items, also to block the possibility of their being auctioned off at somebody's vindictive insistence, you should write them into your last will and testament as specific bequests.

With your choicest effects thus thoughtfully apportioned, you may courteously round out the list, by equitably assigning other personal possessions—as the spinet, the linens, the hall mirror, fire screen, etc.—to those in the outer circle, with a kind word for each.

Baby Takes on New Awareness At Enchanting Age of 3 Months

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

At three months of age the baby is past the stage of being a mere lump of lovely flesh whose chief response to the parents is a fleeting impersonal smile.

At this time the baby will weigh from 11 to 14 pounds. If the formula or breast-feeding is fulfilling his growth needs, it is more than possible that he will be sleeping all night from 6 to 6. If not, there may be one feeding, (for which the baby should not be wakened) which should be given him at any time he shows a desire for it between those hours.

Presumably, at this age, he will have his first taste of the so-called solid foods, which are not very solid but are quite a change from the baby's breast feeding or formula. The first choices will be made from cereal or vegetable or fruit purees and it is immaterial which one is given. The point to remember is that only one teaspoonful should be offered for from three to seven days, so that any digestive disturbance occasioned by the food will be outgrown. It is time enough then to increase the portions by teaspoonfuls up to the amount which satisfies the baby, but leaves him an appetite for his formula.

Head Turns Now

This is a good age to introduce the baby to stomach-sleeping if he has not already become accustomed to it. He is old enough and strong enough to turn his head easily from side to side. He'll find this a comfortable position and his mother will discover that it is easier to keep him covered than when he lies on his back or side. This is a real advantage in winter. Also, just to turn him on his stomach is a signal that he is to go to sleep. If accompanied by the words, "Go to sleep now, sweet baby," the sentence becomes meaningful.

Babies hail the approach of the mother with glad sounds, a beating of arms and legs and smiles of joy. They come to know when bath time is near and make appreciative noises when dunked into the warm water. But don't let it be too hot or too cold even once, or for long afterward they will greet their baths with cries.

Those Enchanting Colors

They like toys with sound attachments, and are enchanted by bright, vivid colors. One baby talked to and smiled at the bright flowers painted on the rim of her bath table. She turned toward them as soon as laid there. They are equally enchanted by bright pillows, curtains and toys.

The tendency to turn the head persistently in one direction is being outgrown as is the temporary inability to focus the eyes. Both habits cause the mother concern and she is glad to see them depart. It's a nice age with just a hint of the greater skills and greater independence to come soon.

Hats Hug the Head

If I Should Go

If you should live beyond my life . . . I hope you will not grieve . . . I hope you will not suffer, dear . . . Because I had to leave . . . I would not want the world to be . . . A lonely place for you . . . And I would never want to keep . . . Your dreams from coming true . . . For you have always meant so much . . . Of all that life can be . . . And your devotion, dear, has been . . . By far too good for me . . . I know there must be other joys . . . For you to hold and share . . . And there are those who are much more . . . Deserving of your care . . . If I should leave you, dear, I hope . . . Your skies will all be blue . . . And that you have more happiness . . . Than I have given you.

New Slacks

If the washable slacks you have bought for the growing boy are too long, take a tuck under the hem of the trouser legs and let him wear them this way until after they are laundered. Between the shrinkage in the laundering and the summer growing of the boy that tuck will have to come out before the summer is over.

Ask Anne — Your Questions on Homemaking

R. H.

A recipe for the cake follows:
1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
3 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup milk
5 egg whites
1 teaspoon almond extract.

Cream margarine, add sugar and cream well. Sift flour twice, add salt and baking powder, and sift again. Add to creamed mixture alternately with the milk. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and flavoring. Pour into three waxpaper lined 8-inch layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 35 minutes.

Make icing as follows:
2 cups sugar
6 tablespoons cold water
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
Fresh shredded cocoanut

Mix sugar, water, salt and egg whites. Place in top of double boiler and cook for 7 minutes, beating constantly with a rotary egg beater. Remove upper pan of double boiler and continue beating until cool and somewhat thickened. Add vanilla. Spread over top of layers and sprinkle generously with shredded cocoanut. Put layers together, ice sides, and cover with cocoanut.

My double-bed mattress—a very good one for at least 15 years—has just lately begun to show signs of breaking down. There are two o rthree holes in it the size of a silver dollar where ends of springs have come up. I cannot press the ends down far enough to keep them from doing this, but I can feel that the cotton padding is gone all the way down in the spring. I am wondering whether if I got more batting, stuffed it in, and sewed up the hole, that would "satisfy" the spring. J. R. H.

It looks as though commercial renovation or buying a new mattress is the only answer to your problem. Even if you stuffed in batting and sewed up the holes, the springs wouldn't stay down. The amitress has to be taken apart and remade to get those broken springs under control. The price for renovation seems to range from $18 to $25 in Washington.

Aspic That's Different

An aspic with individuality—that's this one made with cooked radishes, sardines and stuffed eggs! Exact directions follow:

6 hard-cooked eggs
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ tablespoon chopped pimiento
4 sardines, mashed
½ teaspoon French mustard
2 tablespoons melted butter
Salt
Paprika
1 package aspic jelly
6 stuffed olives, sliced
12 cooked radishes, peeled and sliced
12 small sprigs parsley
Watercress or lettuce

Cut eggs in half crosswise. Remove yolks and mash to a paste. Add parsley, pimiento, sardines, mustard and butter. Season to taste and fill the egg whites with this mixture. Prepare aspic according to directions on package. Let stand until it begins to congeal, then pour enough into a solid mold to cover the bottom. Arrange in this a layer of the filled eggs in an attractive design, with stuffed olives, radishes and parsley. Let stand until the gelatin is firm before adding additional layers. Let stand until firm after each layer is added. When ready to serve, unmold and place on a large plate garnished with watercress or small hearts of lettuce leaves. This recipe will serve six.

Assault on Girl, Age 3, Brings 6-Month Term

Charles L. Posey, 56, 927 L st. nw., was ordered yesterday to serve six months in the Maryland House for Correction for assault on a 3-year-old girl. Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie imposed the sentence in Hyattsville Police Court.

Posey was accused of taking the child into a basement of the Kaywood Gardens Apartments August 29 and molesting her. The child's mother discovered them and screamed. The man ran, but was picked up later by Mt. Ranier, Md., police.

Magistrate Bowie sentenced Wilmer Wright, 28, 5300 Lee pl., Deanwood Park, to serve 18 months in the House of Correction for assault and battery on James Waugh, of the same address. Wright also was ordered to pay $50 or serve 30 days in jail on a drunk and disorderly charge.

In another assault and battery case, Magistrate Bowie sentenced Herbert L. Wright, 51, 1117 Chapel Oaks dr., Chapel Oaks, Md., to pay a fine of $50 for shooting Robert H. Ward, 31, 1411 C st. se., a barber, in the leg. The shooting followed an altercation in the Chapel Oaks barber shop, 5718 Sheriff rd., May 17. Wright, no relation to the defendant in the other case, also was ordered to a pay a fine of $100 for carrying a dangerous weapon. A sentence of six months in the House of Correction on the same charge was suspended.

Sailor Questioned In Ocean View Slaying of 'Briton'

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 8 (AP).—Police sought tonight to establish the identity of a man, reportedly a British merchant seaman, who was found shot to death on the beach at Ocean View late last night.

Meanwhile, Naval authorities questioned Raymond W. Ballard, young enlisted man for whose arrest Detective Leon Nowitzky said he had obtained a warrant charging him with the shooting. The Fifth Naval District withheld Ballard's age and home address.

Ballard was arrested at his home shortly before 3 a. m. today after another Navy enlisted man, L. J. Smith, reported to Norfolk Naval Station officers that Ballard had shot a British merchant seaman after threatening to rob him, according to Nowitzky and Detectives L. L. Jones and E. M. Towe.

The detective said Smith told and the other man to the beach them he had accompanied Ballard and that after the Britisher was shot, Ballard threatened to shoot Smith. Smith said he fled and notified Naval Station officers.

Third Graders At Pulaski Are 'Orphans'

Pulaski, Va., Sept. 8 (AP).—The sound of school bells echoed throughout Virginia today, but they weren't ringing for the third grade pupils at Pulaski's Fairlawn School.

The children were without a classroom.

The third graders went to school in the basement of the Village Baptist Church last week, over the vigorous protests of their parents who complained of the lack of modern education facilities in the area.

But even that space was ruled out Saturday by the Rev. Estus Rushing who said he would not be able to turn his church over to the pupils this week because he had no official agreement with the county school board.

Superintendent Frank J. Critzer said he had failed to find a spot for the classes but promised to continue his housing search today.

Meanwhile, irate parents have scheduled a mass meeting tonight—the third since protesting demonstrations began Tuesday night—to "iron out legal questions" involved in their attempt to force the county school board to provide classroom space for the third grade pupils.

At a meeting Saturday night, parents and home owners agreed to call off their threatened boycott of the school because of possible legal complications under Virginia's compulsory school attendance laws.

Staunton Set To Make Rain With Dry Ice

Staunton, Va., Sept. 8 (AP).—A few hunks of dry ice, dropped from an airplane into the first passing cumulus cloud, may save the City of Staunton $300,000. Or so City Manager W. Guy Ancell hopes.

It's like this:

Every summer when the droughts begin, the water level in Staunton's North River Reservoir gets so low that the city water department is forced to use "hard" spring water to supplement the regular supply.

When this happens, cries of local citizenry are vigorous and the City Council had just about decided that an auxiliary reservoir would have to be built to the tune of about $300,000.

Today, City Manager Ancell got an idea. If the water level in the North River water shed could be raised 1 inch, he figured, the water supply would then be sufficient.

So he approached a local air service. Would it attempt, he asked, to duplicate the feat of a southern Arizona rancher who made rain out there when drought plagued that locality?

H. P. Grim, jr., who runs the service, said he didn't see any reason why it couldn't be done.

"We've got more cumulus clouds around here than out in Arizona, and we've got a large plane which we can take up to 10,000 feet and drop dry ice," he said.

Chances are the experiment will take place in the next few days.

Maintenance Men Out on Strike at Five Breweries

Baltimore, Sept. 8 (AP).—A strike of maintenance workers at five local breweries was under way today and a spokesman for the International Association of Machinists (AFL) said the walkout was "bound to affect production" if it lasted.

The workers—responsible for maintenance and repair of all plant machinery and delivery trucks—walked off their jobs after negotiations for higher wages and a five-day week collapsed. Edmund Peresluha, IAM representative, said his men were "not depending on the cooperation of other unions at the plants, but I believe that at least some of them will respect the picket lines."

George H. Hocker, jr., a spokesman for the breweries, said the machinists and auto mechanics were given a 19-cent wage increase July 1, 1946. One year later, Hocker said, another 16-cent hourly boost was offered.

Father Drowns In Yacht Blast

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 8 (AP).—A gay family yachting party ended in tragedy yesterday when Bryant Lee Caps was drowned while attempting to aid his 9-year-old daughter following an explosion aboard the cabin cruiser Green Brier.

Fred Thrasher of Green Brier Farm, who accompanied the Caps family on the outing, said an explosion which ripped through the 30-foot yacht about a mile off Willoughby Spit threw Caps' daughter, Jeanette, into the engine compartment. He said the father lost his footing and fell overboard as he started to her aid.

The tragedy was witnessed by Caps' wife and two children, Thrasher's wife and daughter, and another guest.

Virginia Food Dealers Tour The Navy Yard at Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 8 (AP).—Members of the Virginia Independent Food Dealers Association toured the Norfolk Naval Station this afternoon after a business session at which they heard a report on recent activities of the National Association of Retail Grocers by Mrs. R. M. Kiefer, secretary-manager of the national group.

A floor discussion of trade association activities was led by Charles B. McFee, managing director of the Virginia Retail Merchants Association and Harry W. Walker, secretary-manager of the Maryland Independent Retail Food Distributors.

A four-man discussion of State sale taxes will occupy the members tomorrow and the annual banquet will be held tomorrow night. Election of officers and a boat trip to Cape Charles will wind up the convention Wednesday.

Freight Lines' Strike Slows Va. Shipments

Winchester, Va., Sept. 8 (AP).—Motor freight shipments in northern Virginia and nearby Maryland were substantially curtailed today as the result of a strike of some 350 drivers, platform workers and shop employes of seven Winchester lines.

The men quit work after expiration of a two-year contract Saturday night, and spokesmen for the companies said service here was virtually paralyzed. Members of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, were picketing the terminals.

At Cumberland, Md., C. E. Stutzman, business agent of the local with which the Winchester workers are affiliated, said the drivers were seeking raises of from 20 to 25 per cent. Only minor changes had been made in the contract during the two years of its life, he said. In spite of the walkout, Cumberland negotiations are still going on.

Truck lines affected include Novick Transfer Co., Alleghany Freight, Elliott Transfer, Smith Transfer, Superservice, Mason-Dixon Transfer and Associated Transport.

Boy Asserts 'Mamma Said Shoot' Father

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 8 (AP). Beyond the assertion that "Mamma told me to shoot him" and that his father came at him with a knife, Acting Police Chief J. E. Adams said, authorities tonight could learn little from 15-year-old Floyd Butler of details leading to the shotgun slaying of his 63-year-old father, William John Butler.

Adams said he intended to question the slight, brown-haired boy further on what went on Saturday morning at the farm near Syria in Madison County, where Butler's body was found near a chicken house. The boy is charged with murder.

Floyd's mother, Mrs. Minnie Lee Seal Butler, was charged with aiding and abetting the slaying, and was brought here also for questioning.

The Charlottesville police official said the boy at first denied the slaying, but later said his father came at him with a knife. Still later, Adams said, Floyd told him, "Mamma told me to shoot him."

The boy and his mother were brought here at the request of Madison authorities who utilize the Albemarle regional jail, and Charlottesville police were requested to assist in the investigation.

Butler, employed by a fruit packing house, lived with his wife and son in a four-room house. He was buried Sunday in Madison County.

Landlords Sued Over Eviction

Baltimore, Sept. 8 (AP).—In what court attaches believe is the first suit of its kind in Maryland, Mrs. Lula E. Nordhause today sued for $10,000 damages on the ground she was forced improperly to leave her home.

The suit alleged she was evicted on the claim that new owners of the property, Rebecca M. Smith and Louis and Leah B. Meyers, wanted to occupy the premises. She charged they never made personal use of the property.

Mrs. Nordhause asserted she suffered loss of income by being obliged to discontinue a rooming house, and had to buy a new property and incur moving expenses.

Freight Rates Are Boosted In Virginia

Richmond, Va., Sept. 8 (AP).—Virginia railroads lost one round but won another before the State Corporation Commission late today, when the SCC denied a petition for rate increases on fertilizer, but granted a 22.5 per cent boost on intrastate class shipments.

The commission's decisions were embodied in two orders entered during the afternoon.

The railways received some help in the matter of fertilizer rates last January, when the commission authorized the carriers to make permanent a previous temporary boost in tariffs. They asked a further increase, but this was denied several months ago.

Today, the SCC ruled that "there does not appear to be any justification for a change" in its previous decision not to allow further increases.

Last month the railways appeared before the SCC with a petition for increase in intrastate class rates to make them conform to a 22.5 per cent boost approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The lines also asked for a new system of only four Virginia "gateways," by which minimum charges would be reckoned.

Under terms of its order today the commission granted the general increase, but denied the application to limit the number of gateways to four. Intrastate shipments between official territory and Southern territory will have to be figured according to gateways at Norfolk, Suffolk, Jarratt, Alberta, Meherrin, Brookneal, Altavista, Roanoke and Bristol, the commision held.

The increased charges on intrastate freight shipments may be made effective within 10 days, the SCC said.

Md. Fight to Put Sales Tax to Vote Is Taken to Court

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 8 (AP).—Maryland had official notice today that a fight to put its 2 per cent retail sales tax up to the voters has gone to court.

Anne Arundel County Sheriff Joseph Alton delivered a showcause order to the office of Secretary of State Bertram L. Boone this morning. It allowed the secretary until October 4 to answer a petition for a mandamus writ that would require a sales tax referendum in November, 1948.

The petition was filed in county court last Friday by Carroll H. Albaugh, Annapolis attorney for four protesting taxpayers. One of them, Robert I. Black of Norbeck, is president of the Maryland Economic Council, which filed petitions for referendum with the secretary of State in May and June.

500 Still Out In Tomato Strike

Salisbury, Md., Sept. 8 (AP).—The pepper processing section of the Campbell Soup Co. plant was in operation today, but handling of tomatoes still was halted by a strike which started last Thursday, Plant Manager W. L. Parvin reported.

Parvin said 200 of the 700 employed at the plant were at work processing peppers. He said there was "no break" otherwise in the strike.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Ankle Lengths for Men, Too?

Recruits are signing up in record numbers for the Lizzy Stone League for the Abolition of Long Skirts.

Gracie Walton of Riggs rd., Hyattsville, Md., asks, "Can they be serious? I can't see any beauty in the new styles, and neither can I feel comfortable with a drooping hem banging against my calf."

Mrs. Dorothy B. Stillman of McLean, Va., is against the long skirts for both economic and aesthetic reasons. But she's pessimistic about bucking the trend because "women don't choose styles; they get them."

Mrs. Geraldine Fite of 2060 S. 10th rd., Arlington, Va., joins the League and wonders whether we've heard of a Texas outfit known as "Gams Anonymous." (Shorter name, same purpose.)

E. M. L. of 1847 Mintwood pl. is also gam conscious, and vows she's not going to hide hers. She says, "I've needed new clothes ever since I got out of the Wacs, but I'll wear the old ones until I can get what I want."

Speaking of old ones, Mrs. Harvey W. Lance of 201 Elmira st. sw. reminds us that they're still needed overseas. The Friends' Service Committee, at 2111 Florida ave., mends torn cast-offs and sends them to less style-conscious folks abroad.

Barbara Chosch of 9 Russell rd., Alexandria, Va., joins our movement with a dandy poem which points out that years ago styles covered everything, and then evolved into the modern bathing suit which covers nothing. Now we're headed back the other way again.

Mrs. L. M. L. of 139 S st. nw., says, "I have a picture of my daughter and me, taken about 10 years go. We were wearing ankle-length skirts — and do we look dowdy! Never again."

Mrs. R. L. Graham of Highfield, Md., says the last time she bought a dress and asked that it be shortened the saleslady sniffed, "I'd rather be dead than out of style."

Mrs. Pamela C. Gosnell of 605½ Main st., Laurel, Md., injects a new note into the discussion.

She says her husband wants to start a league to protest against "shorter pants for men, which seem to be staging a comeback."

What's this, what's this? Now I'm REALLY ready to fight.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

When the New York State Society holds its next dance at the Shoreham on September 13, the door prize will be "a weekend for two in New York."

President Harold B. Barnett invites me to attend the dance and adds:

"Maybe you'll win the door prize. I'm sure a lot of your readers would be in favor of your taking a trip."

GIVE-AWAYS

"A true cat, who loves out-of-doors exploration. Male, healthy, responsive." (WOodley 8562, evenings or weekends.)

CRITIC CRITICIZED

Billie Turner of 4226 7th st. nw. thinks I'm a "bad neighbor" because I don't like Xavier Cugat's version of Chopin. She says:

"You need a reminder that the peoples of North and South America are arriving at an economic, political and cultural union.

"Your item about Cugat and the Chopin Nocturne is the type of thing that retards cultural interchange.

"Have you ever learned to do a real, down-to-earth rumba? If you had, I'm sure you'd appreciate the interpretation of a Latin artist."

You leave my rumba lessons out of this, young lady.

ADD SIGNS

Stephen Rose of 1403 Newton st. ne. has an eye for restaurant signs.

Along the No. 80 trolley line he notes the "Chew and Chat," the "Mail and Rail," and the "Visible Lunch."

But his best one was spotted in Cleveland's Hungarian section, where a posted notice proudly proclaimed:

"English Spoken Here."

C. F. S. Sharpe of 221 Monroe st., Falls Church, Va., is another District Liner with an eye for signs.

He says that on the south side of the Union Station concourse there is a large sign which reads: "Waiting Room, Streetcars, Buses."

The sign's arrow points to three doors—two of which bear "Closed" signs and the other a sign saying "Do Not Enter."

"Just where did you read that stuff about kids keeping you young? . . ."

Leonard Lyons

Green, Murray to Sub for Fiorello

NEW YORK—Sir. Louis and Lady Sterling will leave London in a few weeks, to spend the winter in New York. Their departure from England will bring no regret to the directors of the British band from which Sterling once borrowed £300,000 . . . When the war started and food-rationing began in England, the bank directors learned that Sir Louis was suffering from malnutrition. "Since you are the bank's biggest debtor, your health is of concern to us," they told him. "One of our clients is a meat dealer, and through him we may obtain some extra meat." For the last eight years, therefore, the bank has delivered one chicken a week to Sir Louis Sterling, to preserve his health and protect his £300,000 indebtedness.

The bank also supplies extra food for his Christmas parties, lest his guests see a naked table and—interpreting this as financial embarrassment by its No. 1 debtor—withdraw deposits and thereby start a run.

When the antitrust case against the movie companies is heard before the U. S. Supreme Court, Jimmy Byrnes will make his first appearance there since he left the High Bench. John W. Davis and George Wharton Pepper also will appear as counsel.

The American Legion flag which Mayor O'Dwyer carried in the parade was borrowed by him from his predecessor, Fiorello LaGuardia. It's the only Legion flag which has no post designation on it . . . LaGuardia, incidentally, will have both Green and Murray, the heads of the A. F. of L. and CIO, as guest stars substituting for him on his radio shows.

The Norwalk, Conn., newspaper which Time, Inc., bought and then scrapped—ostensibly to use its presses—may be revived for Clare Boothe Luce's senatorial campaign.

Jack Kapp, the head of Decca Records, was in Zurich last month and visited Franz Lehar. They discussed "The Merry Widow" and other Lehar operettas—some of which were written more than 40 years ago and now are in the public domain.

Kapp told the composer about the Chopin, Brahams, Schumann and other melodies for which American songwriters have written lyrics and obtained copyrights. " 'For instance, there's 'Till the End of Time' which was taken from the 'Polonaise,' " Kapp cited. " 'Till the End of Time' sold more sheet-music and recordings in one year than the 'Polonaise' ever did. Why not 'have someone write new lyrics to Lehar tunes?' . . . Lehar liked the idea of Lehar stealing from Lehar, and two Lehar songs will be reissued with new lyrics.

Rinaldo Smordoni and Franco Interlenghi, who used to shine the GI's shoes on the streets of Rome and who were acclaimed by the New York film critics last week for their leading roles in the Italian-made movie, "Shoe-Shine" now are back in the old stands in Rome—shining shoes again.

Jesse Jones is bringing the Governor of Texas, the Mayor of Houston and Houston newspapermen to New York for a celebration to mark the opening of a new department store in Houston . . . Baron Nickey de Guinzberg may become editor of Town & Country.

JO COPELAND DESIGNS FOR MODERN LIVING

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Pattullo's Jo Copeland feels so strongly that the contemporary way of life of American women and women all over the world is so unrelated to any past history that she is not interested in working from any period.

She would rather continue with the modern interpretation of clothes, which her designs exemplify — the slim silhouette with natural curves showing.

This season, Miss Copeland believes, is going to be one of varied "trial and error."

"The final weeding out of the current trends is up to the consumer," she says. "Women's tastes are so developed. They're emancipated in more ways than one. They simply won't be ridiculous or uncomfortable for the sake of fashion."

Jo Copeland maintains that there must be a compromise between comfort and fashion. With no need for more than the ordinary girdling, she creates the illusion of a small waist and continues with the flattering bosom line her clothes have always had.

A Copeland favorite, the draped skirt, remains conspicuously important in this fall and winter's presentation.

Shoulders in her new clothes are rounded in line with the general softer feeling, but pads are definitely not dropped.

Lush fabrics are featured in Jo Copeland's collection. She likes to use them as accents for simple fabrics such as crepe or draped in combinations for her superlative afternoon and cocktail dresses. Lace and satin and lace and metal are two of this year's remarkably elegant couplings.

"All suits are important," declares Miss Copeland—and all of her suits look important. A birdseye tweed is touched with a velvet collar and velvet "arrows" on the curved jacket's front seams. This suit is tailored in Miss Copeland's unique dressmaker manner. It looks "round" even on the hanger.

Jo Copeland designs no "early morning suits." She believes in ready-for-any-occasion clothes, clothes that will allow a woman always to look her best, that will keep her dressed "in preparation for the unexpected."

FASHION'S FORMALITY EXTENDS TO MENSWEAR

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO. REPORTING

Jo Copeland of Pattullo clings to her long, tight sheath, makes it more pronounced than ever with unassertive shoulders, long, tight sleeves, long bodice-line, longer skirt.

Having cast the basic body mold, she then wraps, drapes and swooshes material around it—everything under control and all with the intent of making the woman most important. She does a great deal of hip shaping in this way, achieving a silhouette of charm and grace. All this is in the new feeling for fashion elegance and femininity.

Jo Copeland makes menswear feminine. Here, she takes a Glen plaid lightweight imported woolen and drapes the skirt with a new upward movement. Men love to see women in a man's type of fabric, especially if treated in a feminine manner. This dress will be devastating.

Subtle evidence of Jo Copeland's skill is a sari-draped afternoon rayon crepe with gold lamé sari stripes introduced in lightning flashes on bodice and skirt. We selected that, too.

Her suits have extremely slender waistlines, often have draped skirts. Many are in combinations of the wonderful dull-dark colors of the year. Her use of rich white in afternoon and evening clothes is a shock and a delight.

MANGONE GAINS INSPIRATION FROM FABRICS

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Philip Mangone, as a designer of suits and coats, believes that fabric is all-important, that the style of the clothes largely comes from the material itself.

He likes a fabric that has "personality" as well as fashion stability. This fall, as in previous seasons, he uses chiefly fine broadcloth, suedes and worsted suitings in "plotting the lines" of his new suits, which should be destined to be as long-lived as have his designs in former years.

Some magnificent coats are fashioned from novelty tweeds and patterns which are exclusive with Philip Mangone.

Mr. Mangone's infallible selection of fabric is, however, combined with his solid genius in manipulating it into his enduring clothes.

Vogue editors selected Philip Mangone's Greatcoat as the "great coat" of the year. The fabric in this coat, a superlative green-red-brown plaid tweed is fashioned into a tent-like fullness in the new triangular silhouette.

Philip Mangone's suits, too, have gracious quantities of material; but their generous cut has not so much of an obviously new look as a right look. The eye does not have to grow accustomed to them to accept Mangone's suits.

In his actual views on skirt lengths, Mr. Mangone advises, "Do not let fashion dictate your skirt length to you, rather adjust it to your own proportions." He feels, though, that mid-calf and longer is most flattering.

"Suits can be as elegant as dresses," says Mr. Mangone—and, certainly, his current ones are. Fur trimming is used in a lavish manner and for accent touches. Frogging is seen, too, especially on broadcloth.

Mangone effects many costumes by the use of enveloping capes—some with the added luxury of heavy fox fur—both over suits and full length coats.

Wrap-around coats, either draped or not, are shown very importantly at Philip Mangone's. Slim, fitted coats are also part of his collection.

Philip Mangone's new collection is quite definitely an outstanding contribution to today's "lady-look."

GENEROSITY OF CUT MAKES OLD SUITS SEEM SCHOOLGIRLISH AND OUTGROWN

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO REPORTING

To understand some of the changes taking place in fashion, try on our Philip Mangone suits just arrived. At first glance they appear not so very different, and even when you have slipped one on, it seems not startlingly new. But you feel like a new woman, and the suit seems just right. It's your old clothes that begin to feel wrong.

Skirt lengths are two to three inches longer, but you don't think of them as long, just normal. It's the short skirts you'll notice from now on. Every one will be glad that there are no more knees.

There's a wealth of material in the new Mangone suits. Classic jackets are longer, right down to the wrist. Skirts are cut with a swoop or a sweep or folded into box pleats that reveal hidden depths as you walk. Perfect proportions give a new youthful poise.

CHOOSE YOUR OWN "LOOK," SAYS POTTER

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Clare Potter does not believe in just one silhouette and feels that this year will be especially good for finding one's most becoming clothes.

She thinks "you can express yourself in your own personal dress" and particularly likes ensemble clothes — "not too studied." "It's a season of assembling your clothes so that everything ties in," she says and advocates the "one color look," using different fabrics.

Mrs. Potter is severe in her distaste for "effort-ful" clothes, though she likes a costume to be well thought out. She has always championed the clean, serene look, yet always manages to have excitement in her clothes.

In identifying a trend in her collection, Mrs. Potter announces, "All my clothes are easier in every way, though there are lots of long, tight skirts." Her blouses are "casual," but so beautifully tailored that there's nothing hit-or-miss about them.

Mrs. Potter's deft use of "peculiar" colors and color combinations transforms a blouse, cummerbund, skirt dinner trio into a spectacular ensemble. An olive green blouse with a bright yellow cummerbund cinching in the waistline of a turquoise skirt is but one in an inexhaustible series.

Also magnificently understated is a "pink-y gray" wool dress teamed with a "gray gray" jersey lined coat.

Mrs. Potter is contagiously enthusiastic about her length of tweed scarf on which she's placed a huge pocket at either end. This is worn with a matching tweed skirt and a knitted monotone blouse.

"You should look as well dressed in slacks as in your best dinner dress," states Clare Potter and comes up with a sleek pair of wool jersey ones fashioned along jodhpur lines. There's a snug, long-sleeved blouse and an amusing little tie-on apron in the same fabric. Mrs. Potter calls this the "Indian look!"

Clare Potter thoroughly enjoys designing; but, "It's got to be fun," she beams—and her clothes are.

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO. REPORTING

Clare Potter gives just enough importance to the casual day dress to make it right for any occasion, nine to six. This is one of the reasons for her great success, for the unceasing demand for her clothes.

Understanding fashion perfectly, she tempers it to blend with the American scene. Here, she strikes key points of normal shoulders, slender waistlines and longer skirts, but expresses these fashion changes so subtly that you don't think about them.

Clare Potter uses lovely materials, has an inspired sense of color. Imaginative tucking gives these dresses special interest.

HATTIE CARNEGIE LOVES THE NEW FASHION TREND

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—In discussing the current fashions, Miss Hattie Carnegie feels that femininity has never before had such a chance. She is very enthusiastic about the popular acceptance of the present rounded silhouette, and says, "I thoroughly enjoy designing clothes in line with a trend that 'does things' for women."

Miss Carnegie thinks that though a woman must never be overdressed, she must know that she's dressed; must feel her dress.

Behind every one of Hattie Carnegie's designs is the basic idea of the woman beneath. Miss Carnegie is acutely aware of the importance of good carriage in creating a more beautiful "woman beneath." She feels that with the aid of her Waist Minimizer a woman's carriage will be naturally improved.

"It's wonderful to know the satisfaction of having a little waist—and showing it." She's glad the current trend made this possible.

Carnegie's Minimizer, besides actually taking in the waist at least one inch, will help give a natural lift to the bosom through more correct posture, and, of course, will round the hip contour.

Miss Carnegie believes that everything must be in lovely symmetry. The shoulders of her new clothes are "almost natural" since she believes completely unpadded shoulders are unbecoming to most figures.

With the "almost natural" shoulder, the woman will not look "all head" if she doesn't wear an overpowering hat. Hattie Carnegie has always sponsored the "little hat" and does so especially now when it is the obvious right look.

"It's a complete story," says Hattie. "The smaller hat will keep the narrow shoulders in perfect proportion."

Longer skirts will find favor, Miss Carnegie is sure, due to the treatment on top.

"If the dress is kept snug and shapely on top, the long skirt will be a must." (Her clothes have always had the uncluttered bodice.) Carnegie dresses are exponents of a simple beauty of line which so flatters the wearer. She knows how to make dresses.

Miss Carnegie is a marvelous enthusiast about her dresses and how they look while being worn. She likes personally to supervise the accessorizing of each design when it is modeled for her on completion.

Miss Carnegie is famous, too, for muted suitings tailored in a deliberately feminine way.

carnegie:
corsets and crinolines watch out for curves

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO. REPORTING

Our Hattie Carnegie collection, arriving daily, gives you the full impact of fashion's great change.

Carnegie's shoulder treatment is a sensation. Shoulders are brought back to normal, with imperceptible padding. From gentle, feminine shoulders, the shape curves in at the waist, out at the hips — often blossoming into full-blown skirts.

Everything's for the skirt. Often it's decorated with milliner's folds and bows. Carnegie skirts are fourteen inches from the ground for day, twelve for cocktails, eight for evening—varying slightly with the wearer's height.

Carnegie actually brings out a corset — a tiny thing called a minimizer, to make your tiny waist still tinier. It's to be worn over your girdle, reduces your waist measurement an inch, and builds out the hips.

Hips are also extended by Carnegie's intricate curving cut, by projecting peplums, by crinolines. The more the skirt is built out at the hipbones, the flatter the stomach appears to be.

Two early arrivals are illustrated. The French twist suit in Gobelin blue has a slim elegance but the shape is there in the concave waistline. The Gaspereau tweed, with huge milliner's folds, is an example of the projecting silhouette. As with all her traveling tweeds, Carnegie shows an overnight case, slip-covered to match.

NO IN-BETWEEN SILHOUETTE AT TRAINA-NORELL'S

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—"There are no 'in-betweens' at Traina-Norell's," Mr. Norman Norell firmly declares.

Skirts are either voluminously full or shaftlike. The silhouette, however, is mostly the full-skirted one.

Mr. Norell doesn't think big skirts and small waists are for everybody, though. "There's no point in accentuating what isn't there! If you don't have a small waist, why show it?"

Height doesn't seem to matter, he feels. "Frequently taller women look better in slim clothes. It's the waistline that's important for the full skirt, not height."

Norell's long-lined clothes are fashion forecasters. His overskirts and tiered skirts are brilliantly executed and completely original. He does tiered skirts because "when skirts get longer, you can start dividing them." The Traina-Norell Spring Collection will have many more of both tiers and the overskirts, but these forerunners are fall highlights in the changing fashion picture.

Dresses with Norman Norell's spreading skirts are topped by extremely simple — "almost childlike"—bodices. The charming decollete of boat necks is found on most afternoon dresses, and, of course, the shoulders are at their delicate narrowest. Sleeves usually just cover the elbow, but they're not the old "three-quarter length" type. They're slim and "cut in one"—and require no shoulder padding. (Mr. Norell does not pad shoulders except in jackets with set-in sleeves.)

Norman Norell thinks that full skirts need a stiff fabric. He uses silk taffeta extensively and feels that this fabric will probably be even more important in the spring.

The full skirts are frequently given emphasis by fur trim at the border—"a la 1916." On jackets, there is often the delightful trim of old-fashioned frogging.

"For proper balance when skirts are big," Mr. Norell says, "heads must look small and neat." The hats presented with his clothes are small and close-fitting—and very pretty.

traina-norell reverses the triangle

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO. REPORTING

Great event of the New York fashion collections was the Traina-Norell showing. The trend towards natural shoulders and widely spreading skirts was most boldly stated here.

Gone are football shoulders and a silhouette that narrows toward the feet. This year the triangle is reversed. Your head is now the apex, and the bottom of your skirt the base.

Most illuminating example of the reversed triangle is this coat from our Norman Norell collection. It is in deep-piled, navy-blue wool, with Persian lamb collar and cuffs, has the surprise of a "flag" red lining. It slants loose and wide, from unpadded shoulders, to encompass without crushing your fullest skirt. It is one inch longer than your dress.

Whatever Norman Norell does one season is sure of a fashion following the next season. There is great beauty and originality in our Traina-Norell collection of coats, suits, day and evening dresses. We show them with considerable pride.

ROSENSTEIN LUXURIATES IN AMPLE FULLNESS

New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Nettie Rosenstein can take four-and-a-half yards of black crepe and make something interesting of it. She can and has done this innumerable times with innumerable four-and-a-half yards of black crepe—because Nettie Rosenstein is a technician. There's a masterful construction in her beautiful "little black dresses."

There's still the "little black dress," but Mrs. Rostenstein's eager welcome of enough fabric again, and the freedom unlimited quantities of materials gives, is distinctly seen in the exciting silhouettes of her new clothes.

"It's a luxurious silhouette this fall and winter," she happily declares, and adds, "It's a terrific thrill to the designer to be able to let herself go with no limitations."

The skirts in Nettie Rosenstein's collection show a varied use of freshly important fullness—in masses of pleats, in folds, in sweeping lengths.

However, Mrs. Rosenstein does not feel that the new silhouette is as unprecedented or startling as it might seem. "The ankle length is not new," she states, "I showed it in cocktail dresses at my Spring Opening." The dipping hemlines and front drapery were also part of this earlier group.

(Actually, it was collections such as Rosenstein's that gave impetus to this "new" trend that came from Paris.)

Although black is Nettie Rosenstein's affirmed basic color philosophy because it is the perfect background for jewels—and the woman who wears it—wonderfully dull colors for day make up an important part of her fall and winter things.

For evening wear, Mrs. Rosenstein believes in "fabric with body." She uses superb satins and heavy taffetas with great feeling for the beauty of the fabric, combined with her recognized capacity for the creation of a "perfect" dress.

Nettie Rosenstein advocates the smallest possible wardrobe as being most in keeping with today's vigorous pace. This theory does not seem strange emanating from a designer of women's clothes when one considers the individual beauty of each of Mrs. Rosenstein's costumes.

SKIRTS FLOURISH IN FASHION REVOLUTION

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO. REPORTING

Nettie Rosenstein always does wonderful things for a woman's figure. This year, with fabrics again available in quantity, her silhouettes are flattering to hips. No more broad derrières, no sat-out skirts.

Everywhere skirts are important—their length, their drapery, their profiles, their massed pleats, their folds, their width, their bulk. Rosenstein's are superb. Her cocktail suits and dresses hint at even greater length, with a swoop and a sweep to the back. See the rayon faille, left. The chin-up collar is a good cocktail conversation piece and gives a lovely lift to your head.

For the most exciting new version of Rosenstein's famous little black dress see the rayon crepe, right. The bodice so simple . . . the skirt so wham. It brings out the gypsy in you and sets off your tiny waist. Rosenstein always contrives a tiny waist, and with the bird-cage skirts they look smaller than ever.

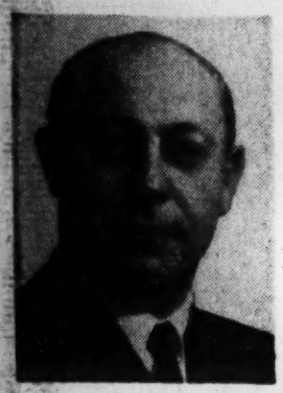
REIG'S COVER-UP CLOTHES SHOW YOUR SLIMNESS



New York, N. Y., Sept. 8.—A Ben Reig Original is, typically, demurely ladylike and utterly magnetic.

Ben Reig believes in manipulating fabric into clothes that will show your own slimness. This year his collection suggests a subtle newness in feeling rather than actual new silhouettes.

He adds no newness that is not completely flattering, yet presents great diversity in figure treatment.

Reig does a markedly small waistline, sometimes by catching it in the middle of a figure eight, sometimes by smoothing it between a bolero top and the fullness of an unpressed-pleated skirt.

A "young look" is expressed not only in trim little waists, but, more importantly, in skirts. He joins "the slim hip to a full hem" through stitched-to-stay-that-way accordion pleats, rows of notch tucks and "shadow pleated" skirts with plain, wide hemline bands.

A delightful Reig contribution for this season is a series of ankle-length—and shorter—"restaurant dresses" which are designed in a youthful, covered-up, "Sunday" manner.

Ben Reig likes to show his daytime suits with fur "throat pieces" and his dresses with long strings of jewel-tone crystals; but the famous Reig theatre suits and evening dresses blaze with wonderful embroidered jewels, jet and stripes of tiny gold pailletes.

ben reig's long-sleeved beauties

SKIRTS FULL, SLEEVES TIGHT, WAISTS TINY

JULIUS GARFINCKEL & CO. REPORTING

There's a new look in fashion. This is due not only to the new clothes, but to a new pose: serene, ladylike, poised. The new fashions call for carriage. Even college girls feel the change.

There's a beautifully stylized quality in the Ben Reig evening collection — low décolletage, wasp waist, spreading skirt, and long, tight sleeves for emphasis. The sumptuousness of all new evening fashions is a tribute to femininity. Skirts are ankle length or full to the floor, depending upon the occasion.

The beautiful black rayon taffeta, sketched, has a décolletage garland of pearls and gold and glitter, with a nude marquisette yoke to prevent a slip. Another important evening dress from this collection has a jet-embroidered black lace shirtwaist top over bronze satin, the satin released at the waist to fall in gleaming folds to the floor.

Watch for our Ben Reig black lace over red taffeta, the lace applied flat as a print. It's off-shoulder with long, tight sleeves, full swirling skirt, and is ankle length. Another long-sleeved ankle-length lace is a brown Chantilly with extended hipline, revealing a bare-bosom sheath underneath.
